THE FORTY-THIRD REPORT
OF
THE DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,

I RESPECTFULLY beg leave to submit to Your Majesty my Annual Report of the proceedings in the Public Record Office for the year 1881: pursuant to the Act 1 & 2 Vict., c. 94., § 17.

I. FAC-SIMILES OF NATIONAL MANUSCRIPTS, &c.,
BY PROCESS OF PHOTOZINCOGRAPHY, &c.

These operations have been continued during 1881, at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton, under the direction of Mr. William Basevi Sanders, an Assistant Keeper of Records, who is stationed there; further details will be found in Mr. Sanders' Report for that year, submitted to Your Majesty in Appendix I. to the present Report (No. 6). Mr. Sanders has also continued his Calendar and Index to the Close Rolls, 5 Edw. I.

II. SHAFTESBURY PAPERS.

In the Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-fifth, and Thirty-ninth Reports to Your Majesty, it is mentioned that the Earl of Shaftesbury had presented to this Office at different times his collection of Family Manuscripts, containing many important Papers which relate to English History. His Lordship, 9 April 1881, brought a further portion, which has been incorporated with those previously presented. A Report upon the Papers now given is annexed (Appendix I., No. 7), a copy being transmitted to the Earl of Shaftesbury.

III. CALENDARS AND TRANSCRIPTS.

The progress in the Calendars in 1881 is also mentioned in § XII., and in App. I., No. 9.

A further portion of the Calendar of the Patent Rolls in this Office is submitted to Your Majesty (Appendix I., No. 4), being for the second year of Edward I., calendared by Mr. Frank Scott Haydon, the Senior Clerk in the Department. An introduction to the Calendar annexed to this Report points out in detail the variations between the form adopted in the present and the last Reports for the sake of conciseness. The contents of the Roll for the second year are of greater general interest than for the first year.

In Appendix I., No. 2, is an Inventory of Court Rolls of Your Majesty's Duchy of Lancaster, from Henry III. to George IV., in England and Wales, forming a series extending from three to five centuries; these Rolls refer to a variety of rights, customs, duties, and services; such as Feudal Customs, Mutual Responsibility, Matters of Diet, Forest Laws, Tolls, Nuisances, Morals, Games, &c. To the Calendar are annexed an Index Nominum and an Index Locorum. The arrangement of the Records, with formation of Indices, &c., was made by Mr. Robert Douglas Trimmer, a Senior Clerk in this Office.

Another Calendar of Records relating to the Duchy of Lancaster, namely, the Privy Seals of the reign of Richard II., has been made by Mr. Henry St. James Stephen, a Junior Clerk in the Office, and forms No. 3 of the Appendix I. These Privy Seals supply, in part, the want of a perfect series of Patent Rolls for that reign.

Appendix I., No. 1, contains a Calendar of the first portion of the Chancery Series of Privy Seals, Signed Bills, &c., for the reign of Charles I. This series comprises about 634 bundles; the portion in the present Report extends from 1 to 7 Charles I., and has been calendared by Mr. George Joseph Morris, a Junior Clerk in this Office. A further portion will probably be submitted to Your Majesty in the next Report.

Among the Miscellaneous Exchequer Records deposited in this Office is a small bundle which contains some Documents relating to the Conspiracy of the Earl of Cambridge and others against Henry V. They are in bad condition and difficult to decipher. This task has, however, been attempted by Mr. James Gairdner, an Assistant Keeper of the Public Records, with the help of Mr. Charles Trice Martin, a Senior Clerk. The result, with the observations of Mr. Gairdner on the historical value of the Documents, is submitted to Your Majesty in the Appendix to this Report (I., § 5).

Of the Calendars of State Papers printed for Sale (of which series 115 Volumes have been published), five Volumes were published in 1881, and 778 copies sold, making a total of 12,901 sold of the series. The present state of these Calendars will be found in the Appendix I. (No. 9). The Volumes published in 1881 were :—

(1 and 2.) The Sixth and Seventh Volumes of the Calendar of Domestic State Papers during the Commonwealth, edited by Mrs. Everett Green, extending from 1 March 1654 to 31 October 1655. The principal Papers calendared in these Volumes are those relating to the Peace with Holland ; to various Domestic Reforms ; to the elections for, and meeting of, Cromwell's first Parliament, and the expensive arrangements for surrounding him with the customary appliances of sovereignty ; plots of the friends of Charles I. against the Protector ; serious difficulties with Scotland ; Papers relating to the Tower of London, its Fees, Prisoners, &c. ; numerous Navy Papers ; arrears of pay to the Army and Navy ; persecutions of the Waldenses by the Duke of Savoy ; capture of Jamaica from Spain ; &c.

(3.) The Third Volume of the modern portion of the Domestic or Home Office Papers of the reign of George III., extending from 2 January 1770 to 31 December 1772, edited by Mr. Richard Arthur Roberts, a Junior Clerk in the Public Record Office. The principal subjects calendared in this Volume relate to the Colonies in the West Indies, in New York, and other American Provinces ; the conflict between Russia and Turkey ; disputes between England and Spain ; disturbances in the Barbary States, and in Jersey ; distress in the Isle of Man ; Riots, &c., in Ireland ; Food Riots in England ; Fire in Portsmouth Dockyard ; &c.

(4.) The Fourth Volume of the Calendar of Documents relating to Ireland, preserved in the Public Record Office, London, from 1293 to 1301 inclusive, edited by Mr. H. S. Sweetman. The Documents calendared in this Volume relate to Appointments ; Castles ; the Church ; Customs ; the Exchequer ; Wars of Flanders, Gascony, Scotland, and Wales ; Inquisitions and Extents ; Judiciary ; Lands ; Legal Proceedings ; Merchandize, Foreign Merchants, &c. ; Monasteries and Convents ; Tolls ; Letters of Presentations ; The Tenth in Ireland ; &c.

(5.) Calendar of State Papers and Manuscripts, relating to English affairs, existing in the Archives and Collections of Venice and in other Libraries of Northern Italy ; Vol. VI., Part II., edited by Rawdon Brown, Esq. This Part extends from 20 October 1556 to 31 October 1557, and the third Part of Vol. VI. is nearly all in the printers' hands. The work has been delayed by a serious accident to Mr. Rawdon Brown. He has, however, transmitted to this Office four Volumes of Translations of Italian Transcripts of Despatches in the Archives of Venice and elsewhere, relating to British History, making a total of 124 Volumes of Transcripts, &c., so transmitted.

Don Pascual de Gayangos has continued the Calendar of Spanish Papers to the end of 1533. The last portion of the text of Vol. IV., Part II., was sent to the Printers in December 1881, with the Index and Introduction. Of Vol. V., Part I. (probably from 1534 to 1537), the greater portion is ready in manuscript.

Other operations in regard to Foreign Documents will be found in § V.

IV. CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

Three additional Volumes of this series were published in 1881, making a total of 166 Volumes already published; 1,131 Volumes were sold in that year, making a total of 37,516 Volumes sold. A list of the works published in 1881, and of those in progress at the end of that year, is given in the Appendix I. (No. 10).

V. RESEARCHES, &c., IN FOREIGN DOCUMENTS.

In addition to the operations previously mentioned on the Venetian and Spanish Documents, the following researches, &c., have taken place, during 1881, on Documents in Rome, Sweden (2), and Paris.

Rome.—Mr. William Henry Bliss has continued his researches in the Libraries and Secret Archives of Rome, and forwarded 15 bundles of valuable Transcripts, which have been consulted by searchers in this Office. He has also made Reports of his proceedings at Rome.

Stockholm.—Mr. Bliss having also, with the approval of the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury, been employed to make a complete examination and report on the collection of State Papers connected with English and Scottish affairs preserved among the Public Archives at Stockholm, proceeded to that city and commenced the investigation during the period the Vatican Library was closed. His First Report on Papers relating to the History of England is annexed to the present Report (Appendix II., No. 2). Mr. Bliss will repeat his visit in 1882.

Stockholm, Skokloster, Upsala, &c.—The Rev. William Dunn Macray, M.A., Rector of Ducklington, Oxfordshire, having been recommended to the Lords Commissioners of Your Majesty's Treasury, to proceed to Sweden and to examine and report on the State Papers preserved in the Castle of Skokloster, their Lordships approved of the inquiry, and Mr. Macray arrived at Stockholm for that purpose on 11 August 1881. Circumstances, however, mentioned in Mr. Macray's Report (App. II., No. 1), prevented Mr. Macray making so full a report as he had contemplated on the Documents at Skokloster, and he therefore has reported, in addition to the Skokloster Documents, on Documents preserved in the Royal Library, Stockholm, in the Upsala Library, &c., all which Reports are hereto annexed (App. II., No. 1).

Paris.—M. Armand Baschet continues his valuable researches in the Public Libraries and Archives of Paris for Documents illustrating British History, and makes annual Reports thereon. A collection of Transcripts was received from M. Baschet at the end of the year 1881, of which a list is annexed to this Report (App. I., No. 8).

VI. CANADIAN ARCHIVES.

During the year 1881, Mr. Douglas Brymner, Archivist of the Dominion of Canada, was in Great Britain, with instructions from the Canadian Government to ascertain the nature, number, and historical character of Manuscripts and Records in the Public Record Repositories of Great Britain, and the means taken to collect, arrange, preserve, and render them accessible to the public.

Since Mr. Brymner's return to Canada, he has made a most interesting Report on the object of his inquiries in Great Britain, which has been printed, and a copy of which, with the permission of the Canadian Ministry, is annexed to this Report (App. II., No. 3). It has been annexed as printed in Canada. Although there are many statements therein which are already mentioned in various Reports of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records, it contains much other useful and interesting information on the Records of the United Kingdom, and merits a wider circulation in this country, as giving the opinions of an Officer not connected with the English Records, and as affording a well-deserved testimony to the praiseworthy exertions of Mr. Brymner.

VII. THE ACT 40 & 41 VICT. c. 55.

The Rules, &c., made by the Master of the Rolls, pursuant to the above Act, so far as they relate to the Chancery Masters' Documents in his charge and superintendence, were laid before Your Majesty in my Fortieth Report (§§ I. and VI., Appendix, Nos. 10 and 11). Further particulars relating to these Documents will be found in the Forty-first Report (§ IV.) the Forty-second Report (§ IV.), and the present Report (§ VIII.), where their removal from Southampton Buildings is mentioned, with other operations.

The inquiry into the other portion of the above-mentioned Act, relating to the disposal of valueless Documents in the Public Record Office, has also been commenced under the direction of a Committee appointed for that purpose. The Committee made their First Report to the Master of the Rolls, on 14 December 1881; and the further proceedings in connexion therewith will be noticed in the Deputy Keeper's Report for 1882.

VIII. FEES : GOVERNMENT AND OTHER BUSINESS, &c.

The amount of Business in the Search Office, and of Fees received, in 1881, is as follows :—

255 Attendances - -	161	11	6

The total amount of Fees received, and paid to the account of the Consolidated Fund, from 1840, is 30,498*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*

The number of registered applications for Records in the Search Office by the Public, in 1881, was 31,427, each application being on an average for more than ten documents. This number does not include the daily inquiries for information, which are verbally answered and disposed of. 36,249 membranes and leaves were stamped before their production to searchers, a regulation which cannot be dispensed with. This number is in addition to 15,161 membranes and leaves which were already stamped, and were reproduced, making a total of 51,410 membranes and leaves consulted by searchers in 1881.

NUMBER of SEARCHES, INSPECTIONS, ISSUES, and RETURNS of GOVERNMENT PAPERS, for GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS, in 1881.

Departments.	Number of Searches or Applications.	Number of Inspections, Issues, Returns, &c.
Treasury - - - - -	115	1,387
Home Office - - - - -	30	206
Foreign Office - - - - -	395	917
Colonial Office - - - - -	383	967
War Office - - - - -	624	7,236
Admiralty (Whitehall) - - - - -	288	4,130
" (Registry) - - - - -	4	13
Lord Chamberlain's Office - - - - -	4	327
Paymaster General's Office - - - - -	1	1
Total - - - - -	1,917	15,261

The preceding table does not, however, give an adequate idea of the business transacted in the Public Record Office for Government Departments, inasmuch as searches for, and references to, the Documents wanted, often occupy many days; and long copies of Documents are frequently required and made for those Departments.

21,300 Books and Papers have been stamped before their transmission to Government Departments. These are not included in the number stamped for searchers above-mentioned.

The examination into the Documents belonging to the late Masters of the Court of Chancery has been continued as mentioned in former Reports. The new Rules and Regulations, pursuant to the Act 40 & 41 Vict. c. 55., are given in the Fortieth Report (§ I., and Appendix, Nos. 10 and 11). On 14 October 1879 the Master of the Rolls, pursuant to the Act 23 & 24 Vict. c. 149. s. 9., appointed Mr. William John Hardy to have the care of these Documents. The greater part of them were formerly in the Office in Southampton Buildings, in 12 vaults and two presses, and in the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls in like manner as other Records under the Public Record Act of 1838, there not being room in the Record Repository to receive them. Some Documents and the Indexes had been transferred to the Repository. The remaining portion was removed to the houses in the Rolls Yard, forming a portion of the Public Record Office, in November and December 1881. It consisted of 400 lists, 927 boxes, 7,018 volumes, 6,063 bundles of papers, &c., 8 rolls, and 20 plans. The keys of the vaults and presses in which the Documents were deposited in Southampton Buildings have been given over to the Officers of the Patent Office. 22 applications were made to inspect those Documents in 1881; some have been refused. The classes of Documents are being sorted, indexed, &c.

The assistance afforded by the Record Officers to the Historical Manuscripts Commission has been continued (Fortieth Report, § VI.) ; some repairs of Documents for the Commission have also been executed.

In the Fortieth Report (§ VI.) it is stated that Returns were in progress, for the Houses of Lords and Commons, of the names of Members returned to serve in Parliament. The Returns have been continued, and an Index to them has been in course of compilation for more than a year, and is not yet completed.

IX. TRANSFERS AND REMOVALS.

Transfers of Documents have been made into this Office during the year 1881, from the Offices of the Royal Courts of Justice, Treasury Solicitor's Office, Home Office, Foreign Office, War Office, and Register General's Office; amounting to 2,979 volumes, 2,267 bundles, parcels, portfolios, &c., and 3 dockets.

X. ARRANGEMENT, REPAIRS, BINDING, AND SIMILAR OPERATIONS.

The important duties of repairing and arranging the Records have been carried on in the usual manner during the year, viz., 2,370 bundles, &c., have been arranged; 22,790 membranes and leaves have been flattened; 5,420 membranes and leaves guarded; 1,252 membranes and 5,202 leaves repaired; 4 volumes, 526 membranes, and 5,150 leaves sewed; 5,175 leaves repaired by the process of sizing; 31,046 volumes, bundles, membranes,

&c., numbered; 21,300 rolls, volumes, bundles, and membranes stamped; 5,150 leaves collated; 3,047 rolls, bundles, &c., tied up; 8,589 rolls, 1,009 files, and 5,048 bundles ticketed; 4,455 rolls, bundles, &c., dusted; Papers incorporated with the series to which they belong; 254 volumes bound, bindings repaired, &c.; slips of Indexes, &c., arranged alphabetically, &c.; lists of documents made, stitched, &c.

APPENDIX I.

TO THE

FORTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS.

No. 1.—PRIVY SEALS, SIGNED BILLS, &c. (CHANCERY SERIES). CALENDAR OF, FOR THE REIGN OF CHARLES I.

THE Rolls Chapel collection of Privy Seals, Signed Bills, &c., of which only a portion is here calendared, extends from the reign of Henry VII. to the present time (the documents still accruing), and comprises about 634 bundles. These instruments of the reign of Charles I. may be classified for the most part under the following heads :—

Commissions and Grants.
Appointments, Civil and Ecclesiastical.
Proclamations.
Creations.
Charters.
Denizations.

Licences in Mortmain.
Warrants and Annuities.
Patents for Inventions, &c.
Wine Licences.
Liveries and Licences of the Court of Wards.
&c.

The present arrangement is chronological, the principal date, given in the fourth column, being that of the Privy Seal, as shown by the Teste, or, in its absence, the Chancellor's Recepi, the date of delivery. In the case of a second teste, as in Liveries and Licences of the Court of Wards, the earlier date is followed. In other cases where two dates are given, the later is the date of the delivery to the Chancellor, and is usually that of the Letters Patent founded upon the Privy Seal. Each document is distinguished by a number indicating its place in the regnal year, signified in the first column. The second column is reserved for the commissioner, grantee, or person in whose interest the instrument passed the Privy Seal, and, in the case of Liveries and Licences of entry on lands, for the proximate ancestor from whom the lands descended, together with the date of his death. The subject matter of these documents being for the most part contained in the Patent Rolls, &c., the third column is limited to the briefest account of their nature that will suffice for their identification. The following abbreviations have been employed in this calendar :—

P. S. Privy Seal.
S. P. Signed Proclamation.
C. L. Commissioner's Lease.
B. C. W. Bill of the Court of Wards
(Licence of entry).

S. B. Signed Bill.
W. L. Wine Licence.
W. C. W. Warrant of the Court of Wards (Livery of land,
&c.).

No. 2.—DUCHY OF LANCASTER RECORDS.—INVENTORY OF COURT ROLLS.—HENRY III. TO GEORGE IV.

INTRODUCTION.

THE Duchy of Lancaster, as may be seen by the following Inventory, possessed estates in most of the counties of England, and extended into Wales; and, in consequence, the Rolls, which in many cases form a fairly complete series extending over periods of three to five centuries, show a corresponding variety of rights, customs, duties, and services.

The principal Courts are the Courts Leet and Courts Baron. It has not been thought necessary to describe the powers and functions of these Courts, as they will be found to be fully set out in Law Dictionaries and other Works of Reference.

The word "Court" has been used in this Inventory to describe such headings as "Curia," "Leta," "Visus Franci Plegii," "Visus Franci Plegii cum Curia," "Curia Magna," "Curia Parva," and "Curia Baronis," these terms being only a variety of renderings of the Courts Leet and Courts Baron. The names of other Courts have been given more at length. In cases in which the word "Halmote" has been used on the Rolls rather than "Court Baron," the Court has been so described in the Inventory.

The "Curia Capitalis," the General and Special Courts, and the Court of Pleas, which names appear on the Rolls of some few manors, are Courts more or less similar in their nature to Courts Baron.

Other Courts are the Sheriff's Tourn, the Hundred or Wapentake Court, the "Curia Militaris," the "Curia Recognitionum et Finium factorum pro respectu Homagii," the Foreign Court, the Piepowder or Market Court, the "Curia [Caunollat]," the Baker's Court, the Assize of Bread, the Lageday (or Law-day) Court, the Burley (or Bye Law) Court, the Woodmote and Swainmote Court, the Court of Attachment of the Forest, the Pannage Court, the Court of the Portreeve, the Tac of Swine, and the Portmote.

The Rolls have been arranged, as far as possible, under the counties in which the honors, manors, &c., are situate; but where these extend into two or more counties, the more prominent has been selected, and cross-references have been made to the others.

Lists of names of places occurring in the margin (or otherwise appearing conspicuously on the Rolls) have been supplied in footnotes, in addition to the names of the honors, manors, &c., to which the Courts are attached. In many cases these names will be found to recur more or less continuously through a considerable portion of a series of Rolls, while in other cases they occur rarely.

In consequence of the great extent of the honor of Tutbury it has been thought expedient to arrange the Rolls of that honor separately under their respective counties. A tabulated form showing the extent of the honor will be found in the Inventory under the county of Stafford.

A considerable addition has been made to the Rolls of the honor of Halton by the gift of Mr. William Beaumont, of Orford Hall, Warrington. This collection has been arranged with that of the Duchy; labels have been attached to the Rolls, marked "From Mr. Beaumont's Collection." They are indicated in the Inventory by an asterisk. The Halton Rolls afford much information on questions of markets, mills, and fishing in the Mersey and other waters.

The value of Court Rolls to the antiquarian and others interested in the history of particular localities is well recognised, for the light they shed on the relations between the lord and his tenants, the descents of families through many generations, and the local manners and customs of the people. A few instances are subjoined for the purpose of showing the variety of the information thus to be obtained, for instance:—

FEUDAL CUSTOMS:—Heriots; the tenant's best beast, at his death became the property of the lord. Ingress Fines, otherwise called reliefs, were payable to the lord by the new tenant, and homage and fealty were due on his taking possession of lands and tenements. "Inquisitio ex officio" "capta pro Domino ad inquirendum pro Domino de diversis articulis quæ ex parte Domini eis ibidem" "injunguntur [juratores] presentant quod Robertus Benet qui de Domino tenuit j. mesuagium cum "terrâ adjacente in Whiteley mortuus est post cujus mortem accidit Domino de herietto j. vacca "precii viij s. sic vendita. Et super hoc venit Willielmus filius suus et petit se admitti ad mesuagium "et terram predicta tenenda ad terminum vite et admissus est. Et dat de fine pro ingressu habendo "vj d. Et fecit inde Fidelitatem." (Roll for honor of Halton; 17 Ric. 2.) Socage Tenure entitled the lord to have his lands ploughed at the charge of the tenants and with their own ploughs. "Willielmus "Wythere, Nicholas Alcyne, Thomas Tunsted, et Robertus Bradwall Franc', presentant quod Willielmus "Wythere senior qui tenuit de Domino ij. bovatas terre in Socagio per iiij s. viij d., mortuus est. E "super hoc venit Willielmus filius et heres dicti Willielmi et dat Domino de Relevio ix s. iiij d." (Roll for Wirksworth, 3 Hen. 4.) Marchets or Maiden Rents were fines payable to the lord by tenants at the marriage of their daughters. "Marchetum v s.—De Margeria filia Willielmi del Grene nativi Domini de

"fine pro licencia se maritandi Ricardo Bacone infra Dominium v s. per plegium dicti Willielmi." (Roll for honor of Tutbury, co. Stafford, 4 Hen. 4.)

MUTUAL RESPONSIBILITY.—The members of a vill were liable for the appearance of each member in Court to do suit and service. "Et villata in misericordia pro defectu unius Franc'." (Roll for hundred of Appletree, 10 Ric. 2.)

MATTERS OF DIET.—These were regulated in Court; an ale taster was elected there. Numerous entries testify to the constant infringement of the Assize of Bread and Ale. "Johannes Kyng' et Willielmus Kyng' tastatores cervisie ibidem jurati presentant quod Johannes Dychefeld ⁱⁱⁱd, Laurencius Harrysson ⁱⁱⁱd, et Willielmus Dawne ⁱⁱd, sunt communes brasiatores et frugerunt assisam, Ideo in misericordia, &c." (Roll for honor of Leicester, 19 Edw. 4.) "Et quod Willielmus Spencer ⁱⁱⁱd, et Petrus Wyott ⁱⁱⁱd, sunt communes carnifices et venderunt carnes excessive, Ideo ipsi in misericordia." (Roll for manor of Casteldonyngton, 13 Hen. 8.) The clerk of the markets presided at the Market Court and examined weights and measures. "Et quod metæ ibidem sunt defectivæ. Ideo preceptum est villatæ construere illas citra proximam curiam sub penâ xl d', &c." (Roll for honor of Leicester, 5 Edw. 4.) Some manors held special Courts called the Assize of Bread and Ale, the Baker's Court, and the "Curia [Caumollat']."

FOREST LAWS.—An examination of the proceedings in the Woodmotes and other Forest Courts of the honors of Tutbury, Leicester, &c., will show that these were strictly enforced.

FISHING REGULATIONS.—Much information on this subject will be found on the Rolls of the manor of Glatton, especially the Roll for 2 & 3 Hen. 5.

TOLLS AND NUISANCES.—These came within the cognizance of the courts; "Et quod Ricardus Hulle ⁱⁱd, qui tenet molendinum aquaticum ibidem cepit tolnetum excessive. Ideo ipse in misericordia prout preceptum est, &c. Et quod idem Ricardus habet et tenet j gallum et diversas gallinas ad nocummentum tenencium. Ideo ipse in misericordia prout preceptum est, &c." (Roll for honor of Leicester, 5 Edw. 4.)

MORALS.—The courts regulated morals as far as possible.—"Gersuma ij s. viij d.—Et quod Agnes Skot nativa Domini peperit filiam extra matrimonium. Ideo dat Domino de Gersumâ." (Roll for manor of Beston, co. Norfolk, 13 Ric. 2.)

GAMES.—Games also came within the supervision of the courts. "Et quod Thomas Fippe ^{vi}d, et Ricardus Wale ⁱⁱⁱd, permiserunt diversis ludere ad carpsas et alios ludos illicitos in domibus suis contra formam Statuti inde nuper editi et provisi." (Roll for manor of Casteldonyngton, 2 Hen. 8.)

NO. 3.—DUCHY OF LANCASTER RECORDS: CALENDAR OF PRIVY SEALS OF THE COUNTY PALATINE.—RICHARD II.

The bundle of privy seals, of which the following is an alphabetically arranged calendar, was lately transferred with other Lancashire Records from the County Palatine of Lancaster to the Public Record Office. These documents, to some extent, supply a want occasioned by the absence of a perfect series of patent rolls for the reign of Richard II.

- Aghton, Thomas de. See Latham, Thomas de.
 Aldecliffe. See Lonsdale, tenants of.
- Dec. 5. Aldelem, John de, and Richard de Longbarowe; grant of the lands 15 Ric. II. and tenements of Ellen late daughter and heiress of Thomas de Latham, so long as the duke is entitled to them, and the said Ellen having died a minor, the rents and profits of the same to be paid to dame Catharine de Swynford. No. 26.
- Anlasargh, freehold in. See Fasacreley, Roger de.
 Ardern, John. See Bolde, Geoffry de.
- Dec. 4. Aynesworth, John de, indicted for the murder of Geoffry del Holt, and 15 Ric. II. other felonies, to be admitted to bail. No. 28.
- Banastre, Adam. See Banastre, Agnes.
- May 4. Banastre, Agnes, who was the wife of Thomas, chancellor, and Edward 4 Ric. II. his son and heir; warrant for grant to them of the custody of the lands and tenements of late held in capite by the said Thomas, to hold in moieties, during the minority of the said Edward, subject to the dower of Petronilla Trussell, mother of the said Thomas, and to certain annual rents payable to Peter Bolleron, Adam Banastre, Adam Skilicorne, and Nicholas Crispin. No. 4.—CALENDAR OF PATENT ROLLS; 2 EDWARD I.—Continued from 42nd Report, App. No. 3.

INTRODUCTION.

THE plan of the Calendar which follows is in its main outline identical with that of the Calendar presented in the Forty-second Report of the Deputy-Keeper of the Public Records (pp. 483–721). But it has been judged desirable to introduce a few trifling changes of detail, with the double object of rendering the present Calendar more generally useful to those who shall consult it, and of diminishing still further its excessive voluminousness. The latter end has been attained by the omission of almost all cross-references, and the former has been furthered by the introduction of numbers to the entries on each membrane. The contents of the Patent Roll 2 Edward I. are of much greater general interest than the contents of the corresponding roll of the first year, and the entries relating to special assises form a much smaller fraction of the whole number of entries than was the case in that year. The diminution (which is approximately in the ratio of 10 to 25) could not have been due to the re-appointment of the Justices Itinerant, whose Iters, it may be remembered, had been suspended, until the arrival of Edward, by the Council which assembled at Westminster just after the death of Henry III.; for only one such appointment, and that for the county of Middlesex, is entered on the roll (m. 3 (16) p. 151). Nor is any reference to be found on the Liberate Rolls to the payment of Justices Itinerant in the second year.

Dugdale (Orig. Jur. 2nd ed., Chronica Series, p. 25) gives two entries of this appointment, one from the Patent Roll just referred to, and one from the Close Roll 2 Edward I., m. 4d., in which Elias de Bekingham stands in the place of Solomon de Rochester, but he does not explain the reason of the change. The entry on the Close Roll is dated at Windsor on the 2nd October 2 Edward I. [A.D. 1274], and therefore preceded by some weeks that on the Patent Roll, which is dated on the 7th November 2 Edward I. [A.D. 1274]. The differences between the two entries are there explained in an addition written after the date. It appears that the Iter was originally summoned for the Octave of S. Martin, Elias de Bekingham being first appointed. Solomon de Rochester is here substituted for him, and the justices are informed that they are to proceed without Walter de Hopton, whom the King retains with him to hold Pleas of the Crown. The names of the justices in the entry on the Close Roll are written on erasures.

With regard to the date at which the Iters of these justices were revived, there are considerable differences of opinion between legal historians. Dugdale (Orig. Jurid. 2nd ed., Chronica Series, pp. 25, 27, 29) gives instances, year after year, under the heading “Justitiarii Itinerantes,” of Iters down to A.D. 1285. Professor Stubbs, however (Const. Hist. II. 271.), denies, apparently, that there were any regular Eyres between the first year and A.D. 1285, when, by the 30th Article of the Statute of Westminster the Second, justices were appointed to take assises, &c., in regular circuits thrice a year. Mr. Foss (Lives of the Judges, iii. p. 28) holds a different view. “It was ordained” [at the Council of January, A.D. 1272–3] “that there should be no Itinerant Judges until King Edward’s return to England. He arrived in the following year, when the circuits were renewed, all the regular Justiciars acting in their turn, ...” The Editor of the Hundred Rolls, assuming, which was certainly not the case, that the Iters were regularly taken once in seven years, and that the septennial period did not elapse until 6 Edward I., considers that the first Iter in Edward’s reign was that taken after the enactment of the Statute of Gloucester in 6 Edward I., and mentions subsequent rolls in Eyre, particularly that of 21 Edward I. The Liber Custumarum (p. 290) states that there was no Iter for London between 4 Edward I. and 14 Edward II.; but, Mr. Nicholls (Introduction to Britton, p. xxxii. note a) states “that, in a MS. of the University of Cambridge” (? of the University Library), an Iter is reported of 22 Edward I., the proceedings in which are described as “Placita apud London in Itinere de Middel-sexe.” But, over and above the differences of opinion as to the date at which the Iters were revived, and as if to render confusion worse confounded, there are other differences as to the meaning of the phrase “Justices Itinerant.”

Bracton, who wrote about A.D. 1259, is very precise, and uses the title in the widest sense (ed. Twiss. ii. 181), including under it justices “ad omnia placita” or only “ad quedam specialia sicut ad assisas tantum et gaolas, et qui autoritatem

No. 4.—Calendar of Patent Rolls: 2 Edward I.—continued.

“habere incipiant sine sacramento, cum breve domini regis receperint de warranto,” that is, the Justices appointed to take all pleas (Pleas of the Crown as well as Common Pleas) in defined circuits, those similarly appointed to take Common Pleas only, or Pleas of the Crown only, or for gaol deliveries, or to take assises generally, or even only two, or three, or more were called “Justices Itinerant” by Bracton. They are, in fact, opposed by him to the “Justitiarum residentes” and the “Justitiarum à latere Regis.” But it was not in this sense that the phrase was used on the Close Roll 2 Edward I., as will appear from the words of the writ of summons to the Sheriff of Middlesex on m. 3d. which are—“facias etiam clamari et sciri per totam ballivam” “tuam quod omnes assisæ et omnia placita quæ fuerunt atterminata et non finita vel quæ fuerunt summonita coram Justitiariis nostris apud Westmonasterium vel coram Justitiariis nostris qui ultimo itineraverunt in Comitatu prædicto ad omnia placita vel coram Justitiariis nostris illuc missis ad assisas novæ disseisinæ capiendas vel ad gaolas deliberandas quod tunc sint, &c.” These are approximately the same words as those in the writ of summons given in Bracton (li. iii. p. 188); and a clear distinction is drawn by them between Justices Itinerant and justices sent to try particular assises, or for gaol deliveries.

Of modern writers, one describes the commission or commissions in pursuance of which the Inquisitions known as the “Hundred Rolls” were taken as “Commissions of Justices Itinerant.” They are not so described on the rolls themselves. Another narrows the meaning of the phrase by drawing a distinction between Justices Itinerant and Justices in Eyre, and confines the epithet “Itinerant” to those justices who were appointed by Henry II. to go their circuits yearly, or twice a year; while the justices who went circuit once in three or four years he calls “Justices in Eyre.”

That there were Iters, in one or other of these various senses, between the coronation of Edward and the enactment of the Statute of Gloucester is clear from an entry in the Liberate Roll of 4 Edward I. (m. 4.). It is an “allocate” to William de Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, for sums advanced by him in pursuance of the King’s precept, to Nicholas de Stapelton, William de Saham, Solomon de Rochester, and John de Reigate, “Justitiariis nostris nuper itinerantibus in Comitatu prædicto,” i.e., Worcester. The entry is dated 16th May 4 Edward I. [A.D. 1276]. The Statute of Rageman was enacted in the October Parliament 4 Edward I. [A.D. 1276], so that the Iter just mentioned could not have been taken in pursuance of it. Nor was it taken in the second year, for the advance made to Stapelton by the Earl is distinctly stated to have been made “ad expensas suas quas fecit in servitio nostro anno regni nostri secundo et . . . in itinere prædicto.” The Iter therefore must have been taken in the third or fourth year. In fact on m. 23. of the Patent Roll 3 Edward I. we find the appointment (dated 15th May) of Stapelton, Saham, Reigate, and Rochester as Justices Itinerant “hac vice ad communia placita” for co. Worcester.

But the entries on the Liberate Rolls further show that there were Iters in 4 Edward I. for the City and Tower of London, in 5 Edward I. (for Bedfordshire) (omitted by Dugdale), 6 Edward I. (for Cumberland and Herts), and on the Patent Roll 7 Edward I. there is (m. 6.) an appointment of Reigate, Leukenore, Northburgh, Rochester, and Boylaund as Justices Itinerant, “ad communia placita hac vice,” in Dorset, Somerset, Wilts, Southampton, Devon, and Cornwall (Dugdale Orig. Jurid. 2nd ed., Chronica Series, p. 27, gives only Dorset, Somerset, and Wilts), and a reference (m. 6.) to the Justices last Itinerant in Kent. On Close Roll 6 Edward I. (m. 6. on a cedula) are two lists of Justices Itinerant, one “versus boream” for Cumberland, Westmoreland, and Northumberland, and one “versus austrum” for Herts and Kent. At the end of the list is a note: “Prædicti Justitiiarii ordinati fuerunt per ipsum Regem et alios de consilio suo apud Gloucestriam in locis prædictis in præsentia ipsius Regis Episcoporum Hereford’ et Norwici Willelmi de Valentia, Antonii Bek’ et aliorum de consilio ipsius Regis ibi præsentium.” This last Iter, therefore, was taken in pursuance of the Statute of Gloucester. Any further examination of the Public Records in reference to the existence of Iters between 1 Edward I. and 13 Edward I. would hardly repay the labour bestowed upon it, for Dugdale, whose industry and accuracy are, in spite of occasional mistakes, above all suspicion, has, in the “Chronica Series” appended to his “Origines Juridicales,” continued the list of Justices Itinerant down to the end of the reign of Edward I. It terminates in 22 Edward III.

It appears to me that the statement of Sir Edward Coke that “as the power of the justices . . . of assises increased so these Justices Itinerant by little and little vanished” expresses the exact truth. It is extremely unlikely that the appointment of Justices of Assise in A.D. 1285 should have abolished the Justices

Itinerant at one stroke, or that the Iters of the latter should have ceased entirely after the Council of A.D. 1272, which, it is asserted (on the authority of a single anonymous monastic annalist), suspended them until Edward's arrival in England.

The appointments of the Justices of Assise (I call them so provisionally) to circuits are entered on the Close Roll 2 Edward I. (m. 3d.). To Montfort and Heym are assigned Cornwall, Devon, Somerset, Southampton, Dorset, Wilts, Gloucestershire, Herefordshire, Staffordshire, Salop, and Worcestershire; to Charrun and Northburgh—Notts, Derbyshire, Lancashire, Cumberland, Westmoreland, Northumberland, Yorkshire, and Lincolnshire; to Leukenor and Metingham—Leicestershire, Warwickshire, Rutland, Northamptonshire, Bucks, Beds, Cambridgeshire, Hants, Norfolk, Suffolk, Oxfordshire, and Berks; to Cobeham and Bekingham—Sussex, Surrey, Kent, Essex, Herts, London, and Middlesex. These circuits, it will be seen, are entirely different from those given in the writs of association of the preceding year.

Dugdale (Orig. Jurid. 2nd ed., Chronica Series, p. 25) has made a very serious blunder in transcribing the list of appointments given above. He actually gives the first nineteen counties, really including two circuits of two judges each, to Montfort and Heym, instead of dividing them between Montfort and Heym and Charrun and Northburgh, and he omits the last nineteen, constituting two more circuits of two judges each, altogether. So that his list of Justices of Assise ("ad assisas, juratas, et certificationes") runs as follows: "Henr. de Monteforti," "Stephanus Heym. In Com. Cornub., Devon, Somers., Suthamp., Dors., Wilts, "Glo., Heref., Salop, Staff., Wigorn, Nottingh., Derb., Lanc., Cumberl., Westmerl., Northumb., Ebor., Linc." the authority being "Claus. 2 Edw. I., m. 3. in dorso." It is not difficult to see how the first mistake arose when the entry on the Close Roll is examined, for the first heading, "Henr. de Monteforti et Stephanus Heym constituuntur ad assisas juratas et certificationes capiendas in Com. subscriptis" extends over the whole of the four columns in which the counties constituting the four circuits are arranged, and the three remaining headings to the three last circuits are written each under the other in échelon (to use a tactical word), and might very easily be missed by a rapid or careless copyist. But the second mistake is quite inexplicable.

The form of these appointments is slightly altered by the substitution of the word "certificationes" for the word "attinctas"; while their co-existence with those which were directed after the King's coronation to the Itinerant Justices proves quite clearly that the justices "ad assisas, &c.," were not identical, functionally at least, with the former.

For example, the last circuit of the justices "ad assisas, &c.," entered on the Close Roll 2 Edward I. (m. 3d.) contains the county of Middlesex, to which, and apparently to which only, Justices Itinerant were appointed, as we have seen above. But, besides this, in the writ of summons to the sheriff of Middlesex on the Close Roll (m. 4d.) the two sets of justices are mentioned separately.

With regard to the appointments of justices to try what are called later in the marginal headings of the appointments "speciales assisæ," and of which so many are entered on the early Patent Rolls, a comparison of the names of the justices in a very large number of them with the names of the justices contemporaneously appointed to take assises, &c., in circuits of counties has established beyond any reasonable doubt that, in certain cases, whether the justices appointed to try an assise, &c., in a particular county were, or were not, the justices assigned for the circuit to which the county belonged, a special patent was invariably entered on the Patent Rolls. The existence of these appointments in the former case, in which they were apparently superfluous, may be explained by the help of two passages in Britton's Second Book (c. xiv. 2 & c. xv. 7) which run respectively as follows:—

- (1.) "Et cum acun avera nos brefs purchacez, et eit purchace lettres de nos justices al viscount pur le certefier del jour et del leu de lour cessioun, tauntost serrount le bref original et la lettre les justices portez al viscounte; et le pleyntif retieque nos lettres patentes vers luy jehes au jour del play, et adoune les delivere sus as justices pur lour garraunt, car saunz garraunt general on especial ne porount rien terminer."
- (2.) "Et cum les parties soient venuz en jugement et le pleyntif ne ad mie nostre patente lettre de sa justicerie, les justices ne averount nul poer de oyer rien ne de rien terminer Messis le pleyntif eit la patente, tantost soit leu en audience;"

Britton is here describing the proceedings in an assise of novel disseisin. The "brefs" in the first passage were evidently the "bref original" to the sheriff and the "lettres patentes" which were the warrant to the justices to try the case, most probably the same as the "patente lettre de sa justicerie" in the second passage; now if this "patente lettre" had been the general patent addressed to the justices to try all assises in a defined circuit of counties, it would certainly not have been "purchacé" or "sued out"—and paid for—by the plaintiff in the assise. It cannot therefore have been anything but the special appointment which assigned certain justices to try the demandant's case. Britton makes no qualification of the statement that the demandant was always bound to deliver to the justices, on the day of the trial, a patent "purchased" by himself which up to that time he had retained in his own hands, and without which they would have had no power to hear or determine anything; and therefore the statement must be accepted as universally applicable, applicable even to those cases in which the more general appointment to the justices to try all assises in a defined circuit would have been at a later period a perfectly sufficient warrant to try the special case before them without any further authority "purchased" and paid for. This great writer, however, gives no explanation of the necessity for the purchase of this apparently superfluous special patent in such cases. Perhaps the inveteracy of legal custom and the King's perennial want of ready money may suggest one.

By the time of the composition of "La Novvelle Natura Brevium" the necessity for the patent which, in Britton's time, had to be exhibited in court by the demandant in an assise had disappeared, except in special cases. Indeed, according to the author of that work, after the enactment of the Statute of Westminster the Second, "*en ass' de nouel diss' suc deuant iustic' en eir, ou deuant iustices de banke le roy, ou de comen banke le pl' ne bosoign'" dauer' ascun patent al iustic' : quar eux out autoritie sans patêt, et issint out iustices dass' autorite de prendr' ass' de nouel disseisin sans ascun patêt fait a eux; et ceo par le Statute de Westm. 2., cap. 10." But, if the evidence of the Patent Rolls is worth anything, the special patents were still employed, and, of course, still paid for. "Si," says the "Iuge tres-ruerend Monsieur Anthoine Fitzherbert," (ed. 1553), "le brieve dassise soit port deuant auters iustices que deuant les iustices de ass' en mesme le countie . . . ils coment (sic) auer vn especial patent direct as mesmes les iustices, pur ceo q'ils ne sont les iustices dass' de cest com'," and he gives the form of the patent, which is approximately the same as that given by Dugdale (Orig. Jurid. as above, p. 53). Sir Matthew Hale (Fitzherbert's New Natura Brevium, ed. 1755, p. 411, note b) says on this point, "A general patent is sufficient for all assises arraigned before the Patent, but for those arraigned after it, there ought to be a special Patent." And the MS. note, in his hand, to the copy of the edition of the N. N. B. of 1609, formerly in the possession of Mr. Hargrave, corresponding to this, is: "generall Patent suffist pur les Assizes arreigne deuant le Patent, mes pur eux arreigne puis doit auer special patent." If this rule held at the dates 1 & 2 Edward I., it is clear that the Patent Rolls were not then a complete index to the Assise Rolls; but, as I have already said, only a "tolerably complete" one. The identification of the special appointments with the patents mentioned by Britton (which has been suggested to me, as a very probable hypothesis, by my colleague Mr. Harley Rodney) so satisfactorily clears up the difficulties which arise from the co-existence of the general assignments of justices to take assises, &c., in circuits with the special appointments of the same justices to take particular assises, &c., in which the subject of litigation is connected with one of the counties in the circuit, that I am unwilling to relinquish it until very good cause indeed shall be produced by competent legal antiquarians against its adoption.

It may be interesting, before dismissing the subject, to give a few instances from the rolls of dates subsequent to the Statute 21 Edward I. of the number of these special appointments entered on them.

On the Patent Roll 49 Edward III. there are two such entries, one on each of the two parts. On that of 50 Edward III. are two appointments on the first part and one on the second. On that of 51 Edward III. there are three such appointments. On that of 1 Richard II., containing six parts and 219 membranes, I find 14 of these appointments. Going on to 9 Richard II., in two parts, I find 11 of them. In the Patent Roll of the next year are three special assises in the two parts. On that of 10 Henry IV., in two parts, are 11; on 10 Henry V. there is one; on 10 Henry VI. there are eight; on 10 Edward IV. there is not one. By the time of Richard III. and Henry VII. they had disappeared from the rolls altogether.

The three most important events of the second year of Edward the First were, the King's return to England and his Coronation, the peace with the Flemings, and the commencement of Edward's legal reforms by the commission under which the Inquisitions known as the Hundred Rolls were taken, which themselves led directly to the enactment of the Statute of Gloucester.

With regard to the Coronation, the Public Records afford but little information. There is no Coronation Roll, and we have to fall back upon the scanty Wardrobe Accounts, a few brief entries in the Pipe, Issue, Liberate, and Close Rolls, and the rhapsodies of contemporary chroniclers.

The account in the "De Antiquis Legibus Liber" (Camden Society, p. 173) is very minute in its details, and was probably written by an eye-witness. It runs as follows:—

"Memorandum quod omnis terra vacua, quæ fuit infra claustrum pallatii sui apud Westmonasterium, extitit nobilissime ædificata domibus et aliis officinis, ita quod nulla pars possit ibi vacua inveniri. Extiterant ibi in parte australi veteris pallatii sui constructa multa pallatia undique, quotquot ibidem possent ædificari, in quibus erectæ sunt mense in terra firmiter fixæ; super quas mensas magnates et principes et nobiles debent refici in die coronationis sue et per quindecim dies post suam coronationem; ita quod omnes, tam pauperes quam divites, ad solemnitatem coronationis suæ advenientes, gratis recipiantur, et nullus expellatur.

"Ædificantur etiam infra dictam claustrum tot coquinae, in quibus victualia debent præparari contra dictam solemnitatem; de quibus non est numerus. Et ne illæ coquinae sufficerent, ut illa victualia in eis non possint præparari, posita sunt ibi vasa plumbea extra coquinas innumerabilia; in quibus carnes coqui deberent. Et memorandum, quod illa magna coquina, in qua volatilia et alia debent assari igne, est tota discoperita in summate sua, ut omnimodus fumus possit exire.

"De aliis utensilibus, quibus necesse est ad tam magnam curiam sustinendam non potest aliquis in scriptis redigere. De vinis nescit aliquis dolea, quæ ad hoc præparata sunt, numerare.

"Et ut omnia concludam, nunquam, aliis temporibus retroactis, tam magna plenitudo de deliciis et omnibus bonis, quæ pertinent ad nobilissimam curiam celebrandam, fuit præparata.

"Item, magna aula et parva dealbatæ sunt de novo et depictæ; ita quod oculi infra illas intrantium et tantam pulcritudinem intuentium, plenius deliciis et gaudio replentur. Et si aliquid infra claustrum pallatii Domini Regis per vetustatem vel aliquo alio modo fuerit fractum vel deterioratum, in bonum statum reparatum est."

It will be interesting to compare the foregoing description with the actual account of the preparations on Pipe Roll, 2 Edward I. (last membrane), viz. :—

"Compotus Magistri Roberti de Beuerlaco de operationibus factis apud Westmonasterium tam de logis novis factis contra coronationem Regis in palacio Regis coquina pulpito facto in coro Westmonasterii ubi Rex et regina gestaverunt coronas, aleis factis ab hostio parvæ aulæ usque ad ecclesiam in qua rex et Regina cum regalibus incedebant versus ecclesiam die coronationis novo stabulo facto in cimiterio Westmonasterii novis sedibus lapideis cum gradibus ante sedem in magna aula et aliis sedibus ligneis cum tabulis in magna aula et in parva faciendis et nova turri ultra chorum ecclesie prædictæ cooperienda bordis et eodem choro tabulando et novis plumbis factis ad carnes coquendas furnis et aliis diversis operationibus faciendis per eundem a quarto die Septembris anno primo usque ad diem Dominicam proximam post festum Assumptionis beatæ Mariæ anno secundo qua die coronati fuerunt Rex et regina Et in libera petra grisa petra creta calce sabulone et aliis rebus necessariis emptis ad operationem cæmentariorum per idem tempus Et in grosso marenio bordis lignis tam de quercu quam de alneto cindulis elatis virgis et quibusdam aliis necessariis pertinentibus ad operationem carpentariorum cum cariagio Et in plumbo ferro stamine turectis ferreis securis carbone marino vitro cordis et aliis pertinentibus ad operationem plumbariorum et fabrorum per idem tempus Et in tegulis cam'li ad easdem litera arundine et aliis necessariis pertinentibus ad operationem tegulatorum cum cariagio prædictorum Et in stipendiis cæmentariorum carpentariorum vitriariorum plumbariorum tegulatorum et aliorum minorum operariorum et vivariis Regis mundandis et largiendis cum gutris eorumdem reparandis quarum omnium operationum particulæ continentur in quodam rotulo quem prædictus magister Robertus liberavit in thesauro."

Wikes (Annales Monastici, iv. 259, 260) exhibits an almost laughable amount of bombastic wonderment :—

"Die vero Sabbati proxima post Assumptionem gloriosæ Virginis Dei Genitricis Mariæ, idem rex occurrentibus sibi nimirum et applaudentibus non solum civibus Londoniarum, sed et universis regni magnatibus, clericis simul et laicis, qui pro

The quotation is from Psalm xlv., "Eructavit cor meum," which is described in the Vulgate as "Carmen Nuptiale, Christi et Ecclesiæ notas, virtutes, dotes, gratias, conjunctionem canens."

The Chronicler of London is unfortunate about the "dolia vini," for though it appeared to him that no person could give the number of the casks which were supplied, there is on the Foreign Accounts of the Pipe Roll, 2 Edward I., in an account of William de Windesour and Joyce le Acatur, "de providentiis factis 'contra coronationem Regis celebrat' apud Westmonasterium, die dominica 'proxima post festum Assumptionis beatæ Mariæ,'" an item proving that some person or persons unknown had made the enumeration, and that three hundred casks of wine were purchased for the coronation feast, of which one hundred and sixteen were consumed, and one hundred and eighty-four were left after the feast, the ullage ("olegium") of which was equivalent to eleven casks, so that actually only one hundred and seventy-three full casks were left over.

On the same Pipe Roll, under "Cumberland," is a payment to Geoffrey de Neville, justiciar of the forest beyond Trent for his expenses "capiendo venationem contra festum coronationis Regis x. li. . . . Et in eadem venatione salienda et "carianda a foresta de Englewode, usque Carlilolum xxvij. s. et iiij. d. . . . " Et in eadem venatione carianda a prædicta villa Carliloli usque Westmonasterium "contra coronationem prædictam. C. et iiij. s. . . ."

On the Issue Roll of Michaelmas term of the year, and on the Liberate Roll (m. 4) there is a payment to Gregory de Rokesle, citizen of London, of 12l. 10s. for three hundred ells of burell [a coarse russet cloth], "de Candlewycstrete, extensis in viis "Regis apud Westmonasterium die coronationis Regis"; and another payment to Poncius de Mora for four casks of red wine bought by him to colour the King's wines, which were sent to Windsor after the coronation feast. The well-known passage from Knighton (Twysden, Decem Scriptores) need only be mentioned here.

The French Chronicle of London (Camden Society, p. 13) states that the "conduit en Chepe ala tout le jour de vin vermail et vin blaunk, a boire a qi qe "voleit."

It appears from an entry on m. 12 of the Close Roll of the year, (Rymer, 509,) that, as early as February, A.D. 1274, the King intended to be crowned in the Octave of Easter in that year. The entry is a precept, directed to the sheriff of Gloucester, to provide against the instant feast of the King's coronation, "quod in "instantibus octabis Paschæ celebraturi sumus, Domino concedente," sixty oxen and cows, sixty pigs, two fat boars, sixty living muttons, three thousand capons and hens, and forty bacon-pigs, which he is to have at Windsor on the Vigil of Easter day next to come at latest, to be delivered to the Constable of the Castle. Concurrent and similar precepts are directed to other sheriffs, and the total amount of provisions for the feast reached four hundred and forty oxen and cows, four hundred and fifty pigs, eighteen boars, four hundred and thirty muttons, twenty-two thousand six hundred and sixty capons and hens, and two hundred and sixty-eight bacon-pigs! The coronation did not take place until sometime after these precepts were issued (10th February, 2 Edward I.), and it is difficult to understand how so enormous an amount of food could have been disposed of in the meanwhile, or kept in an eatable state for six months.

The "contention" between England and Flanders still raged for a time; and each power still continued, with a more than proverbial unwisdom, to abolish its own features in order to damage, not its own, but its enemy's countenance. forcibly recalling the traditional idiot, mentioned by Selden, "who lay out on the bridge all night when one insulted him." England tightened the restrictions on the export of wool (Rymer, 510); Flanders followed England's lead. At length, and the honour of having initiated the change apparently belongs to Guy Count of Flanders, peace was entered into between the two powers (Rymer, 513, 514), and the wool trade was restored to its natural state: such a state of freedom as was possible in the thirteenth century; such a state as might be represented by the substitution of incarceration without a straight waistcoat for incarceration with one; the freedom of an untried prisoner as against the restraints imposed upon a convict or a lunatic. The treaty or treaties of peace are to be found in Liber B. of the Treasury of Receipt of the Exchequer, formerly in the Chapter House at Westminster. They are printed, more or less accurately, in Rymer, where one of them is referred to Liber A., in which, however, it is not to be found. The entries relating to the wool trade will be found in the Calendar, for the most part, under the heading "Wool." A few have been placed under "Flanders," however, and two under "Diguineton," the Constable of Orford Castle. The second of these is very curious.

The Introduction to the Hundred Rolls, published by the Record Commissioners—the Commission is printed with great inaccuracy—contains so full an explanation of the objects and nature of these important inquisitions that it would be superfluous to add another word to it. I therefore pass to other matters.

In continuation of the remarks on the Assise Rolls in the Appendix to the last report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records (pp. 474-6) I may perhaps be allowed to call attention to two difficulties, one palæographical, and one legal, on which these valuable records throw considerable light. In the entries of essoins or excuses for non-appearance to a summons which are found on the Assise Rolls of Edward I. there exist marginal notes of the most perplexing brevity, consisting, for the most part, of a single letter and a symbol, which, at first sight at least, is not only unreadable but practically uninterpretable. The single letter is "n" or "v," sometimes the one and sometimes the other. The symbol most closely resembles an "s" with a flourish issuing out of its upper end. After a long search through all accessible lists of the "contractions" used in legal and other manuscripts, among which may be especially mentioned the list given in the late Sir Thomas Hardy's "Introduction to the Close Rolls," that in his "Bishop Kellawe's Register," those in the well-known works of Chassant, and the MS. list in Agarde's Indexes in the Public Record Office (vol. 43, pp. 438-9), and after several fruitless requests for information from persons fully qualified, and always ready, to assist the inquirer, I fell back upon the rolls themselves, hoping, almost against hope, that I might find the words for which the single letters stood, written, once or twice, in extenso, and perhaps by going back to the earliest extant Assise or Essoin rolls, discover a more intelligible form in its descent from which the uninterpretable "s" (with the flourish) had become so corrupted as to have lost all apparent meaning. A laborious search showed that the letter "n" stood for "novum" and the letter "v" for "vetus," and that the "s" (with the flourish) which always followed them was a transformation of the well-known and very ancient symbol for the word "est," namely, "÷." A final reference to Bracton "De Legibus Angliæ"—at the date of my investigation Sir Travers Twiss's fifth volume had not appeared—confirmed and explained the extensions, very few and far between, which I had found on the Essoin Rolls of the letters "n" and "v."

On the legal difficulty, the vexed, extremely vexed, question of the difference between an assise and a jury in the reigns of Henry III. and Edward I., the Assise Rolls (and the Patent Rolls) incidentally throw some slight illumination, some side light. In the first place, the general commissions (on the P. R.) to justices to try (or take), in a circuit of specified counties, "assisas, juratas, et recognitiones," indicate that "assisa" and "jurata" were, in some particulars, distinct from one another, whether in procedure, or object of litigation. So also in the appointment of justices to try (or take) a special assise, the entry relating to the "jurata" in a given case is always entered separately from the entry relating to the "assisa" in that case, even when the subject of litigation—tenements, rent, common of pasture, what not, and county—are the same in every particular. It is true that, on the Assise Rolls, in the verdicts of the “recognitors” in assises (of novel disseisin, mort d’ancester, darrein presentment, &c.) it is “juratores” and not “recognitores” who “say on their oath,” yet it is “recognitores” and not “juratores,” or not “recognitores” and “juratores” indifferently, who are amerced for non-appearance, and in other entries the “recognitores” and the “juratores” are separately mentioned. For example, in an Assise Roll we find “Nomina juratorum et recognitorum sexdecim” “brevium imbrevisantur, &c.”

But earlier than the reign of Edward I., certainly in the time of Bracton, probably in the time of Glanville, the distinction between the recognitors of an assise, the sworn witnesses who informed the court, of their own knowledge (“de visu et auditu”) on a definite “general issue,” “disseisivit vel non,” &c., and the jurors, who, by consent of the parties in a given case, at first most probably not only functionally but individually different from the recognitors in the case, but, certainly subsequently only functionally different from them, decided either as arbitrators (“juges arbitres,” Britton liv. ii. cap. xx. 2), or possibly as triers of evidence placed before them on a “side issue” brought out by the pleadings is, as it seems to me, sufficiently, even if not superfluously, clear. Of course “assisa vertitur in juratam” may be an entirely unmeaning phrase, the result of that “tendency of men whose minds are cramped by a special study to overload it with senseless niceties and verbal distinctions,” (Finlason, Reeves, i. 354 note a); but in the works of Bracton, Britton, and Fleta, and their earlier and later commentators, the distinction between an assise and a jury is so fully described, if not precisely defined, that very few readers could possibly confound a “juror” with a “recognitor.” Mr. Forsyth (History of Trial by Jury, p. 143), Mr. Nicholls (Introduction to Britton, pp. xxxvii.–viii.), Mr. Bigelow (History of Procedure in England, p. 337), and Reeves (Finlason, pp. 353–356), have accepted the distinction between the “assisa” and the “jurata” as real, and, in my opinion at least, they have done rightly.

Of the justices who tried special assises in the first year, Gilbert de Preston is mentioned as lately deceased on m. 21d. (12). The writ for making an extent of his lands and tenements is dated 8th January, 2 Edward I. (Inq. p. m., 2 Edward I., No. 25). And on the Close Roll, 3 Edward I., m. 25d., is a partition of the fees lately belonging to him. The other justices have been enumerated above (p. 373).

I subjoin a list of errata in the Calendar of Patent Roll, 1 Edward I. :—

In p. 503, for “Beywik, John de, appointment of, as serjeant of Stephen de Penecestre, constable of Dover Castle, to make distraint,” read “Beywik, John de, serjeant of Stephen de Penecestre, appointment of, to make distraint”; in p. 506, for “Bochard, Iterus de,” read “Bochard, Iterus”; in p. 508, for “Richard Fultonis” read “Robert Fulconis”; p. 515, for “Bristol, town of,” read “Bristol, vill of,” and dele “Bromham; see Bolhurst”; p. 530, for “by the resumption into the King’s hands of the lands of Richard Siffrewast, deceased,” read “by reason of the lands of Richard Siffrewast, deceased, being in the King’s hands”; p. 565, for “grant to Reginald de Akele,” read “commisimus to Reginald de Akele,” and dele “same date”; p. 566, for “Gonerby and Mawthorpe” (bis) read “Gonerby and Manthorpe”; p. 576, for “Thomas de Reggesfeud” read “Master Thomas de Reggesfeud”; p. 581, place [side title is “de protectione”] at end of entry; p. 587, for “Kellenden” read “Kelvedon”; p. 610, for “Mawthorpe” read “Manthorpe”; p. 630, for “Passelewe, Thomas,” read “Passelewe, Master Thomas”; p. 633, for “Picheford, Geoffrey de, grant to,” (bis) read “Picheford, Geoffrey de, commisimus to”; p. 665, for “Stroutheby” read “Scroutheby (? Scratby)”; p. 679 (last entry), for “John de Oke” read “John de Oketon and Elias”.

I have again to acknowledge the valuable assistance of my colleague and fellow-labourer, Mr. Harley Rodney.

NO. 5. CONSPIRACY OF THE EARL OF CAMBRIDGE AGAINST HENRY V.

DEAR SIR,

May 4, 1882.

AMONG the miscellaneous records of the Exchequer I lately came upon a small bundle which had been supposed to relate to conspiracies against Henry IV. It consisted of eight separate documents, or at least eight separate leaves, or rather skins (for only two are paper), all badly mutilated and in great part illegible, even where the writing remained; so that it was not, perhaps, very extraordinary that the exact bearing of the documents should have been mistaken. They relate, in fact, not to any conspiracy against Henry IV., but to that of the Earl of Cambridge and others against Henry V., an affair which is involved in peculiar obscurity, and on which new light from any quarter is much to be desired.

Unfortunately, such is the condition of these documents that very little consecutive meaning can be made out in any one of them. Indeed there is scarcely one whole line in any of them that can be read with perfect ease. Even where the parchment itself is perfect, the writing on one side of the page is commonly much faded, and the defective grammar and punctuation serve generally to baffle conjecture as to the purport of what is now illegible. Nevertheless, a careful examination of these documents serves to establish one or two facts of some importance.

I need not remind you that the conspiracy in question was discovered by Henry V. just before his embarkation for Normandy on the expedition which, three months later, was signalised by the splendid victory of Agincourt. The three leading conspirators, who were seized, tried, and executed at Southampton, were Richard Earl of Cambridge, Henry Lord Scrope of Masham, and Sir Thomas Grey of Heton in Northumberland. Beyond the very meagre notices of the affair in contemporary chronicles, our chief source of information about it is the Act of Attainder (Rolls of Parl., IV., 65-66), from which we learn that the plan was to carry Edmund Earl of March into Wales, and get him to assume the sovereignty if it was found to be true (as some professed to doubt) that Richard II. was really dead. They were to take with them a banner of the arms of England and a certain crown of Spain, set upon a palet (quandam coronam de Ispannia positam super unum palettum), which had been placed in pawn by the King to the Earl of Cambridge. Other confederates at the same time were to bring Thomas de Trumington (the pretended Richard II.) from Scotland along with Henry Percy (the son of Hotspur); and while the King's castles were seized in Wales, proclamations were to be issued against him as a usurper.

It is probably from the deficiency of information upon the subject that some writers have spoken of this design as "one of the most absurd and hopeless upon record."* It is forgotten that until the battle of Agincourt the House of Lancaster was never firmly seated on the throne, and Henry V. had not yet shown his power to maintain a position which his father had only succeeded in keeping with the utmost difficulty and amid continual turmoil. The conspirators themselves were clearly of a very different opinion. The opportunity of the King's going abroad seemed to them to make the success of their project certain. Lord Scrope, who filled the office of Lord Treasurer, and up to the time of his arrest appeared high in Henry's confidence, declared, as our documents show,* to the Earl of March that the King was undone whether he went or staid. Evidently the design was quite ripe for execution when the three conspirators were seized, and how many besides them were implicated we do not know.

Two documents connected with this conspiracy exist among the Cottonian MSS. in the British Museum, and have been printed by Rymer, by Sir Henry Ellis, and by Sir Harris Nicolas in his History of the Battle of Agincourt. They are the confession made by the Earl of Cambridge, and his appeal for mercy to Henry V. Both of these appear to be in the earl's own handwriting, which is identical with that of Nos. IV. and V. of the newly found documents; so that the writer of these is ascertained. As to the others, Nos. I., II., and III. are all in one handwriting, and from the mention of the other conspirators by name it may be inferred to be that of Sir Thomas Grey; while Nos. VI., VII., and VIII. may be safely attributed, for the same reason, to Lord Scrope. The whole eight, as well as the two in the British Museum, are confessions of guilt and petitions for pardon addressed to the King.

Nos. I. and II. are the most important. They probably formed together but one document, though from the mutilations and obscurity of both it is impossible to say. It is extremely unfortunate that, after the most careful examination of obscure and illegible words, the sense of some very interesting passages still refuses to reveal itself. Nevertheless, the interruption to the sense in these two documents is less than in any others of the series, and some new facts of considerable interest are disclosed in them which do not appear elsewhere.

In the first place, it is to be observed that whereas the Earl of Cambridge, in the documents printed by Rymer and Ellis, exculpates Lord Scrope to some extent, declaring that he had no knowledge of the project for bringing the false Richard and Henry Percy out of Scotland, Grey, on the other hand, aggravates his guilt in relation to the scheme in favour of the Earl of March, to which he says Scrope himself went to secure the earl's adhesion, pointing out that the King's departure beyond sea offered a most favourable opportunity for him to assert his claim to the Crown. Some light, moreover, is thrown on Scrope's conduct by the statement that the Earl of March owed the King a considerable sum of money for his marriage, part of which was advanced to him by Scrope and part by the Earl of Arundel. I presume it is with relation to this pure matter of business that we find it stated, though somewhat ambiguously, "that the Earl of Arundel and the 'foresaid Scrope was sworn three years before together to hold and 'further the same matter;" for it is not very easy to believe that one whose father had suffered death for his adhesion to Henry IV. could have turned traitor to the King, who had reversed his attainder. So little, indeed, does it appear that Arundel was implicated in the conspiracy that we find by the Rolls of Parliament (IV. 66) he was one of the twenty peers summoned by the Duke of Clarence for the trial of the two lords.

But a more interesting point is the proposal to restore Murdoch Earl of Fife to his father the Duke of Albany (at that time Governor of Scotland in the absence of James I.) in exchange for Henry Percy and the pretended Richard II. Murdoch Earl of Fife had been taken prisoner by the English at Homildon Hill in 1402. Henry Percy had been taken to Scotland by his grandfather, the last Earl of Northumberland, after the defeat of the great Percy conspiracy at the battle of Shrewsbury. The project of exchanging the one for the other had certainly by this time come before the King's Council, for it was soon afterwards acted upon, and I am inclined to think the conversation of the Earl of Cambridge with Grey, reported in No. I., ought to be understood as referring to it, not as a plan of the conspirators themselves, but as a thing already decided on by the Council, of which the conspirators might take advantage. The King, in fact, had seen the policy of restoring Henry Percy to the earldom of Northumberland,* and reversing the attainder of his father and grandfather, keeping Scotland quiet at the same time by a good understanding with Albany, all the while the King of Scots (James I.) was a prisoner in his hands. But while this was the King's plan, the Earl of Cambridge evidently believed that Henry Percy would be no less ready than his father to join in a rebellion against the House of Lancaster, and that it would be a still more important thing to get the pretended King Richard delivered and sent into England by a private negociation with the Duke of Albany. So fully, indeed, was he persuaded of the feasibility of this design that he had drawn up a list of eighteen persons of high position, one of whom, he felt no doubt, he could persuade to allow himself to be delivered to Albany as a hostage for the supposed King Richard. At the head of these eighteen stood the names of the Bishop of Norwich and the Earl of Westmoreland.

With these remarks I leave the documents to the further study of those who may care to examine them more fully.

I have only to add that, in consequence of the extreme difficulty of deciphering these documents—many of the words having only been ascertained after careful and repeated examination both by myself and Mr. Martin—I have judged it best not only to give as exact and literal a transcript as possible, but to indicate as closely as can be done in every case the length of each hiatus, and how much of it is due to mutilation of the document and how much to the writing having become illegible. The proportionate space lost by mutilation is throughout represented by dots, illegible writing simply by blank spaces.†

I remain, dear Sir,

Yours very truly,

W. Hardy, Esq.,

Deputy Keeper of the Public Records.

P.S.—I subjoin an abstract of documents relating to the delivery of Henry Percy in chronological order :—

1415, 27 July (dated at Southampton). Grant to John Duke of Bedford of an annuity of 3,000 marks, in compensation for the lands to be restored to Henry de Percy, viz.: 1,000 marks at the Exchequer, and 2,000 at the receipt of the Duchy of Cornwall, until he be recompensed in lands to the same amount. (Patent 3 Hen. V., p. 2, m. 27.)

1416, 5 Feb. Commission to Richard Lord Grey of Codnor and Sir John Nevill to receive from those appointed by Albany to deliver him,

* A petition of Henry Percy to this effect (though he was at the time a prisoner in the hands of the Scots) was presented to the Parliament which met in November 1414, and was agreed to by the King. Rolls of Parl., IV. 37.

No. 6.—MR. SANDERS' ANNUAL REPORT, for 1881, on FAC-SIMILES of ANGLO-SAXON CHARTERS, &c., photozincographed at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton.

Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton,

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to submit to you the following report upon the work performed at this office under my superintendence during the past year.

The Lords of the Treasury having, on the recommendation of the Director-General of the Ordnance Survey through the First Commissioner of Works, been pleased to sanction the addition to the volume of Fac-similes of the Anglo-Saxon Charters belonging to the Deans and Chapters of Westminster, Exeter, and Wells, of the few others that I had then been able to discover, by personal inspection or correspondence, in all the chapter houses in England and all the public and accessible private libraries where there appeared to be a chance of any such being found to exist; application was made to the several owners to allow their MSS. to be copied, and in every case permission was granted at once and with great courtesy. The Dean and Chapter of Winchester contributed two; Winchester College four; the Dean and Chapter of Worcester one; the Marquis of Bath two; the Earl of Ilchester five; the Salt Library at Stafford one; the Museum at Taunton one; the Bodleian Library one; and Her Majesty's Record Office one.

These have all been photographed, transferred, and proved, and I hope to have the whole edition printed and the volume in the press very shortly.

The charters comprised in this volume and the Canterbury volume already published, are charters granted by, or during the reigns of Baldred, Æthelred, Æthelbald, Offa, Cenwulf, Beornwulf, Beorhtwulf, and Burghred, Kings of Mercia from A.D. 681 to A.D. 862, Uhtred of the Huiccas, Ceadwalla and Ini of Wessex; and of all the Anglo-Saxon monarchs, from the date of the union of the several states under Egberht the Bretwalda, A.D. 800, down to the Conquest, embracing a period of 387 years in almost unbroken succession.

It would, perhaps, be too much to say that all these charters are absolutely the original charters granted, the splendid Westminster Charters of Dunstan and Edward the Confessor, for example; though with regard to the latter, the late Dean of Westminster, in a conversation which I had with him only a very short time before his death, doubted if it were not genuine, "At any rate," he said, "if it is not, Westminster possesses no foundation charter." There are others more palpably copies, but the question is very difficult, and one upon which the highest authorities have disagreed. Perhaps the best comment on the subject is to be found in the following extract from a letter written to me by certainly the first living authority on any subject connected with the Anglo-Saxon period of English history:—"But these reproductions, fabrications, or, if you like, forgeries, are of so many grades of quality; some of them are so little altered from genuine deeds; and all of them belong to the history of the Anglo-Saxon series of records, that I think a public service is rendered by their publication. It is only by publication that they can receive that criticism which is so much wanted for them; and it is only by publication that they can be secured from the chance of destruction." These remarks applied, of course, to the whole mass of Anglo-Saxon Charters, and not to any special collection or collections. As to the concluding remarks, I may truly say that the experience which my recent searches has given me proves that the existence of these records has been precarious in the extreme. Many that were known and quoted only a few years ago seem to have vanished and become lost, apparently beyond the hope of recovery; while others appear in places with which they are totally unconnected and where the history of their appearance is totally unknown. In connexion with this subject, I would call attention to my notes on the Charter of Eadgar recently presented to the Record Office, the single Charters of Worcester and Wells, and the remarkable Charter of Eadwig, belonging to the Cathedral of Winchester, as affording examples of the curious fortunes of these homeless wanderers, and the extent to which they have become detached from their original places of deposit or disappeared altogether.

I append a chronological list of the additional MSS. to be comprised in the second volume of Fac-similes. In this list the several publications wherein any of them have been noticed are referred to, and a note is made of those whose authenticity has been questioned or denied. My thanks are again due to the Dean of Winchester, Professor Earle, and the Rev. R. J. Spranger.

I have also been occupied in completing the Catalogue, with Index, of the Close Roll, 5 Edw. I.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient Servant.

William Hardy, Esq.

Majesty's Records.

CHRONOLOGICAL LIST.

WELLS.

The single Anglo-Saxon Charter now remaining in the Chapter House of Wells is one by Eadgar, "King of the Mercians, Northumbrians, and Britons" in 958, of land at Staunton-upon-Arrow, in Herefordshire, to his thane Ealhstan. Among the witnesses are the Bishops of Lichfield, Dorchester who was translated to York in the same year, and Worcester who was translated to Canterbury in the following year, Hereford, Elmham, and Lindsey. It will be observed that this charter was given during the reign of King Eadwig, although dated by Eadgar in the second year of his reign over the northern provinces, which had elected him King on their revolt in 957–8. This estate appears to have been situated between the "Watling Street" and "Offa's Dyke," both of which seem to be referred to in the recital of boundaries, wherein, as usual, much interesting topographical matter is to be found. A reference to the Ordnance Map will show that "Sned Wood," "The Black Thorn," and the "Long Yards," still remain, but of the three "Gates" along the "street" I can find no traces. At the conclusion of the boundaries is a note that King Eadgar also gives Hay, in Hereford, to Ealhstan in perpetuity. I can find no notice of the existence of this charter anywhere; it is not in the Codex or Diplomatarium, or Wanley's lists, and Hickes makes no allusion to it. It is singular as to the style adopted by Eadgar in his subscription and the character of its handwriting, and is the earliest original charter granted by that prince as yet known.

Of the nine charters quoted by Wanley, as then belonging to Wells, none remain, at any rate, there, and this, at present, the only Anglo-Saxon Charter which the cathedral possesses, has nothing to do with either the county of Somerset or the diocese of Wells. It concerns no known property belonging to that church, nor is it known how or when it came into its chapter house. Latin and Saxon.

WINCHESTER.

No. I.—A grant of land at Wenbeorg by Æthelwulf in 854 to the Church of SS. Peter and Paul at Winchester, in pursuance of his grant of a tenth of lands throughout his kingdom. Among the 18 witnesses to this charter are the King, Duke Æthelbald his eldest son, the Bishop of Sherborne who joined the conspiracy formed in Selwood Forest by Æthelbald to prevent the King's entrance into England on his return in 856 from Verberie sur Oise, where his marriage with Judith, daughter of Charles the Bald, had been solemnised by Hincmar, Archbishop of Rheims; Swithin, Bishop of Winchester; Eanwulf Ealdorman of Somersetshire, co-conspirator of Æthelbald and Bishop Æthelstan; Æthelbert the King's second son; the Abbots Werferth and Wullaf; the King's third son Æthelred; Osric the Ealdorman of Dorsetshire, who, with Eanulf and Bishop Ealhstan, defeated the Danes at the mouth of the Parret in 845; and the King's fourth and famous son Ælfred, then only six years old, and signing last of all the nobles.

I think the Wenbeorg of this charter is Wansborough, anciently Wodenesebeorh, in Wiltshire, situated near that extraordinary earthwork, the Wansdike. Wansborough is famous in the early history of England as having been the scene of two bloody engagements, the first between Ceawlin of Wessex, and the Britons in 592, and the second between Ine of Wessex, and Coelred of Mercia in 715. The memory of the slaughter which marked these battles is perpetuated in the "cwealmstowe," "swyrd-aecre," and "hæthenan-byriels," of the boundaries, among which is also to be found evidence of the existence of some of the now extinct British wild animals in the "catthola," the earths of the wild cat.

At the taking of the Domesday Survey the Bishop of Winchester held Wansborough, and its extent at that time was nearly identical with that mentioned in this charter, or, if the one hide said to have been held by the bishop's under-tenant, Richer, be considered as in addition to the 19 for which the manor was appraised for the payment of geld, quite so. The advowson of the King still belongs to the Dean and Chapter of Winchester.

This charter is printed in the Codex MLIIL, with an asterisk, from the Codex Wintoniensis, together with a Saxon version of the same and additional features of interest in the boundaries. It is not included in Wanley's lists. Latin and Saxon.

No. II.—A grant of land at Cunictune by Eadwig in 957 to his Thane Wulfstan. The witnesses include the King's brother Eadgar, at that time only 14 years old, and whose election by the revolted provinces of Mercia and Northumbria took place in the year of this charter's date; the Archbishop of Canterbury; Bishop Ælfsige of Winchester who succeeded him in the primacy, but who was frozen to death among the Alps when on his way to Rome for his pall Bishop Byrthelm of

Wells who was also elected to Canterbury, but was persuaded by the King to remain in his own see, not being thought a prelate of sufficient learning and importance for the Archbishopric; the Bishops of Worcester, Dorchester, Ramsbury, and Elmham; six dukes or ealdormen, among whom appears to be Æthelwold, son of the Half-King Æthelstan, Eadgar's early friend and his treacherous go-between with the fair Ælfthryth, and nine thanes.

The grantee was probably the Wulfstan "Minister" and "Miles," whose name appears among the witnesses to different charters granted about this time. A Wulfstan, the King's reeve, is also mentioned in a deed of bargain and sale, A.D. 955, quoted in the "Textus Roffensis." The whereabouts of the property granted was for some time a puzzle, the fact of the charter belonging to Winchester Cathedral naturally prompting the idea that it formed part of the cathedral estates; but a careful search through the map, guided by the "Earning Street" and other places mentioned in the boundaries recited in the charter, leads me to the conclusion that the property never belonged to or had anything to do with Winchester Cathedral; but that it is far away from the south of England, and is a place with such historic associations as to deserve a special notice. "Cunictune" is, I think, Conington in Huntingdonshire, and anyone looking at the Ordnance Survey of that county will find little difficulty in roughly tracing the boundaries of the estate as recited in the charter. At the time of the taking of the Domesday Survey, Conington was held by the Conqueror's niece Judith, widow of Waltheof, Earl of Northampton, Huntingdon, and Northumberland, into whose hands it had come, after the outlawry of Thurkyll the Dane, its previous owner, whom Cnut had made ealdorman of East Anglia. From the Countess Judith, Conington passed to her eldest daughter Maud, who after the death of her first husband, Simon de St. Liz, married David, afterwards King of Scotland, in whose family the estate remained till it passed in dower through Isabel, youngest daughter of David, ninth Earl of Huntingdon, to Robert Bruce, from whose youngest son Bernard it descended to Sir Robert Cotton. The mansion house was pulled down by Sir John Cotton, Sir Robert's great-great-grandson. But vestiges of Thurkyll's ancient castle still exist in the village. On the north wall of Conington Church was this inscription: Prince Henry of Scotland, Lord of Conington, Imperator Rex Franciæ, Anglo Saxoniæ, Angliæ Scotiæ, with the arms which make the quarterings of Cotton. Sir John Heathcote, son of Gilbert Heathcote, the Sir Andrew Freepart of the Spectator, Lord Mayor of London, and one of the founders of the Bank of England, purchased the manor from the heirs of Sir R. Cotton in 1753, and in that family it still remains.

Dr. Stukely describes a visit that he made to Conington in 1724. "I was concerned to see a stately old house of hewn stone, large and handsome, in dismal ruins. The deserted lares and the genius of the place had fled. A poor cottage or two seems to be the whole town, once in the possessions of the Kings of Scotland." In the record of Conington in Domesday Book reference is made to a custom which still obtains in our colleges and corporate societies the passing of the Grace Cup or "Poculum Charitatis." Thurkyll is said to have held six hides there of the Abbot of St. Mary Thorney, for which he rendered "Karitatem," a certain allowance of wine or other generous liquor to be drunk to the memory of former benefactors, "but the men of the hundred do not know how much it was." It is not known how King Eadwig's grant of this ancient Huntingdonshire manor comes to be preserved at Winchester. It might not unreasonably be supposed that it had once belonged to Sir Robert Cotton, but no mention of it is to be found in Wanley's list of the Cottonian MSS. That it had become lost or mislaid at one time is evident from a short endorsement in a hand of that period, "Inventa 1645," a time of peculiar interest in Hampshire annals as the year of the fall of Basing house. There is, however, a tragic connexion between Conington and Winchester which may account for the presence of the charter in that city. Some years before the date of Doomsday Book, Earl Waltheof, the then Lord of Conington, was one of the guests at the "Bride-Ale" of Ralph Guader and Emma FitzOsborne, and becoming implicated in the plot against King William that was formed on that occasion was compelled to flee over the sea. In the next year, deceived by the attitude of apparent carelessness assumed by the King, he returned and surrendered himself into the royal hands, and being betrayed by his wife, the Countess Judith, who revealed the whole of his share in the conspiracy, was sent a close prisoner to the King's prison in Winchester Castle. Ordericus Vitalis gives the details of his captivity, mixed with the usual monkish supplement of miracle. He remained in prison a year, when on the morning of the mass day of St. Petronilla, May 31, 1076, shortly after dawn, and while the city was still wrapt in sleep, he was taken outside the walls to the top of St. Giles' Hill and there beheaded.

Mr. Madge, the Winchester librarian, tells me that the words "Inventa 1645" are in the writing of one John Chase, who from 1640 to 1646 made an examination of the documents belonging to the chapter. One of his books the chapter has lately found. It refers to comparatively unimportant subjects, but he alludes to a former book and complains that the soldiers had destroyed the fruit of his labours. This book, if it could be found, would doubtless contain information as to this charter.

The extent of the manor of Conington given in the charter and that specified in Doomsday Book are identical. Glatton, one of the places named in the boundaries, belonged at the time of the survey to Eustace, Earl of Boulogne, husband of Edward the Confessor's sister Goda, the daughter of Æthelred and Emma Ælfgifu. This charter of Eadwig is the only Anglo-Saxon charter that I know of in which direct mention is made of the Earning Street. Watling Street, Foss-way, and Icknield Street, the other great roads, occur frequently. It is not printed in the Codex or Diplomatarium, or recorded by Wanley. Latin and Saxon.

WORCESTER.

A grant of land by Uhtred, Sub-King of the Huicci in 770 to his Thane Æthelmund, the son of Ingeld the Duke and Prefect of Æthelbald, King of the Mercians, with the consent of Offanus King of the Mercians.

This Æthelmund was afterwards ealdorman of Mercia, and was slain at Kempsford in 800 in a fight with the ealdorman Weohstan, who fell in the same battle, and his Wiltshire men. His father Ingeld was brother of King Ine, and the ladies Cuenburh and Cuthburh, the latter of whom was married to Aldfrith, King of Northumbria, and upon her separation from him became Abbess of Wimborne, which she and her sister had founded.

The name of the property granted by this charter is torn away, but it appears on the endorsement; Eastune and Stoces apparently one and the same place. The latter should be Stoke Prior, whose position on the east side of the River Salwarpe exactly corresponds with the place assigned to it here. Nash quotes this grant from MS. Habington. In Domesday Book the church of Worcester is said to hold Stoke with two bereuicks, Estone and Redindone. This Estone is quoted as Aston Magna in the Codex, but Aston Magna is a long way from the Salwarpe. Stoke Church was appropriated to the monastery of Worcester in 1389, and in the ordination of the vicarage, which is still in the gift of the dean and chapter of Worcester, the vicar is said to receive the tithe of hay from the tenants of Astenende and Stokeende.

Of the 111 charters enumerated by Wanley as having belonged "haud ita pridem" to Worcester Cathedral, this mutilated specimen alone remains. After quoting 92 of these charters, Wanley adds 19 others which he says were there within two or three years, but which being also lost had been luckily published by Hickes, in whose Anglo-Saxon Grammar, p. 170, this charter is printed. At least a charter granting the same property to the same persons, but with some curious points of difference, the first being the date, which is three years earlier. It is printed word for word with Hickes' copy, blanks included, in the Codex CXVII. from a Harleian MS. In Wanley's list of Worcester MSS. another charter is recorded, No. 4, which may be that here represented plus the Saxon boundaries, which it will be seen do not exist, unless the very meagre mention of them may be considered sufficient. The present charter possesses an additional interest in the subscriptions, besides that of Offa, of his Queen Cynethryth, and their two children Egferth afterwards King of Mercia, and Ælflæd afterwards the Queen of Æthelred of Northumberland, who respectively sign themselves "filius" and "filia amborum."

The other witnesses are Uhtred, his brother Ealdred, Milred, Bishop of Worcester, and two others. Not in the Codex or Diplomatarium. Latin and Saxon.

THE MARQUIS OF BATH.

No. 1.—A grant of land at Pennard by Baldred in 681 to Hamgis, Abbot of Glastonbury, for the use of the abbey. Witnessed by Baldred, Bishop Hedde, of Winchester, and Aldhelm, Abbot of Malmesbury.

Though only a "Sub-King," Baldred's great influence and importance is manifested by the references made to him by Ine and by Cuthred, who calls him his predecessor, and places him between Centwine and Ceadwealla. Abbot Aldhelm, writing to the King's clerk Winberht, about A.D. 701, on the subject of the lands and fishing given by Baldred to the Abbey of Malmesbury, styles him "Venerandus patritius Baldredus." By the Welsh this Prince of Cornwall and Devon was named Baldrick. St. Patrick was traditionally the founder of Glastonbury Abbey.

Only one other charter of Baldred appears to be known, and that is printed in the Codex with an asterisk, from MS. Lansd, 417, f. 3, and Ang. Sac. II., p. 11.

This charter is printed with an asterisk in the Codex XX. from MS. Bodl. Wood. I., f. 183, and in the New Monasticon. It is confirmed by the charter granted by Ine in 725, printed with an asterisk in the Codex from the same Bodleian MS. and three others; and in the Diplomatarium, where it is stigmatised as "a glaring monkish forgery," from a fourth, Cott. Feb., A. 13, fol. 193-6, so that considerable pains have been taken to disseminate the forgery. It is also confirmed by Æthelwulf in his charter of 854 of a tenth of his lands to the church, printed in the Codex with an asterisk from the same Bodleian MS. and the New Monasticon, and in the Diplomatarium from the Bodleian MS. and MS. Lansd. 417, fol. 7, 6, without an asterisk. Latin and Saxon.

No. II.—A grant of land in Pengrard Mynster by Eadred in 955 to Ælfgyth, the Holy Nun, at Wilton. The king does not subscribe.

The 18 subscribing witnesses comprise the two Archbishops, the Bishops of Winchester, Sherborne, Crediton, Ramsbury, London and Worcester, Lichfield, Wells and Lindsey; four dukes and three thanes. None of them have the prefix of the cross. King Eadred died in the year of the granting of this charter at Frome, and was buried at Winchester.

Among the MSS. recorded by Wanley, as then in Dean Hicckes' possession, is a grant of land in Rolldown by Eadmund in 944, apparently to the same holy woman; and among those belonging to Sir Simon d'Ewes, a sale of land in Purbeck by Eadred in 948, also apparently to the same Ælfgyth, for which she was to pay "sexaginta mancusas purissimi olei." This application of "mancusa" would seem conclusive as to its signifying a measure of weight as well as its more general reception as a coin, unless, indeed, it may be taken to mean "mancusatas." This Ælfgyth was a benefactress of the Abbey of Glastonbury, to which she gave the land at Pennard Minster specified in the above charter. Both of these documents are printed in the Codex CCCCI. and CCCCXVIII. from Harleian MSS.

This charter is not printed in the Codex or Diplomatarium, nor is any mention of it to be found in Wanley's list. Latin and Saxon.

THE EARL OF ILCHESTER.

No. I.—A grant of land at Ceosolburn by Eadgar in 965 to his faithful man Uulfheard. The witnesses are the King, Archbishop Dunstan, the Bishops of Winchester, Sherborn, Wells, and Ramsbury; five earldormen, among whom is Ordgar of Devonshire, the Queen's father, and 10 thanes.

The small estate granted seems to have been a portion of Cheselborne, in the parish of Piddletown, county of Dorset. The "army-path" mentioned in the boundaries was either the Icknield Street itself or one of its numerous branches. Printed in the Codex, minus boundaries, DXXI. Not in Diplomatarium or Wanley's list.

No. II.—A grant of land at Portisham by Cnut in 1024 to histhane Orc. The list of witnesses includes the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishops of Winchester, Ramsbury, Selsey, and Sherborn; the Earls Godwine, Eglaf son of Rognvald the Jarl of West Gothland and King Olaf Tryggvason's daughter Ingeborg, and the "doughty jarl" Hacun son of Eric jarl of Norway and Cnut's sister Gytha, the Abbots Byrhtmar, Æthelweard, Æthelwold, Ælfwi, and Lyfing, three priests, and 20 thanes.

This Orc was Cnut's steward or "huscarl," and he and his wife Tole, being childless, presented the lands given them by Cnut to the church of St. Peter of Abbotsbury, a very ancient church but at that time ruined by the Sea Rovers and deserted, and in 1044 founded a monastery there of Benedictine Monks from Cerne Abbey, where he and his wife were buried.

This charter is defective, a portion having perished, but the missing portion is supplied from the inrolment of its confirmation by King

No. 6.—Mr. Sanders' Annual Report for 1881—continued.

Edward the Second. It is printed in the Codex DCCXLI. and in Hutchins' History of Dorsetshire. Latin and Saxon.

No. III.—A grant of land at Wootton Abbas by Edward the Confessor in 1044 to his faithful thane Orc. The witnesses to this fine charter comprise the two Archbishops, the Bishops of Winchester, Ramsbury, Cornwall, Sherborne, Wells, and Worcester; the Abbots Ælfstan, Ælfwyne, Æthelweard, Ælfwig, and Æthelwi; the Earls Godwine, Leofric of Mercia, and Siwerd of Northumberland, and seven thanes. This charter is printed in the Codex, minus the boundaries, DCCLXXII. Latin and Saxon.

No. IV.—Orc's Guild at Abbotsbury. By this document Orc gives the guildhall and the stead at Abbotsbury to God and St. Peter in memory of himself and wife, and in it he sets out the rules to be observed by the fraternity. One of the earliest and most interesting records of these associations known in England. It is printed in the Codex DCCCXLI. and in the Diplomatarium, p. 605, and in Hutchins' History of Dorsetshire. Saxon.

No. 5.—A fragment of a charter by Tole, Orc's widow, to Abbotsbury. These two last are undated, but Edward the Confessor granted a licence to Tole to bequeath her property at Abbotsbury in 1045. She is said to have been a Norman woman and a native of Rouen.

HER MAJESTY'S RECORD OFFICE.

A grant by Eadgar in 974 of three mansas in Nymed to his Thane Ælfhere.

This charter is witnessed by King Eadgar and Queen Ælfthryth; the two Archbishops Dunstan and Oswald; the Bishops of Winchester, London, Sherborne, Wilton, Wells, Rochester, Selsey, Devonshire, Hereford, Elmham, Cornwall, and a twelfth prelate, whose name has not been filled in; 12 abbots who, I can only suggest, may have been Ælfrie Abbot of Malmesbury, who succeeded Bishop Sideman at Crediton in 977; Æscwig, the successor of Ælfnoth in the see of Dorchester in 979; Æthelgar Abbot of the New Minster at Winchester, afterwards Bishop of Selsey in 980, and Archbishop of Canterbury in 988; Abbot Osgar, whose name occurs with those of Æscwig and Æthelgar among the attesting witnesses to the charter to Medeshamsted in 972; Ælfnoth Abbot of Ramsey, who was made Bishop of Dorchester about 1005, and fell in the battle of Ashington in 1016; Segar Abbot of Glastonbury, the successor of Bishop Cyneward at Wells in 975; Ælfheh Abbot of Bath, successively Bishop of Winchester in 984 and Archbishop of Canterbury from 1005 till his murder by the followers of Torquil the Tall in 1012; Ælfstan Bishop of Rochester in 984; Æthelsige, perhaps Bishop Alfwold's successor at Sherborne about 979; and Leofric and Osward, whom I cannot trace.

After the abbots come four dukes, Ælfhere the Ealdorman of Mercia, the enemy of the Monks, and, according to Malmesbury, the murderer of King Eadward, who expiated his crimes by being—"eaten of the vermin which we call lice;" Æthelwine Ealdorman of the East Angles, Ælfhere's opponent in his schemes against the monks and the founder of Ramsey Abbey, called by King Eadgar, "a man most beloved by me, and bound to me by the tie of near kindred." In the history of Ramsay, written by an anonymous author about the middle of the 12th century, he is said to have been styled "healf-cyning," from his being of the blood royal, and on account of the great influence which he possessed with King Eadgar. Byrhtnoth the brave and pious Ealdorman of the East Saxons who was slain at Maldon in battle with the Danes in 991; and Oslac Ealdorman, of Northumbria, the "Great Earl" of the Saxon Chronicle, who was expelled from England after King Eadgar's death in 975.

The remaining witnesses are 10 thanes, whose names figure conspicuously in the Saxon Chronicle. The cross is prefixed to the names of all the witnesses except the Queen.

Copelanstán, the "Stone of Copela," now Copleston Cross, still exists as the most remarkable ancient cross in the county of Devon. The high road—"army path"—mentioned was probably the Roman road that ran from Exeter to Stratton in Cornwall, passing through Oakhampton and Holsworthy, and having on its line the great camp of Bradbury Castle.

Three Nymets occur in Domesday Book. The first was in the King's demesne as parcel of his manor of Molland, to which it had been unjustly appended. Before the Conquest it had belonged to Harold. The two others formed severally parts of the estates of Walter de Clavile and Goscelin of Exeter.

These are now severally called Broad Nymet, Nymet Rowland, and Nymet Tracy alias Bow.

This charter affords a good example of the wanderings of some of these fugitive pages from the early history of England. No mention of it is to be found in any of the lists of Anglo-Saxon MSS., and all my efforts to trace it further than the latter part of the last century have been futile. In 1777 it belonged to Mr. Baskerfield, whose father was in partnership with the grandfather of Glyn, the banker, in the house at the corner of Hatton Garden and Holborn. He was a man very much given to antiquarian pursuits, and was one of the original members of the "Society of Antiquaries." Mr. Baskerfield died in 1818, and in 1845 the charter came after the death of his widow to her nephew, Mr. Garling, of Southborough Hall, in Kent, who, in 1870, very shortly before his death, presented it to Her Majesty's Record Office, where it will find at last a haven of rest after its undiscovered ramblings for nearly 1,000 years. This charter is not printed in the Codex or Diplomatarium, or quoted in Wanley's lists. Latin and Saxon.

WINCHESTER COLLEGE.

No. I. A grant of land at Micheldever by Eadward the Elder in 900 to the Monastery of the Holy Trinity, called the New, in Winchester. Witnessed by the King; his son by his second marriage with Ælflæd, daughter of the ealdorman Æthelm, Æthelweard; Archbishop Plegmund; the Bishops of Winchester, Worcester, London, Sherborne, Selsey, Rochester, Hereford, and Lichfield; Abbot Beornhelm; two deacons; one priest; 12 thanes; and 12 other subscribers, who have no designation attached to their names.

This fine charter is dated in "the town which is called Hampton," and furnishes a large extent of boundaries, comprising those of Micheldever, Cranbourne, Curdridge, Durley, Thorley, and Candover, which contain, as usual, much matter of interest to local topography. Printed in the Codex No. CCCXXXII. with an asterisk and without the boundaries from MS. Cott. Dom. A. XIV., f. 72. b., and in Edwards' Liber de Hyda, pp. 85, 97. Latin and Saxon.

No. 6.—Mr. Sanders' Annual Report for 1881—continued.

No. II. A lease of land at Chiseldene by the Brethren of the Monastery of St. Saviour in Winchester to their thane Ælfred. For the 20 hides thus leased, Ælfred was to pay down 80 mancuses of pure gold, and on each anniversary of King Edward's death was to bring 80 shillings to the monastery. The fines for non-performance of the contract to be, for the first omission, 60 pence; for the second, 30 shillings; for the third, alienation from the property. The witnesses to this cheirograph are King Æthelstan; the Ætheling Eadmund; one priest; two deacons; 24 thanes; and 54 with no designation. Printed in Edwards' Liber de Hyda, pp. 147–150. Latin.

No. III. A grant of land at Pewsey by Eadmund the First in 940 to the Monastery of St. Peter in Winchester. This second fine charter belonging to Winchester College is witnessed by the King; the Queen Mother Eadgifu; the King's brother Eadred; the Archbishop of Canterbury; the Bishops of London, Winchester, Worcester, Ramsbury, Hereford, Wells, Rochester, and Crediton; the ealdormen Ælfhere, Wulfgar, Æthelwold, Æthelstan, Ælhhelm, Æthelmund, and Ultred; and 15 thanes. Printed in the Codex No. CCCLXXX. with an asterisk and without the boundaries from MS. Cott. Dom. XIV., f. 156, and in Edwards' Liber de Hyda, pp. 138–144. Latin and Saxon.

No. IV. A grant of land at Drayton by Cnut in 1019 to the New Monastery in Winchester. Witnessed by the King; the two archbishops; the Queen Ælfgifu; the Bishops of Winchester, Ramsbury, Selsey, Crediton, and Rochester; the Earls Thurkel, Yric, Godwine, Elaf, Leofwine, and Regnold; the Abbots Æthelsige, Byrthwig, Byrhtmaer, Æluere, and Byrhtwold; and 12 thanes. Printed in Edwards' Liber de Hyda, pp. 324–326. Latin and Saxon.

BODLEIAN LIBRARY.

A charter by Burhged King of the Mercians confirming and amplifying the grants of privileges conferred by himself and his predecessors upon the Monastery of St. Peter, in Gloucester, protecting the inmates from any hindrance to their devotions by the imposition of earthly service by secular ministers. Given at the Council held at Wellesbourne in 862, and witnessed by the King; the Archbishop of Canterbury; the Queen Æthelswyth daughter of King Æthelwulf and Osburh the daughter of his cupbearer Oslac, and sister of King Alfred; the Bishops of Mercia and Leicester; the Earls Eamberht, Æthelred King Alfred's future father-in-law; and Beorn; Abbots Aldred and Pleegberht; and five others, whose titles are not specified.

St. Peter's, Gloucester, was founded by Uulfhere, king of Mercia, in 680. King Burhged after a reign of 22 years was driven out by the Danes, and, taking refuge in Rome, died there A.D. 874, and was buried in the cemetery attached to the church of St. Peter in the Saxon school, said by Mathew of Westminster to have been founded by King Ine, of Wessex, who after his abdication also ended his days in Rome. This charter is not printed in the Codex or Diplomatarium. Latin.

TAUNTON MUSEUM.

A grant by Ine in 705 of land in Poholt to Berwald, Abbot of Glastonbury. The subscribing witnesses are the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishops of London, Lichfield, Worcester, Winchester, Dunwich, Lindsey, Hereford, and Sherborne.

No. 6.—Mr. Sanders' Annual Report for 1881—continued.

To agree with the indiction the dominical year should be 706.

A charter is printed with an asterisk in the Codex under the year 702, No. XLIX., containing that portion of this grant which refers to the 20 hides at Doultling, from the Bodleian MS. Wood. 1, fol. 171, 178*b*. Latin and Saxon.

SALT LIBRARY.

A grant by Æthelstan in 938 of land at Topsham to the Monastery of St. Mary of Exeter. The attesting witnesses include the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Bishops of London, Winchester, and Crediton, and two others, Brihthelm and Eadelm, whose sees I can only suggest to have been Elmham and Selsey.

This charter is one of the six of the same date that perpetuate the curious anachronism that caused Hickes to denounce them as “exempla egregia dolis et imposturæ,” and Kemble to defend them against so sweeping a condemnation. At one time it belonged to Sir Peter Thompson. It is printed in the Codex with an asterisk from a copy in the Lansdowne Library, CCCLXX. Latin and Saxon.

NO. 7.—FOURTH SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT ON THE SHAFTESBURY PAPERS.

DEAR SIR,

H.M. Public Record Office,
10th June 1881.

WITH reference to my Reports on "The Shaftesbury Papers" (Appendices Nos. 3, 5, 6, and 5 of your 33rd, 34th, 35th, and 39th Annual Reports), I have the honour to transmit herewith a fourth Supplementary Report which describes the additional papers received from the Earl of Shaftesbury on 9th April last.

"The Shaftesbury Papers" have been arranged in twelve sections, and these additional papers have been placed in their proper sections.

I have the honour to be, dear Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

William Hardy, Esq.,

(Signed) W. NOEL SAINSBURY.

Deputy Keeper of the

I.—PARCHMENT DEEDS, GRANTS, PARDONS, &C., CHIEFLY RELATING TO SIR JOHN AND SIR ASHLEY COOPER.

1660, June 8. Declaration of Sir Anthony Ashley Cooper that he lays hold of His Majesty's grace and favour, and is His Majesty's loyal and obedient subject.

This declaration was publicly made and subscribed, 8 June 1660, by Sir A. A. Cooper before Sir Harb. Grimstone, Speaker of the House of Commons.

1671, Feb. 7. The King's discharge to Sir Anthony Ashley Cooper from serving as Sheriff of Wiltshire.

II.—LETTERS AND PAPERS OF THE FIRST EARL OF SHAFTESBURY, CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER AND LORD CHANCELLOR OF ENGLAND.

1226. Extract from a Close Roll of 10 Henry III. m. 3. concerning William Mauduit, Chamberlain of the Exchequer.

— Mistakes in printed statutes out of the Abridgment of the Records of the Tower noted. Edward III. and Richard II.

1569, Nov. 6. Lord Treasurer Winchester to Robert Lord Rich and John Lord Darcy. Endorsed. Touching freeing the Officers of the Exchequer from bearing arms.

1607. Reasons against the exemption of the four Shires Marchers from the government of Wales, 1607. Taken out of the [State] Paper Office. Examined by Thos. Raymond, who has added, "these two last lines" "I suppose to be written with King James his own hand. T. Raymond."

1624, Dec. 20. Letters Patent to Sir Robert Pye, Writer of the Tallies in the receipt of the Exchequer, granting him an additional allowance of 2s. per day, for an extraordinary clerk which will advance his allowances to the yearly sum of 316*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, as also a convenient dwelling-house and cloisters with a garden within the precinct of St. Stephen's, Westminster, so long as he remains Writer of the said Tallies.

No. 7.—Fourth Supplementary Report on the Shaftesbury Papers—cont.

MY LORD,

September 1881.

I HAVE the honour to submit to you the report of my examination of State Papers preserved in the Castle of Skokloster in Sweden. By the occurrence of unavoidable intervals in my investigation of these, I was enabled to carry out my proposal of also visiting Upsala, and I subjoin reports on historical documents relating to English history which are to be found in the library of that University and also in the Royal Library at Stockholm.

I quitted England on 7th July 1881, arriving at Stockholm on the 11th, and I left that city on my return on 9th August.

I found on my arrival at Stockholm that considerable difficulties lay in the way of my making the thorough examination which I desired of the large collection of MSS. at Skokloster. The owner, Count Brahe, being but seldom resident there, leaves the castle in charge of a porter, who is the only constant inhabitant; last year a servant left who had been long in that situation, and his successor being comparatively unfamiliar with the place and its contents, the Count was unwilling to allow a continued examination to be carried on within the walls under circumstances which he imagined would render it difficult or undesirable. He consequently proposed (by communication through the Swedish Foreign Office to H.B.M. Chargé des Affaires, Mr. Lawrence) that such MSS. as required examination should be transmitted to the Office of the Royal Archives at Stockholm, and should there (by permission of the Keeper of the Archives) be inspected by me; and, in order that I might select volumes for the purpose, he arranged that Dr. Emil Hildebrand, one of the officers of the Archives, who is acquainted with the English language, should accompany me to Skokloster. To this gentleman, for the assistance which he most kindly and readily gave, I desire to tender my hearty acknowledgments; but as he was only able to spare two days from his official duties, the examination of the MSS. for the purpose of selection was necessarily effected most hurriedly, although begun at 7 a.m. and carried on as long as the light of summer days would serve.

In 1854 the castle was visited by M. A. Geoffroy in pursuance of a mission from the French Government to visit the libraries of the North. It was then inhabited by a widowed Countess, the mother of the present owner, and M. Geoffroy in consequence enjoyed all the facilities which a continued stay on the spot could afford for his work, facilities for which in his report he makes warm acknowledgment. That report (which occupies 79 octavo pages, and which embraces a description of the castle with its varied and precious contents) is printed at pp. 573–652, Vol. IV., of Archives des Missions scientifiques et littéraires, and was also re-issued in Notices et Extraits des MSS. concernant l'histoire ou la littérature de la France qui sont conservés dans les Bibliothèques ou Archives de la Suède, Danemark et Norvège, Par. 1855. It exhibits as its chief feature a series of letters from Marshal Turenne.

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

(1.) THE CASTLE OF SKOKLOSTER (Skoghloster = the Monastery in the Wood) was built by Marshal C. G. Wrangel, from about the year 1650 onwards, on the site of an ancient conventual house, of which the very interesting church (closely adjoining) remains still in use as a parish church, and well repays examination. The castle occupies a commanding position on the banks of the great Malar Lake, about 40 miles from Stockholm; it is a quadrangular building enclosing an open court, with octagon towers surmounted by cupolas at the corners. An open cloister runs round the court, corresponding to which on three floors are enclosed galleries upon which the apartments open. Upon the panelled sides of these galleries or corridors are painted full-length portraits of many commanders in the Thirty Years' War,* together with many moral sentences in Latin, French, Italian, English,† Spanish, German, and Swedish, and with various other pictorial representations often very coarsely executed. Among the portraits in the first gallery occur those of the following English and Scottish officers:—

“Öfverste Patrick Ruthven [afterwards Earl of Forth and Brentford]. Natus Anno 1586.‡ Feicit Anno 1623.

“Capten Herman Capel. Natus Anno 1595. Feicit Anno 1623.

“Öfv. löjtnant David Drummond. Natus 1593. Anno 1623.

“Öfv. löjtnant Tomas Muschamp. Natus Anno 1580. Feicit Anno 1623.

“Capten William Man. Natus Anno 1590. Feicit Anno 1623.

“Capten Jacob King [afterwards Lord Eythin in the peerage of Scotland]. Natus Anno 1593. Feicit Anno 1623.”

In one of the upper corridors there is a portrait of “Öfverste Capel” without any further inscription, and in one of the rooms “Malcolm Sinclair, Löjtnant af Garde,” ætat. 38. Pinxit, 1728. Mördades, 1739, varandes Major.” There are also portraits of Queen Elizabeth, Charles I. and his Queen, George IV., and the Duke of Wellington. In an account of Skokloster by C. F. Rothlieb, published in 1819, a picture is mentioned as representing Cromwell and the Queen of England playing cards (“Cromwell och Engelska Drottningen vid spelbordet”); this was also seen by M. Geoffroy in 1854, who remarks naturally that the Cromwell must be Thomas Cromwell, Earl of Essex; but it is now said, in reply to special inquiry, that this picture cannot be found, and it is not noticed in a recent guide-book (printed in 1870) by Octavia Carlen. Among a series of views of sea-ports is one representing the battle with the Dutch at “Chattam und Charnesse”; another is labelled as “Excester” (Rochester?), and “Douvern” is a third.

The library, which is said to contain about 23,000 volumes, and to comprise the collections of four families, those of Wrangel, Brahe, Bielke, and Scheffer, occupies six or seven rooms on the third and topmost storey, of which two are chiefly filled with the MSS. These are in three sets or divisions. The first (and smallest) series comprises the miscellaneous MSS., in 228 numbered volumes in folio (of which, however, No. 70 consists of 20 vols. of biographical notes of eminent Swedes, and No. 100 of 29 vols. of transcripts of various political papers by C. Bielke), 140 in quarto, and 29 in octavo, together with some loose portfolios. This is the only portion of which any notice had appeared in print previous to the publication of M. Geoffroy's report; a very meagre list compiled by Jo. Hen. Schröder in 1824, was printed in Vols. XII.–XV. of Handlingar rörande Skandinaviens Historia, 1825–30. The only volumes of which the contents are here fully described are those containing Bielke's transcripts, which are amongst the least important of the whole collection.§ What may for distinction's sake be called the second series,

* Beneath the portrait of Marshal Herman Wrangel, under whom these officers served, is the following touching inscription: “Si qua tibi, viator, memoria nostri in hoc icone fuerit grata, eodem affectu, queso, reliquos commilitones contemplare. Caveas vero ne ita de illorum forma et habitu sollicitus sis ut obliviscaris scire quinam fuere milites. Omnes erant sub auspiciis Gustavi Magni armorum gloria clari, me duce et teste, de Rege et Patria bene meriti.”

† Two of the English sentences are thus worded: “Short culs (sic) lead to the faithful friend, though he abideth afar off.” “Sense needeth he who jourkiyeth (sic) widely, least faileth the wary.”

‡ This date can hardly be correct as that of Ruthven's birth. He is universally described as being an aged general when Commander-in-Chief for Charles I. in our Civil War, whereas this date would only make him to be 65 or 66 at the time of his death in 1651. [See preface to Ruthven Correspondence, edited by the writer of this report for the Roxburghe Club in 1863.] More probably the year should at any rate be given as 1576. But the portrait represents him as a light-haired full-faced man (in ruff, doublet, and trunk-hose) in the full vigour of manhood, and might well be the representation of one who was 37 when the picture was painted.

§ Meagre as this list is, its brevity does not secure it from errors. No. 126 in fol. and 9 in 8vo. are each described as “Breviarium”; they are both of them Psalters, of the 13th century, with the evangelical hymns, Athanasian Creed, and kalendars; in the kalendar of the former some names of saints, including Cuthbert, have been erased, and names of Swedish saints inserted. No. 98 in 4to. is entered as “Libanius. Gr. Vetustiss.”; it is a paper MS. of the 15th century.

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

consists of 342 large bundles of unbound letters, chiefly to Marshal Herman Wrangel (died 1643) and his son Marshal Carl Gustaf Wrangel (died 1676), with, in the case of the latter, drafts of replies in very many instances. These letters begin about 1636, but unfortunately the first bundle is (unless now incorporated with the second) missing; probably in it would have been found some more letters of persons known in English history, who about that time began to turn their faces homewards. The third series consists for the most part of letters to and from the two Wrangels and Pierre Brahe (in 78 volumes) together with letters of P. F. De La Gardie, M. Wellingk, O. W. Konigsmark and Nils Gyllenstierna, and comprises 109 thick volumes in folio and 15 in quarto, bound in paper boards. For the second series there is a MS. index of writers' names, by no means complete, but only affording a general idea of the contents; for the third, a folio MS. catalogue by Ol. Rud. Bellander, dated February 1834, very clearly written and fairly complete. The whole number of MS. volumes amounts to about 910; and these, at a rough guess, probably contain from 70,000 to 80,000 separate papers. In the 11 days which, through the interposed delays and difficulties, were all that could be given to these MSS., the catalogues were carefully gone through, and every volume that appeared to contain any English notices or names examined, together with many others described as containing in general "Acta och Bref" and "Miscellanea." The whole number thus examined were about 180. It is very likely that many other volumes may contain scattered letters of English writers, and relating to English affairs from, in many instances it may be, the same writers as those indexed below; but probably sufficient is here shown to indicate the general character of the collection with relation to English history. For Swedish history, from about 1630 to 1730, and for the later history of the Thirty Years' War, its stores must be invaluable.

The following pages exhibit, firstly, an index of letters from English and Scotch writers;* secondly, an index of news-letters and despatches relating to English affairs; and, thirdly, notices of miscellaneous papers. One volume in the first series which may probably have contained some letters interesting to English inquirers, being described in Schröder's Catalogue as "Bref från Utlandske Diplomat" (4to., 130) is unfortunately now missing. It appears, however, to have been but of thin dimensions.

3.—MISCELLANEOUS PAPERS.

1563. 4 id. April. Stockholm. Instructions signed by King Eric XIV. to his ambassador in Scotland, Dionysius Barreus, sent to negotiate a marriage with Queen Mary. He has long loved her; has not just begun now to do so, but loved her even before she went to France. Lat. 1st Series, Vol. CLXXXVI., art. 1.
[Compare the disclaimers of any thought of the Scottish marriage as expressed to Queen Elizabeth, in the volume of Gyldenstierna's negotiations for a marriage with the latter preserved at Upsala, and described below, pp. 19, 20.]
1641. Printed tract: "Königlich Englisches manifest, die Pfälzische Sache " betreffend. Gedruckt im Jahre 1641." 8 pp. 4to.
- 1646-9. At pp. 595-631, Vol. IV., of the Archives des Missions Scientifiques, M. Geoffroy has printed 70 letters from Turenne to Wrangel and others which he found in one of the bundles of unbound papers. Other letters, however, are to be found scattered through other bundles, some of which have been noted down by me as follows:—
A short note in 2nd Series, Vol. LXV.
Copy of a letter to Avaugour, 6 May 1646. 2nd Series, Vol. XXVI.
Copy of a letter to the Landgravine of Hesse Cassel, dated from Oppenheim, 9 November 1647, forwarded by her to Wrangel. Fr. 2nd Series, Vol. LI.
Copies of two short letters to Lieut. Col. Nissmitz, Tübingen, 2 and 9 January 1649, forwarded by him to Wrangel. Fr. 2nd Series, Vol. XCVI.
1646. 14 October. Intercepted letter about the siege of Memmingen, written by Joannes Vasterman, S. J., in the besiegers' camp, to his superior, Will. Knaustius, in the Bavarian camp. Lat. 2nd Series, Vol. CCXCII.
1647. 27 February. Malta. Letter from Cascare, Grand Master of Malta, to Wrangel, asking his interposition in behalf of the commandery of Erlinghen in Germany. Fr. 2nd Series, Vol. LI.
1647. Count Montecuculi. An intercepted letter in German from him to the Emperor of Germany, dated 9 July, and signed "Raimond Montecuccoli," is in Vol. LVII. of the 2nd Series. An original postscript to a letter is in Vol. CCXCII., and a copy of a letter from him, dated 28 March 1647, in Vol. CCXCIII.
- 1647-57. Five letters to Wrangel from Matthew Merian, the eminent engraver at Frankfort:—
11 June 1647. 2nd Series, Vol. XLVI.
18 September 1647. 2nd Series, Vol. XLV.
April—June 1657. Three. 2nd Series, Vol. CXXIX.
1649. The correspondence of H. Appelboom, while Swedish Resident at the Hague in 1649, is found in 2nd Series, Vol. CI., and his letters in 1671-2 in Vol. CCLXXXIII.
- 1657-73. Letters in Swedish, from Peter Chambers, the Swedish Resident at Copenhagen, are found in many volumes. The following portions of his correspondence with Wrangel in the years here specified have been noted:—
1657. 24 June. 2nd Series, Vol. CXXIX.
1662-9. 2nd Series, Vols. CL., CXCVI., CCXIII., CCXXXV., CCLXVI., CCLXXVIII., CCLXXXI.—II.
1671-2. 2nd Series, Vols. CCLXXXIII., CCLXXXIV.
1673. 4 April. 2nd Series, Vol. CCLXXXV.
1654. Three letters in this year from Johannes Micrelius at Stettin, a writer on ecclesiastical history, are in 2nd Series, Vol. CXXVI.
1662. Reply by the Swedish Ambassador at London to the complaint made by Sir Wil. Morice, Secretary of State, against Count Nicholas Brahe for refusing, when returning from his mission to England [in November 1661], to lower his flag to Capt. Hooms [Holmes] in the Thames, who thereupon fired upon the Swedish ship at Gravesend, in the sight of Charles II. and his Master of the Ceremonies. 2nd Series, Vol. CCXC.

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

1662. 25 February. Ellensbourg. Long and interesting letter in French, from Cornifis Comte d'Walfeldt vindicating himself from some accusation; justifying his secretly leaving Malmoe by the warnings given him by the French and English Ambassadors and others, the French Ambassador telling him that his banishment to Finland was resolved on; and requesting Wrangel's mediation, and also specially his help with regard to a library in Seland, which had belonged to George Seefeldt, a senator of the kingdom, and which had been given to the writer by the King of Sweden. 2nd Series, Vol. CLXII.
- 1662-3. The following list of English apples sent to Wrangel in 1662 (2nd Series, Vol. CCL.), may be of some interest as showing the sorts which then were held in most esteem:—

- “ No. 1. Harvi äple, heel stoor sommarfrucht.
 2. Rex Pomorum, sommarfrucht stoor och snart mogen.
 3. John Appel, godh winterfrucht och finnez uthi bäggez tunnorne som på sundet sänts ähro, ähra rundaistige gröne och medh rödhe strömer.

The same volume also contains a long series of copies of interesting news-letters sent to Wrangel from de Lubienietz, the Swedish agent at Ham-burgh, containing intelligence from all parts of Europe, in Italian, German, French, and Latin, during the months of January—September 1663.
 They are very miscellaneous in their contents, embodying many things not usually found in letters of this nature. Amongst them are the following:—

1. Parody on the Dies Iræ, against the French, sent from Rome in June:—

Dies iræ, dies illa,
 Gallos solvet in favilla
 Novus Samson cum maxilla.

Ugonottus est venturus
 Sed est cito periturus
 Cum ad necem sit maturus. &c.

2. Rome, 1 September. Sonnet satirizing the abbate Cambi, a Florentine.
 3. Dantzic, 4 April. Latin verses by John Ernest Rautensfeinig, of Warsaw, “in obitum domini Boguslai Luscinii.”
 4. Rome, 2 April. Satire on Card. Imperiali:—
 “Pasquino Consigliere.
 Italia veglia e mira il tuo periglio,
 Che uol fiorir nella tua reggia il giglio,” &c.
 5. Polish pasquin, in verse, with translation into Latin verse, “in de“functum dominum Gonsievium thesaurarium.”
 6. Rome, 17 February. “Epitaphium Constantiæ Berninæ,” by Mons.
 Salvetti; with other verses in Italian.

" Roma Supplex.

" Dies iræ, dies illa

" Solvet Latium in favilla

" Teste Gallica Sibilla.

" Quantus tremor est futurus

" Quando Gallus est venturus

" Nepotismum discussurus." &c.

8. Long Italian parody on the Lord's Prayer, satirizing the observance of Lent at Rome.

1668. Vol. CCLXXXIII. of the second series contains an interesting set of accounts in the bills for all the travelling and household expenses, clothes, &c. of Count Carl Philip Wrangel, son of the second Marshal, Carl Gustav, during a visit to Holland and England from January to April, in which month he died in London and was buried in Westminster Abbey.* The tutor or governor under whose charge he travelled was Christopher Schleul. There are many receipts for the rent of his lodgings in London, which were with one John Littell in the parish of St. Paul, Covent Garden. To George Chislett, for a month's instruction in English, 20s. To Nicholas Mercator, "drittehalb Monat information in Mathesi," 5*l.* To — Le Febure, for medical attendance and medicine, 13*l.* 10s. 9*d.* To Francis Nowers, for use of velvet hearse cloths for the funeral of Lord Charles Philip Wrangel, 22 April, 3*l.* 7s. 6*d.* Velvet on the coffin, 10*l.* 10s. Swedish translations of two of Swift's works (in addition to the one noted on the preceding page) are found among the folio MSS. in the First Series; No. 40 contains his Discourse on the contests between the Nobles and Commons at Athens and Rome ("Tractat om ænigheten emellan Adeln och gemene man," &c.), and No. 47 the Tale of a Tub ("Saga om Baljan eller Tunnan").

(2.) THE ROYAL LIBRARY, STOCKHOLM.

The delay which the inconvenient arrangement with regard to the Skokloster MSS. interposed in the course of their examination, allowed time for complete researches with reference to the MSS. bearing on English matters which are preserved in the Royal Library. For the courtesy of the Chief Librarian, Mr. Klemming, and for the ready and continual assistance most kindly afforded by Dr. E. Tegnér, I desire to offer my sincere thanks. The results of an exhaustive examination of the MSS. preserved in the noble and well arranged building recently erected for the library, with which MSS. the collection of Count Engeström,* formerly separate, is now incorporated, are exhibited in the following list, arranged as nearly as possible in chronological order.

Of the MSS. to which an asterisk is prefixed descriptions are given at pp. 1–48 of "Förteckning öfver de förnämsta Brittiska och Fransyska Handskrifterna uti Kongl. Bibliotheket i Stockholm;" af George Stephens, Esq." 8vo. Stockholm, 1847.

- *1. The famous Codex Aureus, a seventh century MS. of the Vulgate Gospels, written in gold letters upon leaves of purple and white vellum. An Anglo-Saxon inscription recording its gift by Duke Ælfred and his wife Werburg, upon its rescue by them from the heathen, to Canterbury Cathedral, towards the end of the 9th century, is printed in the privately printed Proceedings of the Record Commission in 1833, p. 42, and, "more exactly," at p. 165 of Appendix B. to Mr. C. P. Cooper's Report on the Federa, and elsewhere.
- *2. A fragment of an Irish romance about a Chief beguiled to a fairy island, where he remained more than a hundred years; of, according to Sir W. Betham, the seventh (?) century; ff. 5, 4^o. [This I did not sec.]
- *3. Galfredi Monumetensis Historia Britonum; ff. 47, fol.; end of 13th, or beginning of 14th, cent.
- *4. Regis Canuti Leges. A transcript, at second hand, from a MS. in the library of Colbert, by Jonas Olafson, an Icclander.
- *5. "Wilhelmi Bastardi et quorundam aliorum in Anglia res gestæ." A folio MS. of the last century, transcribed by one Carl Hagelberg. In ten chapters. Chap. 1. "De nuptiis ducis Wilhelmi," &c. Chap. 10 ends, "— nec longius ab ea distans quam ut 6 diebus perfeci potest iter maritimum."
- *6. Astronomical and arithmetical tracts, by John de Sacro Boseo (Halifax), &c. with the "Canon" on the Calendar of Bishop Grosteste; ff. 99, 8vo.; end of 13th cent.

- *8. Placita Coronæ; 1359–1384; ff. 229, fol. Formerly in the possession of Sir Thomas Gardiner, afterwards of a Swedish antiquary named Brocman, who styles it “liber unicus, originalis, rarissimus.”
- *9. The treatises of Wickliffe [“Wicleph”], De individuatione temporis, De ydeis, De materia et forma, and De veris universalibus; transcribed in 1398 by the hand of his great disciple John “Hus de Hussynetz” himself; ff. 135, 4^o. In an old [contemporary?] inscription on the original cover of the volume the “Tractatus de ydeis” is ascribed to Huss as its author, as well as a tract called “Replicatio de universalibus” which precedes the De universalibus, and in which the writer appears to refer to Wickliffe as “Magister meus reverendus.” &c. Dr. W. W. Shirley was not aware of the existence of this important MS., and includes the Replicatio, together with the other tract (which often occurs in MSS. of Wickliffe's philosophical treatises at Vienna and Prague, and also in one in Trin. Coll., Cambr.), in his Catalogue of the original works of J. Wyclif, 1865, p. 4. He there states that it is found in a Prague MS. with the date 1397, appended to a copy of the tract De universalibus, and that it is “otherwise unknown.”
- *10. Medical receipts, in English; ff. 108, 4^o, latter part of 14th cent. Formerly in the possession of Christian Ray, of Berlin. Copious extracts, in verse and prose, are printed in the Archæologia, 1844, Vol. XXX., pp. 349–418.
- *11. Macer de virtutibus herbarum; in English; ff. 40, fol., cent. XIV. At the end are the Antidotaria of Nich. Præpositus and Joh. Damascenus, in Latin. This also belonged to C. Ray.
- *12. “Digest of Law”; an alphabetical summary of English Law, in French and Latin; commencing with the article, “Abjuracion”; ff. 120, 4to, cent. XV.
- 13. 1568. “Les Affaires du Conte de Boduel.” The narrative printed by the Bannatync Club in 1829 from this MS. From the Royal Library at Drottningholm. In the same volume are despatches of the French envoy Dantzal [Danzay?] in 1585, on the title page of which is written the name of “Dominus Daniel Rogersius, serenissimæ Angliæ Reginæ Consiliarius et ejus Majestatis in Dania Legatus.” Mons. Daniel Rogers, Clerk du Conseil “de la Reyne d'Angleterre.”
- 14. Papers of Nicolas Gyldenstiern or Guldenstern, envoy to England from Eric XII.
 - i. Draft of a farewell letter to Queen Elizabeth, regretting that the uncertainty of human affairs had prevented his giving such proofs of his devotion as he had desired, and that the present condition of things now also hinders his expressing this vivâ voce, and obliges him to convey by letter his thanks for her great kindness to him. Lat., not dated [1562?].
 - ii. Complimentary letter to the same, sent through the Swedish Ambassadors, Eric Count Wisingsburg and Sir Andrew Keith in Forsholm. Offers his services whenever wanted, in remembrance of her kindness to him when ambassador. Lat. Stockholm, 13 July 1583. Printed (with the Queen's reply) in Vol. V. of De la Gardiska Archivet, pp. 7–8.
 - iii. Letter from Cecil, Lord Burghley, to Nic. “Gulderosterne.” The Queen has often written, and now again writes, to the King of Sweden to urge payment of 12,000*l.* borrowed from various persons by Guldenstiern during his embassy in England. Burghley himself now writes privately as a friend to urge it, and also to earnestly recommend the case of John Dimock who has been long troubled very unjustly. Lat. Havering, 18 July 1572.

 - ii. Letter from the Duke of "Lenox" to Stenbock. Recommends Captain James Stewart, who wishes to re-enter the service of the King of Sweden. Whitehall, 29 November 1610.
 - iii. The same to the same. Recommends William Stuart (sic), who had levied a company of footmen for the King of Sweden; some who had been sent on beforehand were slain in Norway, and the King of England stayed the rest from going, but W. Stewart (sic) himself cannot be hindered by his friends from going alone. Hague, 19 May, 1613. Very fine impression of seal of arms.

- 21. A quarto volume of notes of sermons, at the beginning of the 17th century, by Mr. Estie or Estye; together with four by Mr. Newton, one by Mr. Rogers, and one by Mr. Chamberlayne.
- 22. "Descriptio status Angliæ," the state of religion in England in the time of Charles I. and Cromwell. Transcribed from a MS. which the scribe could not perfectly read. Contains a narrative of the dreams of a country woman foreboding ruin to Church and King, which were told to Charles I. a year before the war began; and notices of several fanatics, including a German called "Gisletayl" (or Gistetayl). Beg. "Spectabilis illa Angliæ ecclesia."
8 ff., 4to. (C. XII, 1, 12).
- 23. Extracts from two letters from Arehibald Hamilton, Arehbishop of Cashel (expelled thence by the papists), to Oxenstierna, the first dated at Stockholm, 9 May 1653. Lat. Thanks him for the gift "plurium centenorum imperialium." From Ireland he went with commendatory letters from the King and Parliament to Flanders, where he lived at the Hague for five years;

then came to Sweden in the hope that he might have been appointed librarian of the Royal Library, as an Archbishop was at the Vatican. Has been informed by a noble relative, also named Hamilton (who has been a Professor at Glasgow) that he is accused of two opposite things; i. that he holds conventicles contrary to the laws of the country; ii. that he has abandoned his own form of religion for that of Sweden, "heterodoxam" as some say, "quam ego heterodoxam non agnosco"; but he has done neither the one nor the other. He was educated at Glasgow, and took his degree there when about 19 years of age. He had then intended to go to France, to which his mother's family belonged, but the King stopped him and made him a professor at Glasgow, in which office he remained for nine years until ordained.

24. Diary, in Swedish, of M. Edenberg, Secretary to the Swedish Embassy in England and Holland from 20 September 1672 (setting sail from Goteborg on 22 September) to 25 November, when the ambassadors set out from England for Holland. Notes of audiences, interviews with Arlington, &c., and abstracts of letters. The English portion occupies 11 leaves in quarto, but the diary is continued during the embassy in Holland. [B. V. 1, 6.]
25. "Dissertatio de facto inter Nic. Brahe et Capt. Hooms," 1662. [B. VIII., 1, 10.] Another copy of the narrative mentioned at p. 26 infra, among the MSS. at Upsala. See also p. 10 supra.
26. Various papers relating to [Bishop] Robinson's negotiations in Sweden. [C. X., 1, 9.] "Handlingar rörande till historien om Englands Handel med Sverige." (Copies.)
 - i. Memorial from J. Robinson to the King of Sweden. Stockholm, 24 February 1695. Lat.
 - ii. Two representations in English respecting the trade of English merchants in Sweden, and the reasons why they do not become burghers of Stockholm; in opposition to a proposal for limiting the trading of foreign merchants to four months in the year, 21 and 28 December 1695.
 - iii. Another memorial to the King, 13 March 1696, with the King's reply, 24 March. Lat.
 - iv. Petition from the English merchants to the King, April 1696. Swed.
 - v. Letter to Oxenstierna, not signed, 23 April. Swed.
 - vi. Order from the King, 25 April. Swed.
 - vii. Conferences with Robinson, 27 April and 4 May 1696. Swed.
 - viii. Request from the ministers of England and of the United Provinces for a conference, 8 May. Lat.
 - ix. Answer from the King to a memorial from the minister of the United Provinces, 24 March, and mutatis mutandis the same to Robinson. Lat.

[B. VIII., 1, 21.] i. Thirteen original letters from Robinson to d'Olivecranz, respecting his endeavours to negotiate a peace between Sweden and Poland, of which two are in English, one in Swedish, and the rest in French. Written from Carlserona, Warsaw, &c., from 13 January to 25 August 1703, and from Dantzic from 2 January to 1 October 1704.

ii. Representations to the King of Sweden and the Burgomaster of Dantzic, with respect to the preservation of the neutrality of that city, April and September 1704; with the replies of both.

Writing from Dantzic Robinson says that "the unsuccessfulness, and "other disadvantages of my negotiation here" have increased his desires to be in England, "but, most of all, the unkind opinions of those that are so ready to believe I am no more a good Suede. That "was a character I thought would have outlasted all others, and that "even in times to come some memorandums would have remand of it."

In a bundle of Polish papers, chiefly letters of K. Stanislaus, acquired by the Library in 1880, is a letter in Swedish from Robinson to Secretary Cederhielm, dated at Hamburg, 11 November 1707, with reference to intercession on behalf of the French Protestants condemned to the galleys.
27. [B. VII., 1, 3.] Original letters to Count Wellingk.
 - i. From Cronström, Paris, 18 July 1718. Negotiations of Earl Stanhope, who arrived at Paris at the end of June.

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

- ii. From [Joh. Carl] Stiernhöök; Vienna, 24 September 1718. Arrangements for the marriage of the Princess Sobieski, third daughter of Prince James, aged 16, to the Chevalier de St. George; the Empress of Germany endeavours to dissuade her, but the Jesuits, who have great influence with her, have inspired her with a great liking for the Chevalier as for one who has suffered for religion and in a just cause. Her father assigns to her a dowry of 900,000 Polish florins.
28. Stuart Papers.
- i. Original authorization by "James III." for recovery by Dan O'Bryen (created Earl of Lismore by James at Rome) of 175,000 livres for which Baron Gortz had given acknowledgment to Major-General Dillon as being borrowed in January 1717 and February 1718 for the proposed expedition to Scotland, and which were claimed after Dillon's death from the Court of Sweden by O'Bryen on behalf of James. Rome, 13 September 1755. Signed and sealed.
 - ii. Letter from "Lismore" to Lillienberg about accepting a part in full payment. Rome, 15 September 1755.
 - iii. Statement of settlement of account by Lillienberg. Stockholm, 24 September 1757.
29. "Bref till C. C. Gjorwell," Vol. V.
Three letters from J. H. Liden, of Upsala, written from London, 15 July and 28 August 1769. Notice of Swedenborg. Mention of Maskelyne, the astronomer, &c. After seeing Westminster Abbey he remarks that if the sermons were but as good as the churches they could put a stay to all the corruption of London.
30. i. "Berättelse om England's Tillstånd, 1790." A general view (presented to the King of Sweden) by Jonas Larss Noring, Secretary of Legation, of the political constitution, commerce, manufactures, army and navy, and relations with foreign princes, of England, with a "Bihang" on the Indian possessions and affairs. 8vo., pp. 330, and table of contents. From the Royal Library at Drottningholm, No. 68.
- ii. "Berättelse om Tillståndet, England, 1784," by the same, being "Utdrag af ett Bref till Presidents = Secreteraren Franc," dated London, 20 February 1784, pp. 3–64, Vol. III., of a collection of Noring's Berättelser. At pp. 125–344 is another copy of the Report of 1790.
31. Autobiography (in Swedish) of Lars von Engeström, who was ambassador to England in 1793–5, containing interesting details of his observations in London in 1794–5.
Published by Dr. Elof Tegner, 2 vols., 8vo. Stockholm, 1876.

 - ii. Translation into German of a short English tract by Sir Edw. Forde, printed at London in 1666: "Experimentirte Furschläge welcher gestalt der König seiner Flotten." 3 ff.
34. [B. VIII., 1, 9.] Varia Diplomatica.
- Art. 2. Copy of a letter from the King of Sweden to J. B. Leyonberg, envoy extr. in England, "om gratulations och condolance complimenterne" to the Queen of England, 25 April 1685.
- Art. 31. "Afskrift af Baron Nolckens Berättelse angående den Tullfrihet "Utrikes ministrer vid Stor Britanniska Hofvet vid deras första "ankomst antryuta." London, 18 March 1783.
35. [C. XII., 1, 13.] In a volume of English printed pamphlets the following MS. papers are bound up:—
- i. Sixteen lines in German addressed to James II. and his Queen.
 - ii. Dutch poem to Will. III.
 - iii. French verses by A. Papi, and six Latin lines, in memory of the Duke of Marlborough.
 - iv. [Defoe's] Legion's Memorial to the House of Commons. [1701.]

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

- v. Statement of the National Debt, &c. in 1748. Fr.
- vi. Description, in French, of the Princess Sophia Charlotte of Mecklenburg Strelitz, when betrothed to George III., at the age of 16 [17]. Of pleasing figure, kind-hearted, generous, shy, but entirely uneducated. "Elle a, selon moi, l'esprit assez delié, l'humeur assez accomodante, et la reste qu'il faut pour étre Reine d'Angleterre, ou la tranquillité, le bonheur, et la liberté des sujets, n'exigent que la douceur, la bonté, et des princes pour la succession."
- vii. List, in Swedish, of the various expeditions sent out from England in the years 1755–1762, with their commanders.
- viii. List, in French, of the subsidies voted by Parliament for war from 1693 to 1762.
- ix. Translation into Swedish of [No. XLV. of] Wilkes' [North Briton].
36. Collections, in Swedish, by Jacob Serenius (pastor of the Lutheran Church in London in the time of Geo. I., and afterwards Bishop of Strengnäs) out of Camden's Britannia and various historians, entitled "Pragmatiska anmärkingar öfver Engellska Staten ifrån dess första uprinnelse till närwarande tjd." In folio, ff. 30.
37. [C. XII., 1, 14.] "Om Engelska Parlamentet;" a historical account of the English Parliament, in a letter, without signature. Cent. XVIII., in 4to., ff. 43.

39. [C. XII., 1, 16.] Translation into Swedish (dated at Stockholm, 1675) of "O'Brazil, or the Enchanted Island," published at London in 1674 under the name of W. Hamilton, and usually ascribed to Rich. Head.
40. [C. XV., 1, 15.] "A view of Sir I. Newton's 34th proposition of the second book of his Mathematical Principles of Natural Philosophy."

(3.)—LIBRARY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF UPSALA.

During four days spent in examining some portions of the stores of this the richest library in Sweden, the Manuscript Catalogues of all the separate collections which seemed the most likely to contain anything bearing upon English history were searched. Through the great kindness of the Librarian, Dr. Carl Gustaf Styffe (whose name is well known in connexion with his contributions to the history of his own country), I was enabled to prosecute my work in the evenings after the ordinary hours of closing the library, Dr. Styffe himself attending to give me admittance. The collections of Count Eric Axelsson Sparre (ambassador to England, died 1726), Bishop Nordin (of Hernösand, died 1812), of Palm skiöld (who made large transcripts from the Royal Archives), and others, all yielded materials for notice in this report, as will be seen below. But the most were found amongst the papers of King Gustavus III. With a foresight for the interests of history not common among the sovereigns of his age, this monarch, by a will made in 1788, bequeathed all his private correspondence and papers to the University of Upsala, with a proviso that they should not be opened until the expiration of 50 years from the time of his death. As he died (by the assassin's hand) in 1792, it was therefore in 1842 that his bequest first came to light. A manuscript catalogue in two folio volumes gives full lists of the papers, which are contained in 64 volumes in folio and 55 in quarto. The French portion are noticed in M. Geoffroy's Rapport frequently mentioned above, pp. 419–424, and a long series of letters from Franc. Piranesi the younger to Gustavus are there printed at pp. 436–461; but probably little is known of the rest of the contents of these volumes so far as other nations are concerned. For England the special feature of interest lies in their containing correspondence (in French) of Prince Charles Edward Stuart and of his wife, in his latter days, with the King of Sweden, which vividly illustrates the unhappy and degraded condition in which most of those latter days were so sadly passed. Of many of these I subjoin abstracts. But one very interesting manuscript in the older division of the Library demands from its date the first notice. It is a folio volume containing (in 774 pages) original drafts and copies by Nico's Guldenstern, or Gyldenstierna, of his correspondence and state papers while employed on embassies to Queen Elizabeth and to the Emperor of Germany; by far the greater part, however, relating to the former. Before coming to the Library the volume was in the possession of Adam Horn. The following is a synopsis of its English contents:—

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR MARRIAGE BETWEEN ERIC XII. OF SWEDEN AND QUEEN ELIZABETH.

1. Articles proposed by Duke John of Finland, the first ambassador.
2. Bond from Guldenstern to Lionel Duket, Rich. Springham, and Geoffrey Duket, merchants of London, for 2,300*l.* to be paid on 26 May; dated 10 March 1561. Other bonds were given to John Dymock, Will. Hewet, and Edw. Osborn to the total amount of 11,848*l.* 15*s.*
3. Copy of a letter sent by Eric to Eliz. through John Dimock, 11 April 1561.
4. Copy of a short letter from the Queen to Eric, professing friendship "tantum . . . ut plus a principe rogari non potest"; Greenwich, 4 May.
5. Two letters to the King from Guldenstern, one dated 29 May.
6. Letter to the same from the same, with account of an interview with the Queen on 21 April. She said she would never marry one whom she had not seen, and would be very sorry for the King to come over to England lest he should be disappointed and thereby become an enemy. Guldenstern told her that he found the marriage very popular in England, and that it was opposed by none but Papists (of whom she had lately committed some to prison).
7. Long letter from the Queen to Eric, dated at Greenwich, 22 June 1561, indignantly complaining of the unauthorised representations made by Dymock to encourage Eric in his suit, and of his asking the latter to have his portrait painted by a painter whom Dymock took with him to Sweden; and desiring that Dymock may be committed to prison. All this she has represented to the ambassador Dionysius Borraeus. Dymock is a native of Lower Germany and was employed by Henry VIII. and Edw. VI. as an interpreter, but never by her sister or herself. He only asked her leave to go to Sweden to sell some valuables to the King. For herself, she does not wish ever to marry.
See Calendar of Clarendon State Papers, Vol. I., p. 476, where a copy is erroneously dated (by mistake in the printed text) 25 June.
8. Letters from Eric to the Earl of "Pembruck" and to "Knoull" (Knollis), 14 September 1561; which afterwards, however, he desires Nic. Jorenssohn, his chancellor, not to deliver unless deemed particularly necessary.
9. Three letters to Eric from Guldenstern. 25 September; the Queen is very uneasy at hearing that the King is about to come to England. 11 October; despondent as to the result of his mission; jealousy of the Queen about Mary Queen of Scots; she refuses a safe-conduct for the King. 11 November; has had two hours' extremely cheerful conference with the Queen on general foreign affairs, the Queen of Scots, &c., but with regard to marriage she gave the same answer as before.
10. Eric to the Queen, 12 November 1561, with an account of a storm that stopped his voyage from Sweden when he had sailed about 12 miles. Begs for a safe-conduct to come to her. Complains of her unkindness.
See Calendar of Foreign State Papers for 1560-1, p. 324, where this letter appears to be erroneously entered under the date of September 1560. Comp. the Calendar for 1562, p. 620, under date of 21 September 1561.
11. Guldenstern to Eric, 9 December; two letters, in one recommending an Englishman named George Harwe.
12. Eric to the Queen, praying her to pardon the Earl of Hertford and the Lady Katherine [Grey] whom she has committed to prison for marrying; 14 December.
13. Guldenstern to Eric; 18 December. Further discussion of the proposed marriage articles, and the question of living in Sweden, with the Queen, who at first was more moved "perturbacissimo animo" than he had ever seen her, but, at last, "nonnihil placata dataque manu a me recessit." Discussions also with the Queen's councillors.
14. 1561. Speech by Guldenstern ("mea oratio") to the Council.
15. Heads of objection to the King of Sweden, with replies: distance, disputed state of the kingdom on account of the claim of the Duchess of Lorraine, lack of nobility there (to which the ambassador replies, "plus quam opus"), smallness of revenue.

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

16. Letter from Guldenstern to the King with a full account of his first audience on 2 April, when the Queen said sharply more than ten times that she had heard that the Queen of Scots, "illam pulchram, formosam, bene edoctam," had turned the King's affections towards herself, which seemed to trouble her greatly; he answered that the King had never thought of such a thing.
17. "Exemplar literarum Nic. Gyldenstiern ad Reginam Angliæ (Reg. Suecorum etiam, si velit) rogantium ut finem tandem negotio illi matrimoniali imponat; item ut domum sive ædes liberas in quibus merces deponi possent Rex Sueciæ Londini habere possit; datæ tertio mense ab eo tempore quo revocatus erat Legatus."
18. 24 February 1562. Account of an interview with the Queen, in the course of which she said, "' Si vester Rex me tantopere non amat ut etiam dubius velit ' experiri suam fortunam et venire, tum non multum curo.' Verbis quidem ' ita dicebat, sed animus certe contrarium sentit, nam certe curat, et quidem ' maxima et urgenti cura."
19. 20 March 1562. He writes to the Queen for a final answer, being recalled.
20. "Literæ valedictoriæ ad Reginam Angliæ paucis diebus ante abitum e regno datæ."
See farewell letter, p. 14 supra.
21. 24 April 1562. Long letter from Guldenstern, "Guil. Secylio;" signed and addressed, and therefore, as it seems, never forwarded; written from the mouth of the Thames. Makes a last appeal on behalf of the King of Sweden, and complains of the way he has been himself treated; no one dared to speak to him for fear of incurring suspicion.
22. 22 July 1562. Credentials from the King, accrediting Guldenstiern and Bened. Gylte for the renewal of negotiations for the marriage. Signed by the King.
23. Same date. Instructions for the ambassadors. Swed.
24. Same date. Letter from the King to Queen Elizabeth. Has received her letters expressing "iram et indignationem;" sends again to ask explanations, and to give them if there was any error in the recall of the last embassy. Desires to renew the negotiations.
25. 15 September, an. 3 [1561]. Safe-conduct signed by the Queen for the King's journey to England. On parchment.
26. 26 March, an. 4 [1562]. Passport signed by the Queen for Guldenstern's return. On parchment.
27. Stockholm, 14 September 1562. Letter from Guldenstern to the Queen, complaining of false representations and accusations made against him by Franc. Berthi of unfaithfulness to his master, dishonesty in money matters, &c.
See Calendar of Foreign State Papers, 1562, p. 300.
28. 1562. Draft of a letter from the King to the same. He sent in the summer a letter and a small gift by an English nobleman N. who was returning to England. Has had no reply; begs for one. Hears that the nobleman is thrown into prison; intercedes for him.
29. Stockholm [10 November 1562]. Draft of a letter from Guldenstern to the same, recalling to her recollection the request for his vindication made in his letter of 14 September.
See Calendar of Foreign State Papers, 1562, p. 452.
30. Windsor, 25 February 1563. Letter from the Queen to King Eric. Hears that his sister Cecilia wishes to come to England; will gladly receive her; writes to the King of Denmark for a safe-conduct for her.
31. 1 May 1563. Letter from the King in reply to one from London of 15 Cal. Mart. about the money borrowed by Guldenstern. Does not understand how it was he was obliged to borrow, and cannot reply until Guldenstern has returned; he had enough money both for his own expenses and for presents.

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

32. 15 October 1563. From the same to Queen Elizabeth. Greatly troubled at the letters received "ante annum elapsam," which seemed to destroy all his hopes. The reports about his seeking to marry the Queen of Scots are false. Again urges his suit.

See Calendar of Foreign State Papers, 1563, p. 559.

33. 24 September 1564. Letter from the Queen to Eric about Guldenstern's debts.

MSS. OF GUSTAVUS III.—STUART CORRESPONDENCE.

Vol. XVII. Quarto.

1. Thirteen letters from Prince Charles Edward as "Comte d'Albanie," to Gustavus under the title of "Comte d'Haga," and two to Louis XVI. of France; written from Florence, 8 November 1783—8 November 1784. The earlier letters are partly about some diamonds, pearls, and a ruby which had been pledged, and which he is anxious to recover and keep from his brother; the later are about his daughter and about his lack of money.

27 April 1784. Desires to go to Venice and Paris under the name of Comte de Bielk. "Je regleres en meme temps à Paris une certaine affaire de famille qui m'est tres chere en procurante entierement mon bonheur et qui seroit perdu si mon frere le saves."

3 May. Has had a long conversation with Count Sparre on the subject of his letter of 27 April. "Il faudra que j'envois Steuart à ma place pour mameñer mon enfant."

16 July. To Louis XVI. Begs him to make some provision for securing after the writer's death some of his allowance "a my Lady Charlotte Stuart, ma fille naturelle, qui j'ai reconnu par un acte public et qui va devenir la consolation de mes derniers jours."

Statement sent to the King of Sweden for representation to the King of France. The writer would never have contracted his marriage (to which "doit ses derniers malheurs") had he not been assured that the King of France who desired that marriage would continue to him the allowance of 240,000 livres which had been made to his father. The stoppage of this has overwhelmed him with debts.

8 November. To Louis XVI. Prays for help. He is abandoned by all the world. His brother keeps all the "bijoux" which he ought to have, and also the arrears of his pension from the Pope. In addition to this dishonest conduct, he is so unnatural as not to reply to his letters. He has just acknowledged and legitimized his daughter the Duchess of Albany, who is at present his only comfort; prays for support for himself and her. "Le tres affectionné frere et cousin, Charles Comte d'Albanie."

2. Six letters to Gustavus from Louise Comtesse d'Albanie, written from Rome, Bologna, and Paris, 11 May 1784—1 January 1786.

Sends the medals struck on her marriage for which he asked. Her brother-in-law is angry with her because he has had to disburse some money and because she has escaped from his chains; he wishes to write to Florence to break the arrangement which has been made; she asks Gustavus if he writes to her husband "de toujours louer cette accomodement."

Bologna, 22 January 1785. ". . . . que la santé du Comte d'Albanie est devenue beaucoup plus mauvaise, et que ma prescnce est necessaire, quand il sera question de desmeler avec ses heritiers des affaires d'argent. Quand à celui qu'il reclame contre son frere, j'ose assurer votre Majesté que cela est absolument faux, et qu'il est païé tres exactement. Il a aussi obtenu soixante mille francs de la Cour de France; mais cela ne l'empêche pas de se plaindre à tout le monde, disant qu'il n'a pas le pain à manger. J'ai vu des lettres qu'il a écrit au Baron de Wachter ou il dit qu'il est dans la plus grande detresse; cela ne l'empêche pas de donner tous les jours des diner de 15 personnes, et trois fois par semaine des bals, et qu'il a augmente sa maison du double, s'étant mis sur le pied du Roy avec des Secretaires de Cabinet, des Ministres, parce qu'il croit d'avoir fait un acte d'hautorite en reconnoissant sa fille. Je suis entrée dans tous ces details avec votre Majesté pour la convaincre qu'il a de l'argent. Je suis à Bologne depuis un mois, et je ne suis pas pressée de retourner à Rome chez mon beau frere, qui me cherche de continuelles tracasseries. C'est à votre Majesté que je dois le bonheur d'avoir pu me tirer de ses mains," &c.

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

Bologna, 8 March 1785. “Les bontés dont votre Majesté m’a comblé m’enhardissent de la supplier de vouloir y mettre le comble en m’accordant une assurance de sa main qu’elle a daigné être mediateur entre moi et mon mary, et que pour qu’il m’accorda la liberté de vivre loin de lui, il a exigé que je renonceat a la jouissance des diamants. Je n’ose entre en detail de cette affaire avec votre Majesté pour ne pas abuser de ses bontés ; mais j’en ai chargé le Senateur de Sparre,” &c.

Paris, 15 June 1785. Has come to Paris very unwillingly, being compelled to do so to look after her rights. Has been assisted by the advice of the abbé Sabbatier who is known to the King of Sweden. Her husband, her brother-in-law, and Miladi Stuart have united in addressing the minister M. de Vergenes, but she has shown her reasons for claiming 40,000 francs from her husband’s property ; the minister appears to be persuaded, but suggests a compromise to which she consents. Begs the King to write a word in her favour, or to direct his ambassador to interpose for her. Is living in great retirement, and does not like Paris, which is too “bruiant.” Would gladly be with the King.

[Paris], 3 December 1785. Thanks him for a letter and for his kindness. Marked, “Repondu, le 6 Janvier 1786.”

Paris, 1 January 1786. Writes to send her “homage” and acknowledgements at the beginning of the year. “Votre Majesté scaura que mon mary est a Rome avec sa fille ; je n’intende plus parler de lui.” She is living very quietly and agreeably, “cependant je ne me sens aucun attrait pour Paris ; la manière de vivre est trop bruiante pour qui a passé sa moitié de sa vie en Italie. Dans ce moment il y a fait tres froid, mais il ne m’incommode pas, et j’oserai affronter celui de la Suede. J’ai cherché a connoître Mde. la Comtesse de Boufflers, comme je scaois que votre Majesté lui accordoit ses bontes ; elle les merite bien.”

3. Two letters to the King of Sweden from the Prince’s daughter, Charlotte Stuart, Duchesse d’Albanie. Fr.

Rome, 28 December 1786. Is happy in being the means of conveying her father’s acknowledgements for all the benefits conferred on him ; he prays continually for everything that can contribute to the King’s happiness.

Rome, 19 July 1788. Thanks him for the letter brought by M. Fredenheim. Sends, as he desires, the only paper which she can find after the most diligent search ; thinks no others exist, as her late august father mentioned this as being the only piece relative to the affair when he commended it to her care. If among the papers which have lately come to her from Florence she should find any of interest to the King she will send them.

4. Twenty-three letters to Count Sparre from the Comtesse d’Albanie in 1784–5.

Partly about the diamonds claimed by her husband, the Cardinal, and herself. In one, written for her by Madlle. Malzan, Canoness of Migette, she says she has heard that her husband has had a fit of apoplexy which the physicians say will be mortal.

Rome, 18 May. Has with great difficulty obtained leave from her brother-in-law to go to Frascati ; she dined with him yesterday, and he treated her coldly. “Imaginez vous la mehaneté des gens qui l’entourent ! Ils ont dit a ce sot divot que j’avois obtenu une pension d’Angleterre pour humilier sa famille, et que c’étoit pour cela que j’avois renoncé a 4,000 mille (sic) ecus ; comme les pretres sont mechants, mon cher Senateur ! Le vieux de Florence est surement devenu imbecile ; apres ce qu’il vous a dit, il est impossible son projet de voyage ma plu, et il me paroissoit de voir ariver le C. d’Aga avec cet éclopi, et de voir l’effet qu’il auroit a Paris. J’ai bien ri de ce proget, digne d’une pareille tete.” She spends her days in reading, walking, and music.

Inspruck, 13 June. Account of her journey in continual rain and cold : “Jupiter Pluvien” has accompanied her. But she has enjoyed it greatly ; for 23 days she has lived entirely amongst horses, coachmen, and country inns ; in the coach she has read, and read the newspapers ; at the inns she has played on her harp.

Baden, 29 June. Journey thither ; met by Elizabeth, who ran from the city to meet her : “elle est . . . (?) devant moi dans l’appartement oriant comme une petite fille ; elle ma l’air bien jeune pour son age, et bien

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

“ennuie de suivre la Religieux. Mon cher Senateur, Dieu direit (?) la destiner dans une autre etat, ou elle devoit prendre l'equivalent, pauvre femme, avouer que le sort des femmes et [est] malheureux, mais beaucoup plus celui de les principes. Je crois bien qu'elle envie mon sort ; je ne changerois pas avec elle, quoiqu'elle est plus riche.” Ridicules her brother-in-law ; “— que l'est un divot d'une singuliere espece ; je ny pense jamais sans enragier.”

12 July. The people at the Baths are like savages ; the women live entirely among themselves, and the men too ; “cela est bien edifiant, mais peu gaie.”

30 July. Does not like the country ; it is very dull ; the Swiss are very cold and insipid. But she does not wish to hasten back to her prison and gaoler at Rome ; her health is better in a colder climate and away from priests.

20 August. At Martinsbourg, in Alsace, with Madlle. Maltzam and her brothers and sisters. “Le vieux de Florence fait venir sa fille ; il a envoie Stuart pour la chercher C'est cependant assez drole ; jusqu'au tombeau il emportera ses ridicules et dans tout ce qu'il fait il y m'est une empreinte de betise ; mais il est difficile d'attendre autre chose de lui.”

Genoa, 1 December. News from Rome of a great promotion ; “Monseigneur Albani est nomé pour Vienne, dont bien le fache, car il n'aime pas a se faire pretre, et vous savez qu'il n'a pas trop l'esprit à la chose ; mais vous connaissez assez Rome pour savoir que tout s'accommode.” The old man of Florence covers himself with ridicule about his daughter, whom he calls Her Royal Highness, at which the Cardinal is disgusted. He has 85,000 livres per annum, and yet says he has not bread to eat. She never saw such a fool.

Bologna, 8 January 1785. The old man of Florence treats his daughter as the heir to the throne ; he keeps the state of a king in balls and dinners, and yet says he has not bread to eat ; he creates baronets (—the poor Stuart is one of the new baronets—), and gives the Order of St. Andrew to everybody ; you would say it is the court of Harlequin. The poor man cannot walk, but is carried from one room to another, and thinks himself a king : “c'est de quoi mourir de rire. Il est furieux contre votre maitre” [the K. of Sweden], and calls him all the names with which he gratifies his brother, with whom he is more than ever embroiled, because the latter will not acknowledge his daughter as Her Royal Highness. Waits for the end of the tragi-comedy, and if in March the curtain is not down and the lights out, will pass the summer at some baths.

Bologna, 22 January. Ridiculing her husband as in former letters. “On dit sa fille fort raisonnable.”

Bologna, 4 April. The Cardinal has reconciled himself to his niece, and so with his brother, and gives her the title of Royal Highness, which is only due to the legitimate children of reigning sovereigns.

Copy of an assignment made by “Charles Troisième,” 17 April 1772, upon his property for the payment of 40,000 livres to the Princess Louise de Stolberg, given by the contract of marriage which was signed in his name by Col. Edmond O'Bryan, and of 4,000 livres annually.

Paris, 15 June 1785. “Je n'aime guere le pais ; il est trop frivole pour moi ; on ne s'occupe que de la bagatelle, et tout est une affaire. La Reine n'a pas voulu me voir ; je crois que c'est parceque je ne me suis adressée a ce qu'on appelle le Tripot, mais elle a mis toutes sortes de “graces a me faire voire Trianon.”

Paris, 14 August 1785. Complains of his silence ; has written six times without receiving a reply. “Vous trouverez mon cœur toujours bien tendre pour vous, et qui vous est bien attachée.”

In the same Vol. [XVII.] are also the following :—

1. Two letters from John Renaud Forster to Gust. III., in French ; the first, 27 July 1778, presenting his Voyages round the World ; the second, 7 September 1779, thanking him for a testimony of his approbation.
2. Letter from — Wengierski to the same as Count de Haga ; Bath, 9 December 1784. Will do his utmost to procure any rare English books he may want for his library. “Après avoir parcouru les principales isles du Golphe du Mexique, et penetré jusqu'au lac Champlain dans le Nord de l'Amerique, “je me suis embarque pour l'Irland. J'ai traverse' cette Isle si favorable-

“ment situé pour la commerce, et pourvû par la nature des portes les plus commodes, et d’une facilité de communication intérieure introuvable dans aucun autre pays. Le sol en est riche et fertile, le climat en est doux et sain, mais les habitans sont rares paresseux et opprimés, et le sort d’un laboureur Catholique dans le sud de l’Irlande est plus à plaindre que celui de malheureux paysan de la Lithuanie. Si l’on pouvait trouver une consolation dans la misere humaine, j’aurais souri de voir dans un pays celebre pour la liberté des êtres plus infortunés encor que ceux que l’Europe nous reproche de tenir dans l’esclavage.”

Vol. XI. “Bref frâ Utlandske Män.”

Letter to the King from “le Comte Drummond de Melfort, neveu de feldmarechal Keith,” Paris, 20 February 1776. Sends him a copy of a treatise which he has just written “sur la Cavalerie;” it will be published in May, dedicated to the King of France, whom the writer serves as Maréchal de Camp and Inspector General of the Light Troops.

Vol. XV. Letters from Royal Personages.*

From George III. of England [in 1780, in answer to some offer of mediation with France]. Thanks him for his offer, but circumstances render its acceptance impossible; he will keep it an inviolable secret. “Par principe, par inclination et par systeme je suis ami de la Paix . . . C’est l’aggression de mes ennemis qui m’a forcé à la guerre, et ils rendent tout accommodement impossible aussi longtems qu’ils soutiennent mes sujets rebelles. Je plains les maux que cette guerre entraîne; je souhaite ardemment de les voir finir; mais je n’oublierai jamais que le maintien des interets essentiels de mon peuple et des droits de ma couronne est le premier de tous mes devoirs.”

Vol. XVIII. “Bref frân Utlandske Ministrar, &c.”

From Sir Thomas Wroughton, the English envoy, 31 January 1780. Fr. The series of letters from French ministers in this volume is very large.

Vol. XIX. Same title.

Six letters from H. Elliot, the envoy at Copenhagen, dated from Jönköping and Goteborg, 22 September—13 October 1788. Comes to Sweden earnestly pressing for a secret personal interview with the King respecting the assignment of a new frontier and the position of the troops of the Prince of Hesse. Fr.

Nineteen letters from [Sir] Sidney Smith, while serving as a volunteer in the Swedish fleet; 19 April 1790—15 March 1791. Declines a high command offered him in the Swedish service on account of a proclamation forbidding English officers to enter foreign service, and requests the King to make this public. Account of a battle with the Russian flotilla at Vransari in June 1790. Fr., very roughly written, with erasures and interlineations.

From Patrick Miller, Dalswinton, 9 June 1790, with a plan for constructing “vaisseaux double mis en mouvement par l’application de roues;” with a coloured drawing.

Vol. XX. A volume of letters from Countess Boufflers, of which many, extending from November 1789 to November 1791 (the last in the vol.), are written from London and Richmond.

Vol. XXII. Letters from Swedish ministers abroad.

Twelve letters from Gustaf Adam von Noleken at London, with copies of some public papers, from 1772 to 25 March 1791. Notices of French refugees; the Duke of Orleans is detested by them; he lives by himself, with M^{me}. Buffon and M. de Le Clos, author of Les Liaisons dangereuses, whom his compatriots denounce as the most wicked man in France. The Prince of Wales has visited him, but not so frequently or so intimately as before; it is thought that the Duke wishes to entangle him in the nets of M^{me}. Buffon, so that he may disentangle himself without expense, but the plan has failed

* In this volume are 19 letters from Marie Antoinette. In the last, dated 1 February 1790, she thanks the King for the friendship evinced in his letter of 22 December: “Les malheurs inévitables du plus beau royaume possible aggravent nos peines chaque jour;” but she hopes that the French will at last be convinced that they cannot be happy until they rally under the government of their King, so just and good, than whom they will never find another more ready to sacrifice his own personal interests for the peace and welfare of the people.

through the coldness of the Prince and the implacable hatred of Mrs. Fitzherbert, to whom the Prince, notwithstanding “des ecartes momentanes,” remains sincerely attached.

BARON ERIC SPARRE'S PAPERS.

A long series of letters from Carl Gyllenborg at London to the Baron de Sparre at Paris, from 27 January 1715 to 15 January 1717, forms one volume in quarto. Many are in cipher, with the deciphering. They include copies of despatches, in Swedish, to the Minister, Baron de Müllern, a manuscript copy of the political pamphlet [by Rob. Jackson, the English Resident at Stockholm], entitled “An English Merchant's Remarks,” &c., which was printed in 1717 and 1738, and the printed speech of Geo. I. to Parliament, 21 January 1715, on the landing of the Chevalier.

“Bref-Vexling,” Vol. A—G. Short letter from Bolingbroke, Liège, 6 April 1720, about some seamen who await Sparre's orders.

Complimentary letter from Lord Carteret, Stockholm, 28 September 1719.

“Bref-Vexling,” Vol. M—P. Twelve letters from Petkum at London to Sparre and Gortz, 10 January 1716—7 January 1717.

“Bref-Vexling,” Vol. R—A. From Earl of Strafford, Hague, 11 June 1714, in English. Sparre need make no excuse for his English, which is perfectly good. The Emperor of Germany will not enter into any concert of good offices with the English and French ambassadors for the pacification of the North; Strafford will press Holland to join, but if the Republic still refuses he and the French ambassador will proceed by themselves, and nothing will be wanting to save Sparre's fatherland from ruin.

A collection of letters from Charles Sparre, while Resident in England, to his uncle Eric Sparre, from London, 4 December 1719—12 May 1720, with one from Hanover of 7 August 1720.

“Bref-Vexling, IX. Bilagor.” Papers relating to the mission of Count Eric Sparre to England; his Plein-Pouvoir, Instructions, copies of letters from Geo. I., Treaty, &c.; September—November 1719.

NORDIN COLLECTION.

Of these MSS. there is a well-written catalogue, in 2 vols. folio. M. Geoffroy says that they number 500 in folio and more than 1,000 in quarto.

No. 186; folio, No. 38. Journal, in Swedish, of Christ. Bonde's embassy in England, from 10 August 1655 to 27 June 1656. Apparently well worth examination.

Nos. 187, 188; in folio, Nos. 52, 53. Copies of Harald Appelboom's letters from the Hague, which include copies of Nieupoort's letters from London to the States General in 1655–6. Some of these letters of Nieupoort are no doubt amongst those which are printed in Thurloe's State Papers.

No. 189; in folio, No. 137, ff. 271. Papers relating to commercial treaties and to business relating to ships and trade transacted by the Swedish Commissioners in London, Ja. Barkman and others, in 1657–8.

Other MSS. relating to the diplomatic relations between England and Sweden during the same Commonwealth period are found in two bundles given to the library by — Cederhielm. These consist of the papers of Israel Lagerfeldt, and relate to his negotiations in England in 1653. In the first bundle the following items may be specially noted:—

“Ein kürtzer Bericht von gegenwärtiger form der Regierung in Engellandt;” Lond., 28 October 1652. 10 pp. fol.

French translation of A Letter written to a gentleman in the country on the dissolution of Parliament.

Orders signed by E. Mountagu as President of the Council of State.

Letter to Lagerfeldt from Franc. Macedo, the Portuguese envoy in England; Lond., 1 January [1654]. “Mirum parturit Anglia! Quin et peperit Regem Cromwellum. Ne reprehende quod Regem dixerim; tantum nomine non est; “re est.”

To the same from Bulstrode Whitelocke, informing him that the Protector has confirmed the treaty; Lond., 3 August 1654. Lat.

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

Copy of a letter from the same, in English, recommending some application made by Lagerfeldt; Upsala, 2 February 1654.

The second bundle contains Lagerfeldt's drafts of his despatches to Queen Christina and to Swedish ministers, and of his letters and memorials to the Government in England and to others.

THE PALMSKIÖLD COLLECTION

consists entirely of copies (made in the last century) of documents preserved among the Royal Archives of Sweden. One Vol. (No. 88) in 4to., consisting of 383 pp., is entitled "Acta Anglo-Suethica," and contains transcripts of various treaties and public papers from 1560 to 1701, together with several printed tracts. Inter alia, letters between King Eric XIV. and Queen Elizabeth; translation into Swedish of a letter from James I. to Charles IX., 23 June 1609, which accompanied the gift of James's Apologia; and the "Dissertatio de facto inter Nic. Brahe, Legatum Sueciæ, et R. Hooms, navis prætorie Angl. capitaneum, in flumine Tamesi intercedente, cum Legatus in Sueciam reverteretur," in 1662, of which another copy is noted at p. 16 supra. The collection consists of some 500 volumes, and there is a written catalogue.

The following list of Ambassadors seems to deserve printing, as an useful table of reference. It is contained in substance in two MSS., and represents verbatim the results of their collation.

No. 1.—Report on Libraries in Sweden—continued.

In a small collection called “Bibliotheca Brinckmanniana” is a quarto MS. of 155 pages, entitled “Observations détachées sur l’Angleterre dans les années 1788–90.” It consists of a series of fragmentary and miscellaneous notes: on Methodists, Quakers, and the Church (of which the service is said to be long, fatiguing, and only calculated to send people to sleep; every clergyman is monotonous, and the singing is short); on places in and near London; musical societies and concerts; with a long account of Oxford.

The kindness of Dr. Styffe furnished me with the following list of MSS. of travels in England. Time did not allow of my examining in detail more than the first two and last two. The numbers attached are those of their places in the general collection:—

			No.
Schering Rosenhane	-	March–Sept. 1629	- 351
Eric Odelstjerna	-
S. Buschenfeldt	-	Relating to mines,	{ 1692 - - 365
Th. Clatcher	-	ironworks, &c.	{ 1694–7 - - 366
J. Alstromer.—Manufactures	-	- 1719–20	- 376
J. Svedelius.—Statist	-	- 1736	- 381
J. H. Liden.—Literature and Religion	-	- 1769	- 398–9
U. von Troil, Archbishop of Upsala	-	July–Sept. 1772	- 400

Rosenhane came to England in company with the Swedish Ambassador, and afterwards went to France; the English portion of his book occupies 21 leaves, in quarto, and the French portion 5. From London he visited Oxford, Greenwich, Hampton Court, Windsor, &c. Of Henry Seventh’s Chapel he remarks that it deserves to be called a wonder of the world. Maundy Thursday “peculiares exhibit ceremonias Papisticas”; he says that then the Archbishop washed the feet of poor persons in Westminster Abbey. On April 6 and 8 he notes “Comœdias vidi,” but unfortunately does not specify them. On April 3, “Theatrum quoque vidimus ab altera parte Tamisis ubi certamina habentur (quæ vidi) canum magnorum cum ursis, canum quoque et taurorum, Bulle, item et equorum; congregiuntur quoque cum ursis fortes viri, et nudis manibus pugnant. Magna ibi solertia canum et nobilitas videtur; per funem ex tecto perpendiculariter dependentem canem quoque ascendere vidi.”

Odelstjerna’s travels relate chiefly to mines and mining operations throughout Europe in general; they contain two very good Indian-ink drawings of apparatus used in tin mines, &c. Swecl.

The travels of Liden (who was Professor of History at Lund and died in 1793) in England occupied a period of six months, viz., from 24 June to 19 December 1769, and are full of interesting passages with reference to the learning, literature, and religious life of the time.* In accordance with his will the volumes were not opened until 1843. Of Oxford he gives a full description, such as might, however, be chiefly gathered from guide-books; notices of the Bodleian, its librarian, its catalogue, and its Orientalist Uri, to whom Liden had a letter of introduction from Dr. Archibald Maclaine, the minister of the English Presbyterian Church at the Hague and the translator of Mosheim. He mentions his own preaching at the Swedish Church in London, and gives a description of Swedenborg and his writings, incorporating in his MS. a copy of Swedenborg’s “Answer to a letter written to me by a friend,” printed at London as a fly-sheet of two leaves in 1769.† There are accounts of the universities of Cambridge and Edinburgh; notices of Greenwich Observatory and the British Museum; notices of learned Societies, sights, hospitals, charities, religious sects, sermons, and of men of eminence or note in any way. On 6 and 7 September he attended the Shakespeare Festival at Stratford-on-Avon, and notices Garrick in connexion with it. But his most interesting and fullest notice is of John Wesley, whom he greatly admired. On Sunday 15 October he heard him preach in the morning at Spitalfields to more than 4,000 persons, and in the afternoon at the Foundry; and in connexion with the services he speaks of Charles

* M. Geoffroy prints from these travels (which extended through Germany, Holland, England, and France, and which are written in Swedish) at pp. 380–415 of his Rapport, a French translation of Liden’s notices of the colleges and libraries of Paris, and of French artists.

† Other printed papers in the Vol. are:—Catalogue of Pictures, &c., in the Bodleian, 1769; Description of the Painting in the Theatre, Oxf. 1766; Catalogue of Rarities at Don Saltero’s Coffee House, 37th edit.; specimen leaf of Hebrew types, by Will. Tooke, 1769; and specimens of “new-invented types for printing music,” by Henry Foug, 1768.

Wesley and his hymns, and the heartiness with which they were sung. He gives a copy of a printed letter of John Wesley's on Union amongst Christians, especially ministers, occupying three pages, dated from Bristol, 15 October 1766, re-issuing one originally dated from Scarborough, 19 April 1764, and printed lists of the works of the two brothers. But the chief interest of his account lies in his incorporating an autograph paper sent him by "ælkswarde Mr. Wesley" in reply to questions addressed to him by Liden with regard to his system and mode of administration. This I subjoin at length.

"November 16, 1769.

"To answer those questions thoroughly would require a volume. It is partly done in the little Tracts. On the points wherein they are defective I will add a few words as my time permits.

- "1. There are many thousand Methodists in Great Brittain and Ireland which are not formed into Societies. Indeed none are but those (or rather a part of those) who are under the care of Mr. Wesley. These at present contain a little less than thirty thousand persons.
- "2. The places at which there is constant Preaching (three or four times a week at least) are the Foundry near Moorfields, the French Church near the Seven Dials (at these two places there is preaching every morning and evening), the French Church in Spitalfields, the Chappel in Snowfields Southwark, the Chappel in Wapping, and one not far from Smithfield.
- "3. They have many Schools for teaching Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic; but only one for teaching the higher Parts of Learning. This is kept in Kingswood near Bristol, and contains about Forty Scholars. These are all Boarders, and might be abundantly more, but the House will not contain them. 'The Rules of Kingswood School' give an account of the books read and the method pursued therein.
- "4. I believe some of the best Preachers are James Morgan, Peter Jaco, Jos. Connly, T. Simpson, John Helton, John Pawson, Alex. Mather, Tho. Olivers, Sam. Levick, Duncan Wright, Jac. Rowell, Christopher Hopper, Dan. Bumstead, Alexander McNab, and William Thompson. Each of these Preachers has his food wherever he labours, and twelve pounds a year for Cloaths and other Expences. If he is married, he has ten pounds a year for his wife. This Money is raised by the voluntary Contributions of the Societies. It is by these likewise that the Poor are assisted where the Allowance fixed by the Laws of the Land does not suffice. Accordingly the Stewards of the Societies in London distribute seven or eight pounds weekly among the Poor.
- "5. Mr. Whitfield is a Calvinist, Messrs. Wesley are not: this is the only material difference between them. And this has continued without any variation ever since Mr. Whitfield adopted those opinions. The consequences of that difference are touched upon in the Letter sent 2 or 3 years ago to the persons named therein.
- "6. There are only Three Methodist Societies in America; one at Philadelphia, one at New York, and one twelve miles from it. There are Five Preachers there; two have been at New York for some years. Three are lately gone over. Mr. Whitfield has published a particular account of everything relative to the Orphan-house.
- "7. The most eminent writers against the Methodists are the late Bishop of London (Dr. Gibson), Dr. Church, the Bishop of Gloucester (Dr. Warburton), and Bishop Lavington. Bishop Gibson and Lavington were thoroughly convinced of their mistake before they died. I believe Dr. Church was so too. None, I think, but Mr. Perronet has wrote for the Methodists.
- "8. No Moravians belong to their Societies. They have no considerable settlements in England but at London, Bedford, and Pudsey, a little town near Leeds in Yorkshire. They make a profound secret of every [thing] relating to their community. What I know of them I have published in the Journals. The Count's House at Chelsea is a Palace for a Prince. Truly they are wise in their generation!"

(Three letters from Liden, written during his stay in London, are mentioned, suprà, p. 17, as being in the Royal Library.)

Archbishop Troil's MS. includes, together with an account of his travels in Germany and France, a diary (occupying 35 leaves) of a tour in England, Scotland, and Ireland, July–September 1772, in company with Mr. Joseph Banks and Dr. Dan Solander, written in Swedish. He was particularly interested in Scottish antiquities, and gives at the end of his volume some Erse proverbs with an English translation, a Gaelic epitaph on a lady in the parish church of Glenorchy, also with English translation, a notice of the Beltane customs (mentioning also an Epiphany custom observed about Newent in Gloucestershire), a description in English of the Highland dress, a Latin notice of monuments in Oronsay, and an extract from Ossian translated into Swedish.

A portfolio of documents forming part of a collection, which goes under the name of Volimhaus or Ulemberg, contains the following items:—

1. 14 April, 2 Rich. III. [1485]. Conveyance from Rich. Rawlyns, grocer, and others, as feoffees, to John Luthyngton, Will. Say, knt., John Stanford, gent., Rich. Arnsham, mercer, and Will. Brittell, grocer, of land in Theydon Boys, Essex, conveyed to them by the said Will. Brittell.
2. [After 1550?] Fragment of a power of attorney to Leonard Revell and others to appear in a case relating to the parish church of Sherlond [Derbyshire].
These two documents had been used as covers of books.
3. Bond from Will. de Rit, of St. Giles-in-the-Fields, to John Girardot de Tillieux and others, of London, in 12,000*l.*, 26 September 1699.
4. Assignment by Sarah de Rit to John Dutton and John Girardot de Tillieux in trust of an annuity for 99 years of 100*l.* purchased by Elias de Rit, 14 July 1710.
5. A release in 1705 relating to this annuity.
6. Assignment by Sir Theodore de Jansen to Mrs. Sarah de Rit of an annuity of 50*l.*, 3 December 1706.

The Sarah de Rit here mentioned married an apothecary in Upsala named Volimhaus, whose son gave his library to the university.

I can hardly hope that in four days' work I thoroughly searched, even with the kind help of Dr. Styffe, all the stores which might reward searching; but I believe that this Report notices all the chief matters of interest which may be found to bear relation to our country, and proves that the four days were far from being spent in vain.

Other libraries in Sweden, public and private, may doubtless contain MSS. or State Papers worth examination. With regard to three I made some inquiry, with, however, apparently only a negative result.

1. At Linköping there is a large collection, formerly kept, in a most neglected condition, in the tower of the cathedral. This collection was fortunately put into the able hands of Dr. Elof Tegnér a few years ago for arrangement and cataloguing, and that gentleman informs me that he met with nothing bearing on English history.
2. The Baron Bonde possesses a library rich in MS. correspondence and State Papers, but I was informed by him that he did not think that English documents were to be found there. But a search would probably bring some to light.
3. The librarian of the University of Lund, Dr. Edward W. Berling, replied to my inquiry respecting the library there, "Von Handschriften und Dokumenten" "in den von ihnen erwähnten Zweigen haben wir, so weit ich in Eile erinnern kann, nichts bedeutendes hier." But in the great collection of the De La Gardie family, numbering about 1,000 volumes, which has within the last 30 or 40 years been transferred to Lund from the family seat at Löberöd, various papers connected with the object of my mission may be found, as is shown by the following notices extracted from the printed description of that library.

No. 2.—RECORDS OF SWEDEN.—REPORT to the MASTER OF THE ROLLS on PAPERS relating to the HISTORY of ENGLAND, contained in the STATE ARCHIVES, STOCKHOLM.—By WILLIAM HENRY BLISS.

To the Right Honourable Sir George Jessel, Master of the Rolls.

§c.

§c.

MY LORD,

1881, October.

IN obedience to the instructions received from the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records on March 22nd last, to make a complete examination and report on the collection of State Papers connected with English and Scottish affairs preserved among the public archives at Stockholm, I beg to inform your Lordship that I am sending to Mr. Hardy some transcripts and a series of letters containing a copy of the notes taken by me in the investigation made during the period when the Vatican Library was closed.

These notes comprise a list of the contents of 125 volumes or bundles containing, in addition to those examined by me and reported on to Mr. Hardy last year, about 10,000 papers of the 16th and 17th centuries. Of these I have noted those that should be copied; and beg to submit to your Lordship the following general report.

In the first half of the 17th century Sweden became one of the great powers in Europe, and, having at her command extensive means of diplomatic intercourse, was able to employ many eminent men in her service, whose letters and despatches are carefully preserved in the archives.

On an island in the centre of the capital the Riddarholm church with its tombs and military trophies is an epitome of the rise and growth of the Swedish power in the Baltic provinces. Close to it the State Archivium contains papers that illustrate the history of Europe for three hundred years, and especially during the seventeenth century.

The building containing these records is one of the old palaces, which, in the almost entire absence of any mediæval architecture, are among the most ancient of which the city can boast.

It is only within the last few years that the extensive collections have been taken in hand and re-arranged; so that although the papers relating to England are placed together in one room, it is at least probable that many others of no less interest will be discovered as the work of arranging goes on; an instance of this having occurred during my presence there this summer.

Besides the State Papers deposited in the archives by successive Ministers of State, there are also separate collections of the correspondence of Axel Oxenstierna, his sons and nephews; of Magnus Gabriel de la Gardie; and other private papers, among which are to be found many letters which convey much historical information. In addition to these, the contents of the Chanceries of Legations, personal correspondence of Ambassadors and Agents, letters from private persons and adventurers, among which are to be found those of members of many Scotch families, swell the contents of the State Archives. It is to be regretted that more of the chief families of Sweden have not followed the examples above quoted in depositing their papers in the State Archives; but I have some hope that I may in a future year obtain access to one or two of these private collections; but in order to do this a personal as well as official introduction is necessary.

There is a good deal of literary activity not only in Stockholm, but in other cities of the kingdom; and that the old alliance between Finland and Sweden is not forgotten is shown by the issue from the press at Helsingfors of several works written in Swedish, amongst which are some relating to the history of the 17th century, and of these the just-published volume, entitled "Sveriges och Hollands Diplomatska förbindelser, 1621-30," edited by Schybergson, containing some of the letters of Camerarius, will be of much interest to students.

Besides the letters of Swedish Ambassadors and Agents in England, written weekly or more often, there are in the archives a large number of letters from

No. 2.—Records of Sweden—continued.

Scotchmen, who offering their services to Gustavus Adolphus were soon settled in their adopted country, and have left descendants whose names at this day are the only witness to their original nationality.

Some of these letters were examined several years ago by Mr. Pringle, who made transcripts of papers relating to the Ruthven family; but so far as I have been able to learn from the archivists no other Englishman has made investigations for historical purposes at Stockholm.

The letters of Sir James Spens and of Ludovicus Camerarius during the first half of the 17th century, and the series of original letters of English sovereigns, are of special value and interest; but it is from amongst the voluminous correspondence of the Swedish Ambassadors and Agents, continued with scarcely an interruption for two hundred and fifty years, that much information is to be gleaned.

The following account relating to the archives has been sent to me by one of the staff.

The Swedish Royal State Archives received their first organisation during the reign of Gustavus Adolphus. They were at the same time placed under the superintendence of the Chancellor of the Realm, and belonged to the State Department for Home and Foreign Affairs.

They now constitute a separate institution under the Department of Church and Public Instruction, with a "Ritsarchivarie" as chief.

The archives were formerly lodged in some apartments and vaults of the royal palace, but were in 1846 transferred to another building, and in 1865 to their present place at Riddarholmen, a house in which the space is already barely sufficient to contain the annually increasing collection.

The State Archives are in the first place the repository of the public Acts and papers of H.M. Government. There are preserved in them (1) the great series of "Registratur" (authentic copy books of royal writs, patents, statutes, letters, &c.) from the beginning of the 16th century. (2) "Rådsprotocoll" (proceedings of the Privy Council) from the 17th century, with the continuations of "Konseliprotokoll" (those of the King's Council or Ministers) since 1809. (3) Royal Statutes and other State Papers. (4) To the Registratur corresponds a series of "Concepter" (drafts).

In the archives are also preserved (5) Acts and papers relating to the causes decided by the government; (6) writs, memorials, or petitions addressed to the King or the government from civil and military authorities, official boards, and private persons. To this section may be referred the great collection of despatches of Swedish envoys at foreign courts, up to 1815; with which are placed the contents of the archives of the various Chanceries.

Besides these there are many other collections kept in the archives; such as (1) parchment and paper Acts from the 12th century to 1520. (2) Acts of the Riksdagen (the Swedish diet) from the 10th century. (3) Reports and papers of commissions and committees; and of some special authorities and boards. (4) A large collection of "Acta Historica" from various sources. (5) Some collections of private papers, such as those of Oxenstierna and de la Gardie. (6) A collection of "trial books" of the inferior courts of justice.

Several Departments of State have their own archives distinct from the public archives, as the Foreign Office, the Exchequer, the War Office, the Admiralty, the Board of Trade, and others.

As an appendix to this Report, I beg to submit to your Lordship from the series of letters I have written to Mr. Hardy, those numbered VIII., IX., X., XI., which relate to Spens: XXIX., XXX., XXXI., XXXII., lists of letters of English Sovereigns; with those that relate to Camerarius; and also extracts from Bonde's Diary during Cromwell's Protectorate.

I have to express my obligations to Herr Bowallius, the chief archivist; to Friherr von Feilitzen, sub-archivist; to Dr. Emil Hildebrand, and others of the staff for their courtesy and unremitting attention in permitting me to come to the archives at an early hour, and in giving me every facility in making the investigation.

I have the honour to be, &c.

No. 3.—CANADIAN ARCHIVES.—REPORT ON CANADIAN ARCHIVES and on the SYSTEM of KEEPING PUBLIC RECORDS; by DOUGLAS BRYMNER, Archivist. 1881. (Being Appendix 1 to Report of the Minister of Agriculture.)

REPORT ON PUBLIC ARCHIVES (DOUGLAS BRYMNER, ARCHIVIST).

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to present the annual report on the state of the archives under my charge, and the progress that has been made in the collection of the papers bearing on the history of the Provinces of British North America, now forming the Dominion of Canada.

The experience gained during the nine years that have elapsed since the formation of this branch of the department, and the recent investigation which I was instructed to make in Europe, induce me to ask permission to enter more fully than has hitherto been done into the consideration of the questions relating to the collection, arrangement, and safe-keeping of the records of the Dominion. Such a consideration must necessarily be of some length, but I shall endeavour to condense the information into as brief space as is consistent with perfect clearness.

The history of the Dominion of Canada, as an organised confederation, only dates from the 1st July 1867, when the foundation was laid for the consolidation under one government of all British North America. It is, therefore, evident, that so far as regards the Dominion, its record as a Dominion can only relate to its current history since the 1st of July 1867. It is equally evident, that to understand the political position of the Dominion, the history of the various provinces and territories of which it is composed, and the progress of events which has led to the present constitution of Canada, the records of the past must be made accessible to the historian, and placed in as complete a state as possible at his disposal.

There are, then, two branches of the subject to which attention may be directed: 1. The past history of the Provinces of British North America, now forming the Dominion of Canada; and 2, its current records since the 1st July 1867.

The tenour of the instructions I had the honour to receive for my guidance on leaving for Europe, directed me to ascertain, as fully as possible, the nature, number, and, generally speaking, the historical character of manuscripts to be found in the public repositories, and next, to investigate, so far as the time at my disposal would permit, the means taken to collect, arrange, preserve, and render accessible to the public the records therein contained. In the Act creating the Public Record Office in London (1 and 2 Vict., cap. 94), to which I shall afterwards refer, the word "Records" is defined to mean: "All rolls, records, writs, books, proceedings, decrees, bills, warrants, accounts, papers, and documents whatsoever of a public nature belonging to Her Majesty, or then deposited in any of the offices or places of custody before mentioned." This definition was, however, very widely extended, as I shall show hereafter.

As a matter of convenience, I shall take the second branch of the inquiry first, by tracing the steps which have led to the formation of one great Public Record Office. It will be seen how closely the facts bear on the preservation of our current records, and how great an opportunity exists at this early stage of our history to profit by the mistakes of older nations. The first branch will naturally come under consideration, in discussing the second, without any formal division.

In giving the result of my investigations, it will, I think, be better to throw the whole into a condensed statement, rather than to occupy space by constant reference to the particular public office from which I obtained the information.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE.

In 1800, in consequence of representations made, a Select Committee of the House of Commons was appointed “to inquire into the state of the “ public records of the Kingdom, and of such other public instruments, “ rolls, books, and papers as they shall think proper, and to report to the “ House the nature and condition thereof, together with what they shall “ think fit to be done for the better arrangement, preservation, and more “ convenient use of the same.”

The Committee divided their report into three parts: 1. Measures of former times; 2. Their own proceedings; and 3. Further measures recommended.

1. It appears from the report that the greater part of the public records had been preserved then (1800) for more than 700 years, that is now (1881) about 800 years, though many had been lost or destroyed during the reigns of Stephen, John, and Henry III., a period of 137 years (1135 to 1272) between which dates these reigns were included and the wars between the Houses of York and Lancaster, known in history as the Wars of the Roses (1455 to 1461).

By the Act 46 Edward III. (1373), the public records were considered as the people's evidence, and it was ordained that they should be accessible to all the King's subjects.

In Elizabeth's reign (1559 to 1603) an inquiry was instituted concerning the records of Parliament.

James VI. I (1617) projected a state paper office, and an office for a general remembrancer for all matters of record. A Commission was issued by Charles I. for searching after all records belonging to the Crown. The civil wars, ending in the setting up of the Commonwealth, broke down the provision for the safety of the public records, and Charles II., after his restoration, took some steps to remedy this state of things, but nothing effectual was done till the time of Queen Anne (1702 to 1714) when as one result of the investigation, Rymer's Fœdera was published, a compilation of state papers and records, chiefly relating to the foreign transactions of the country. Then an inquiry was instituted regarding the domestic records connected with the internal laws and government, which was prosecuted without intermission through the reigns of Anne and George I. to the beginning of George II. (1727).

Examinations seem to have been made concurrently by Lords and Commons, the former having made a report of their proceedings between 1703 and 1728; but in 1731, in consequence of a fire at the Cottonian Library, the House of Commons set on foot a more extensive and effectual inquiry, and its Committee reported in 1732 that, under their directions, some of the principal record offices had compiled a table of the records of the Kingdom, digested in a regular series of time, distinguishing the the repositories in which the several records were contained, and adding: “ that they had laid the foundation for a very necessary and noble work, “ which must be of singular advantage to particular persons; an honour “ to the nation; and bring to light many valuable remains of antiquity “ which, for want of an easy and proper access to them, have long been “ concealed from public notice.”

Thus far, adding, however, the dates, I have followed the report; but from other sources it would be easy to trace from the middle of the thirteenth century (about 1250) down to the present day the steps taken to preserve the records. The object, however, of this part of the report is, to show by the one instance of Great Britain, the importance attached to such documents, since every European nation has been, and is now, engaged in the same task, and it may be necessary to bring this strongly and clearly before those who are so deeply engaged in making the all important history of the foundation and building up of the Dominion, that they are apt to think lightly of the task of having that history recorded, or the records preserved from being scattered and destroyed. The details of the work done, which I propose giving, will be found, I believe, to be not merely an interesting historical study, but to be of essential service as a guide to proceedings of a similar kind here, should such be determined upon.

2. (a.) The Committee of 1800 had the powers held by previous committees extended, so as to include in their investigations the state of the Maritime and Ecclesiastical Courts, the Cathedral and University Libraries, the collections constituting the British Museum, and the public repositories in Scotland. A list was accordingly prepared of all public repositories, whether the papers in them had been previously examined or not. These are given in detail, but I have thought it better to give simply the classification so as to show the extent of the inquiries made by this Committee.

The repositories were thus classified: General Repositories, Houses of Parliament, Offices of State, Courts of Justice, Cathedrals and Universities, Inns of Court, and Public Libraries. A similar list was prepared for Scotland.

(b.) Searching inquiries were instituted, a series of questions being sent to each repository. These required information as to its contents; the state of the building as to security and accommodation; the degree in which its catalogues, calendars, and indexes were complete; the number, duties, and remuneration of the officers belonging to it; distinguishing between those repositories which were open of right to all His Majesty's subjects and those only established for the safe custody of matters belonging to some particular branch of Government, or some peculiar institution. The inquiry did not extend to the nature and condition of public documents and papers immediately connected with the current business of any of the great offices of Government in matters of revenue or war, and the Committee forbore to inquire into the existence of public documents in private collections.

The Committee reporting in 1732 had received 18 returns to inquiries. In 1800 the returns are stated in the report to have been between 300 and 400. I find the numbers on examination to have been:—

For England	-	-	-	-	254
For Scotland	-	-	-	-	49
Special reports	-	-	-	-	8

These latter were most valuable, being obtained from persons eminent for skill and experience, giving an explanation of the modes it would be most advisable to adopt for writing and preserving the public records, books, and papers in all offices and repositories, besides information concerning the structure and distribution of the buildings intended for their preservation.

(c.) A personal examination was also made of the principal repositories in London; the state of the buildings and the care of the documents contained in them, the result of which is given in detail, chiefly of local interest, although most important in its consequences and in the power it gave the Committee to deal with matters of which they had obtained a personal knowledge.

3. The same remark as to the local value of parts of the report applies to a large proportion of the section, entitled "Further Measures recommended." The preparation of complete calendars and indexes is, however, considered as most important. There is one recommendation made that is liable to misconstruction if the system of paying the officers at that time is not borne in mind, and as the system is not referred to in the report, but taken for granted as existing, the recommendation might form a very bad precedent here. The Committee recommended that calendars and indexes, "the private property of the officers, should be "purchased for the public use and appropriated to the office." It must be remembered that, down to a comparatively recent date, the officers were paid by fees; some altogether, others in addition to a small fixed salary; that these calendars and indexes were prepared for their own use, in their own time, to guide them in searches for which they were paid by fees, and that it was not only better for themselves, but was of great benefit to the public, and they should be able at once to give the information required. The only reference I find in the report to this system is in the article referring to the "Establishment and Duties of Office," in which it is recommended that if an officer has no salary, but is paid altogether by fees, he should be paid in part by salary and in part by fees, to be regulated by a moderate and fixed scale, the meaning of which, as we know from the frequent complaints recorded, was that the fees were arbitrary, uncertain, and depending very much on the amount that it was thought could be extorted.

A similar report was made respecting the records in Scotland, but much less detailed.

A new Commission was issued in May 1806. The records of Ireland were examined by some of the sub-commissioners named, who reported to the Lord Lieutenant, and a separate Commission for Ireland was issued in 1810. Subsequent Commissions were issued in June 1817, in June 1821, in April 1825, and in March 1831. Reports which had been submitted annually had ceased from 1819, so that the proceedings during several years cannot well be ascertained.

It was on the final report of the last-named Committee, made in 1837, that the Public Records Act was passed, under which they are now managed. During the 37 years over which these Commissions had extended, their attention, it is stated, was directed more particularly to printing the records, and very little was done for their care and future preservation. It appears also that their expenses exceeded the Parliamentary votes. In fact, the Report of the Special Committee on this Commission in 1836, with the evidence adduced, shows a want of supervision and a gross state of neglect of the most ordinary checks on expenditure that would be simply incredible were it not so clearly proved. The Report of 1837, called forth apparently by the strictures of this Committee, gives the steps taken to carry out the objects of the Commission.

Questions more minute than those of 1800 had been sent to three classes :—

I. To the keepers of Public Records.

II. To persons having the custody of papers of the nature of records, or of other historical writings.

III. To town clerks or other officers of municipal corporations. A list of the different classes sending returns will, I think, be useful.

If the questions were sent to Scotland, there is no mention made of the fact in the report or returns.

A glance at this list will show very clearly the nature of the investigation, and the wide field it covered. The greater part of the information regarding the state of the public repositories is of only local interest, but the summary of the inquiries on this head may be quoted as a useful warning against the dangers to be avoided in Canada. The Commissioners say: "The buildings are inconvenient in point of situation—ill-adapted to the purposes to which they are applied—some of them crowded to an excess which renders the use of the records extremely difficult, and none of them provided with sufficient accommodation for that purpose; that some of them are exposed to risk of fire, and others to certain destruction by damp; and that there are large masses of records in depositories which are avowedly only temporary, and for which, sooner or later, some permanent place of deposit must be provided."

How this state of things had come to exist is clearly shown:—

1. Buildings had been used not erected for the purpose, and it was difficult, if not impossible, to adapt them "to purposes so peculiar in their nature as storing the national records, and affording suitable apartments for transacting the business relating to them."

2. The rapid increase of some of the most valuable and important documents "has occasioned such a demand for the utmost possible economy of space, that the records are placed in situations where the access to them is difficult, and from which even the light of the sun is excluded." The practice of placing them in vaults and underground recesses, at once damp and dark, is condemned, and the danger from fire is called attention to in the most emphatic manner.

Much of the report is taken up with questions concerning the publication of calendars, indexes, and the documents themselves, and the important subject of improvements in the preservation and management of the records. The Commissioners say on this point: "The introduction of a system of uniform management appears to us, we confess, hopeless in the present state of the records and offices; and we see in the necessity for the adoption of some such general system of management an additional and very urgent reason for the adoption of a plan which we now beg to submit to Your Majesty."

That plan was substantially the one now in existence. The report was presented to William IV. on the 7th February 1837. He having died in June following, the matter was taken up in the first year of Her Majesty's reign, and on the 14th August 1838 the Act (1 and 2 Vict. cap. 94) for keeping safely the public records was assented to.

The Act being easily accessible, I shall merely state that the preamble sets out that public records being in the keeping of several persons, and being kept in unfit buildings, it is expedient to establish one record office and a better custody, and to allow of the free use of the records, so far as stands with their safety and integrity, and with the public policy of the realm; and that the records in a large number of offices, courts, and other places (of which a list is given, power being taken by the second section to include other offices) are to be under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls for the time being. Third clause provides for the transfer of accumulating records in the places named to the custody of the Master of the Rolls. The other clauses relate to the establishment, maintenance, and management of the office; the appointment of Deputy and Assistant Keepers, &c. The interpretation clause I have already given.

As the title “Keeper of Records” frequently occurs, it may be, perhaps, not unnecessary to notice a misapprehension that seems to exist with regard to it. It does not designate a clerk in charge of the record room of a department to keep clean and see that the papers are accessible, a duty very satisfactorily discharged in several of the departments at Ottawa by an intelligent messenger. On the contrary, it designates one of the most honourable and responsible offices in the State—the title being Master or Keeper of the Rolls or Records—the occupant of the office taking the precedence of all the legal dignitaries but two, the order being:—1. The Lord Chancellor; 2. The Lord Chief Justice of England; 3. The Master of the Rolls. The office, I may add, has been filled, to take only the latest Keepers of Records, by Lord Lyndhurst, Lord Cottenham, Lord Langdale, Lord Romilly, and the present Keeper, Sir George Jessel. The Deputy Keepers are always men of distinguished ability, and the qualifications and attainments of many of the Assistant Keepers are little, if at all, inferior.

The absolute necessity of such an Act as that just referred to was evident, and as there is a risk in the course of years of our own records getting into the same condition, I beg to ask your attention to the statements.

The records of the Queen’s Remembrancer, it was discovered, were stuffed into 600 sacks in a most filthy state, and to disinter a document, known to exist somewhere in these heaps, was a work of a most disgusting nature. The report of the Committee of the House of Commons of 1836 gives the evidence of Mr. Henry Cole as to the state of the sheds in the King’s mews containing these records. He says, “In these sheds 4,136 cubic feet of national records were deposited in the most neglected condition. Besides the accumulated dust of centuries, all when these operations commenced were found to be very damp. Some were in a state of inseparable adhesion to the stone walls. There were numerous fragments which had only just escaped entire consumption by vermin, and many were in the last stage of putrefaction. Decay and damp had rendered a large quantity so fragile as hardly to admit of being touched; others, particularly those in the form of rolls, were so agulated together that they could not be unrolled. Six or seven perfect skeletons of rats were found imbedded, and bones of these vermin were generally distributed throughout the mass; and, besides furnishing a charnel house for the dead, during the first removal of these national records, a dog was employed in hunting the live rats which were thus disturbed from their nests.” The extract, though long, is only one of very many that might easily be brought forward, and I give it as a striking illustration of the danger to which I have alluded.

The only exception to the “shocking state” of the documents is in the case of Scotland, of the Record Office of which the Committee spoke in these terms: “Collected together in one central, ample, commodious, and safe building in Edinburgh, placed under the custody of most competent and responsible keepers, they appear to be kept in a state of perfect arrangement, and ample information as to their contents supplied by full calendars and indexes.”

This was the general condition of affairs which the newly constituted office had to face, and Mr. Thomas, in the introduction to his valuable Handbook to the Public Records, published 30 years ago, gives a very clear account of the steps taken to get the work done, but I think it unnecessary to do more than refer to the Handbook.

It was not till 1850 that the foundation of the present Record Office was laid. It stands between Chancery Lane and Fetter Lane, on the old garden belonging to the Rolls House. The description and plans, kindly furnished me by Mr. John Edwards, the secretary, show that the most anxious care has been taken to assure its safety from fire, and from any conceivable accidents, the building being not only fireproof throughout, but being also furnished with complete fire apparatus internally and externally; men on guard in the building day and night, besides the police on service, constantly patrolling the building. The duties of all the officers and men are minutely specified.

In prosecuting inquiries as to the manner in which the records, State papers, &c. were transferred from the courts of law, and the various Government offices (Colonial, War, &c.) to the custody of the Keeper of Records, Mr. William Hardy, the Deputy Keeper, furnished me with a memorandum from the late Deputy Keeper, Sir Thomas Duffus Hardy, approved by the Master of the Rolls, and addressed to the Treasury, on the subject of the accumulations of records. The memorandum dated the 20th November 1875 shows that in spite of the great size of the building its capacity was already overtaxed. A great part of this was due to accumulations of large masses of legal and Governmental documents "wholly useless for legal, historical, * * or official purposes, and of no possible interest to any one." The repository, it was stated, was already filled to overflowing, and, unless some steps were taken to relieve the office of useless and cumbersome documents, it would get into a state of embarrassment from which it could not easily be extricated. A Committee was, therefore, suggested to consist of three; two being professional gentlemen, and the third, an officer of the Department. A list of nearly 100,000 packages, boxes and volumes of the papers to be dealt with is given in detail, besides many thousands only mentioned without specific numbers.

As a consequence of the memorandum, an Act amending the Public Record Office Act of 1838, was assented to on 14th August 1877 (40 and 41 Vict. cap. 55). Being a public Act, and easily accessible, I would only remark that its provisions show with what jealous care the permission to destroy any legal or State paper has been fenced about, to prevent the slightest risk of improper influences being used to secure the destruction of a document which it might be inconvenient to preserve.

According to the Act, the documents in Courts of Record are to be delivered to the custody of the Master of the Rolls on his warrant, the papers to be "of the age of twenty years from the making thereof," and no documents of this kind can be kept in the custody of the Court longer than that time, except on a certificate from the Chief Judge of the Court of which they are the records.

The State papers, on the other hand, are sent at uncertain intervals on the judgment of the Chiefs of Departments, as accumulations arise. These are delivered in large collections, and, neither in the case of the Court Records, nor of the State papers, was there any previous weeding. All came to the repository from the most important document to the most useless fragment. It has been the practice, when a weeding out of useless papers is to take place, to have it conducted by an officer of the Department to which the papers belong, and one of the Record officers. It is from the indiscriminate system of transfer that has arisen much of the inconvenience complained of.

As a palliative in the case of the Court Records, only such are now received as are certified by the Chief Judge of each Court to be suitable for permanent safe keeping; the others, of temporary value only, are left in the custody of the Court.

With respect to the Departments of State, I understand that the Treasury has suggested a system which is calculated to remedy the present state of affairs. It is not improbable that reports on the subject from the Departments may be prepared and may become available during the next session of the Imperial Parliament. Such reports would be of great value should any central system of keeping the records and State papers be adopted in Canada.

The State papers deposited in the Record Office come down to the following dates:—

Treasury to 1851.

Home Office to 1840.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

Foreign Office to 1835.

Colonial Office to 1849.

War Office to 1856.

Admiralty Office to 1839.

Board of Trade to 1830.

Audit Office to 1840.

The regulations as to the dates to which they may be examined are for :—

Treasury to 1759.

Home Office to 1769.

Foreign Office to 1760, or to 1802 on previous application.

Colonial Office to the end of George II. (1760).

War Office to end of George III. (1820), with discretion to withhold any of the papers.

Admiralty letter books, &c., to end of 1800.

Audit Office to 1760.

Board of Trade to the end of George III. (1820).

These regulations, so far as the Public Record Office is concerned, are inflexible, but in most cases an official application will obtain a relaxation of the rules. By the intervention of Lord Kimberley I obtained permission to inspect documents of later dates than those specified in the regulations, and no difficulty would be experienced in this respect so long as granting the permission did not contravene either public or private interests.

The duties of the office are not confined to receiving and guarding the public records that may be deposited for safe keeping. In addition to these duties, searches are constantly carried on elsewhere for papers of historical value to be transcribed and placed in the repository for the use of the public.

The following table, which I have compiled from the annual parliamentary returns, will show how closely analogous are these searches to those on which we are now engaged, and the corresponding expenses. These are altogether apart from the ordinary expenses of the office, the work having been carried on by gentlemen specially appointed for the purpose.

* In and after the year 1874 the work done under 4 and 5 was changed, and the investigation of Irish papers taken up. These two titles are from that date :—

4. Calendaring Irish papers of the reign of James I. and Charles I., including the Philadelphia manuscripts.

5. Calendar of instruments and entries in the Public Record Office relating to Ireland, from the earliest period to the end of Henry VII.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

The work done under the first head includes: editing the State papers of the Commonwealth; editing the papers, foreign and domestic (Henry VIII.), many of which are scattered in various places at home and abroad; transcripts from Paris; transcripts from Rome. The other titles explain themselves, but I may state that of the Spanish State papers at Simancas, the colonial documents were removed to Seville in 1829. The papers known as the Philadelphia MSS. formerly belonged to an office of State in Dublin. They were taken to America and returned to the British nation by the Library Company of Philadelphia in 1867.

I had an opportunity of examining very minutely the working of the system, in its details, for receiving and preparing for public use the records and State papers in the repository, the Deputy Keeper having placed me in the hands of Mr. Kingston, who devoted a very considerable time to explaining and illustrating every step in the process, his explanations being always full and lucid. The greater part of the information thus acquired I have preserved in a separate form, as it is unsuitable for this report, but of the most essential consequence in conducting the office work relating to the Archives. Specimens of the result of the calendaring may be seen in the volumes of abstracts of State papers relating to the Colonies deposited among the Archives. With respect to other calendars, I ask your permission to make some remarks, the value of the documents referred to being comparatively little understood here.

The publication of the rolls of the Exchequer, or rolls of the Pipe (Magnum Rotulum Scaccarii vel Magnum Rotulum Pipe), shows the great value attached to even such apparently dry and sapless material as the accounts of the Court of Exchequer. The rolls of 31 Henry I., edited by the Rev. Joseph Hunter, F.S.A., afford an evidence of the diligence used in identifying and the use made of such documents; the importance of this, in a historical point of view, being best shown in the editor's words: "These rolls * * * contain accompts of the King's revenue year by year as they were made up, with the King's officers appointed to that service, by the sheriffs of counties who acted as the King's bailiffs and by other ministers and debtors of the Crown, and since payments by the King were also often made through the hands of the sheriffs and other ministers in the different counties, we obtain through these accompts a view of no inconsiderable portion of the royal expenditure in a long tract of time, by which a clear and valuable light is thrown on many subjects, and sometimes on the most important public transactions of the realm." (Preface, page i.)

The identifying the date of this special roll engaged the attention of some of the most learned antiquaries, as it stood alone, none preceding it, and the next following it after a long interval. It is the only evidence of transactions to which these rolls refer of so early a date as 1131.

In the introduction to the rolls and records of the King's Justiciars or Justices (Rotuli Curie Regis) Sir Francis Palgrave, a former Deputy Keeper of Records, gives a most interesting series of historical sketches, all drawn from the seemingly bald pleas on the rolls of the Justices. I make one quotation: "In the history of the English constitution, our legal records are amongst the most important elements. The law restrained the Sovereign before he was controlled by his Great Council. And the most important functions antiently exercised by the High Court of Parliament, arose from the dispensation of justice exercised in ordinary cases by the Judges to whom the King delegated his authority and power.

"But the interest of these legal records is not local, or peculiarly appertaining unto this our country. They are the property not merely of England, but of the English people, wheresoever settled or dispersed. We have here the germ and foundation of the laws obtaining in those States, which, rising beyond the ocean, seem appointed to preserve the language and institutions of England beneath other skies, when the empire of the parent Commonwealth shall have passed away like a dream." (Introduction, Vol. I., page 3.)

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

I have referred to these volumes as illustrations of the use made of the records; the work of editing and printing is going on yearly, for which, as will be seen by the table of expenditure given above, the sum of 2,000*l*. sterling is annually voted.

HISTORICAL MANUSCRIPTS COMMISSION.

Hitherto, as may be seen, the only papers dealt with are those of a public character, Court records or State papers. But in 1869 it was resolved to extend inquiries in other directions for documents bearing on the history of the country in all its relations. The title “Records,” already extended since the passing of the Act of 1838, was still further widened in its meaning. The Commission issued in 1869 to constitute the Royal Commission on Historical Manuscripts, authorising them to search (with the consent of the possessors) for papers in private repositories, will show this clearly. After naming the members, at the head of whom was Lord Romilly, Master or Keeper of the Rolls and Records, the Commission proceeds: “It has been represented unto us that there are “belonging to many institutions and private families various collections “of manuscripts and papers of general public interest, a knowledge of “which would be of great utility in the illustration of history, constitutional law, science and general literature, and that in some cases these “papers are liable to be lost or obliterated; and, whereas, we are “informed that many of the possessors of such manuscripts would be “willing to give access to them and permit their contents to be made “public, provided that nothing of a private character, or relating to the “title of existing owners, should be divulged * * * * there would “be considerable public advantage in its being generally known where “such papers and manuscripts are deposited, and that the contents of “those which tend to the elucidation of history and the illustration of “constitutional law, science and literature should be published, We “* * * * nominate * * * * you * * * * Our Commissioners to make inquiry as to the places in which such papers and “manuscripts are deposited. * * * * authorise you to call in the “aid and co-operation of all possessors of manuscripts and papers, “inviting them to assist you in furthering the object of this Commission,
“and to give them full assurance that no information is sought except “such as relates to public affairs, and that no knowledge or information “which may be obtained from their collections shall be promulgated “without their full license or consent.”

I have quoted thus largely from the Commission, as the instructions may help to define the scope of inquiries which may hereafter be made in Canada.

It is impossible to condense the reports into any reasonable limits, so as to give even the faintest idea of the nature of the documents discovered and made available. In the first report it is stated that the Commission had been fully appreciated and favourably received; that many collections, the existence of which was unknown, had been brought to light; that 180 persons and heads of institutions had expressed their willingness either to co-operate with the Commissioners or to request their aid in making known the contents of their collections, so that only a preliminary examination could be made. Two Inspectors were at first appointed, but other two were found necessary, and a long list is given of the collections examined by them, as well as by officers of the Public Record Office, whose services were called in to assist.

The second report contains lists of the collections examined subsequent to the first, the reports being contained in the Appendix. The remarks on two volumes of manuscripts relating to Ireland I take the liberty of quoting, as they support very strongly the view taken as to the points to which part of the inquiries in Canada may be directed: “Neither volume “can be said to have much direct bearing on the political or religious “history of the period. The interest of both is almost exclusively social “and economical, and the information they supply as to the character of

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

“ the people, the tenure of land, the mode of agriculture, the industrial “ and economical relations of the country, and in general its entire social “ condition is such as will be sought for in vain in the printed sources
 “ of the history of Ireland during the 18th century. The letters appear “ to be well deserving of publication.” (Second Report, xxi.)

So closely do the following remarks bear on the state of things in Canada, that I extract the paragraph from the conclusion of the same report: “ Your Commissioners are inclined to think that a continuation “ of their efforts may be the means of preventing those casualties to “ which valuable collections of MSS. are liable from various causes, “ casualties arising not unfrequently from changes in families, from “ removal of MSS., and from ignorance of the localities to which they “ have been transferred. * * * To those who are engaged in bio“ graphical, historical, or political researches, no greater boon can be “ offered than well authenticated information, where materials which are “ indispensable for the due prosecution of their inquiries are preserved.”
 (Idem xxi.)

Since the Commissioners have begun their inquiries 500 collections have been examined. The first year the cost of the Commission was 1,000*l.*, every subsequent year the sum of 1,700*l.* has been expended in these searches and examinations.

HER MAJESTY'S GENERAL REGISTER HOUSE, EDINBURGH.

The examination of the mode of keeping the records in Scotland was so strongly urged, that, although I had no specific instructions to that effect, I thought it better to delay my return for a few days with that object, rather than leave the report incomplete. Mr. Hardy, Deputy Keeper of the Records in London, furnished me with a letter of introduction to Mr. William Fraser, Deputy Keeper for Scotland, under whose guidance, and with the help of Mr. Stair Agnew, Deputy Clerk Register, and Registrar General for Scotland, as well as of the gentlemen at the head of the various branches, I had an opportunity of obtaining a satisfactory view of the system in its practical working. The remarks already quoted from the Committee of 1836 do no more than justice to the admirable regularity to be found in the administration of this most important department of State. In the Register Office are concentrated the records of the great interests of the Scottish people, divided into 23 branches—legal, historical, landed, commercial (including bankruptcy), vital statistics, &c. There is one great advantage possessed by Scotland over England in respect to many of these branches, arising from the fact that the system was begun at a much earlier period in the former than in the latter Kingdom, and carried on continuously, and that although in times of war or tumult the records were repeatedly taken to the Castle of Edinburgh for safe keeping, they were transferred in an orderly manner and taken back to their usual repositories in such condition that a short time only was necessary for their restoration to their former state. In the narrative of the steps taken with respect to the English Records, it will be seen that in 1617, James VI. projected a State Paper Office and an office for a general remembrance for all matters of record in England. Long before that, the Parliament of Scotland had made provision for the same thing, although imperfectly, and in that year (1617) what was only a project in England became a fact in Scotland, the present system being then established, supplemented by Acts passed in 1693 and 1696 by the Scottish Parliament.

Under our Constitution, with the particular distribution of powers between the federal and provincial authorities, not to speak of the difference in the laws affecting, for instance, land, there must be a great dissimilarity in many respects between the objects of the work of a Public Record Office in Canada and in Scotland. But, apart from the details, the system by which efficiency, expedition, and confidence in the correctness of the records can be secured is worthy of being studied. Should it be determined to create a Public Record Office in Canada, this is one essential point to which attention should be directed. In conducting the operation of such an office, the question of system is not so much with respect to the particular records to be preserved as to the best mode of doing so, and of rendering them accessible.

Till recently, the registers of Scotland had been, from a remote period, committed to the charge of the Lord Clerk Register, or as he is styled in the earlier statutes, the Clerk of the Register. He was one of the great officers of the State, like the Keeper of the Records in England, and up to the union of the Kingdoms had, in virtue of his office, a seat and vote in the Scottish Parliament. He was the superintendent and legal custodian of all the registers, with very large powers. He was presiding Clerk of the Privy Council, of the Court of Sessions and Court of Exchequer, and of every Commission issued by the Crown or Parliament—the records of all which were in his charge and keeping, and since the union the election of representative Peers of Scotland takes place under his presidency as returning officer. There were other important duties, and the patronage of various offices in the Court of Session, the Register House, and several departments throughout the country was in his hands. These powers, however, have been greatly restricted by the operation of subsequent statutes.

A Deputy Clerk Register was appointed in the year 1806. He was highly qualified for the office, and, in co-operation with successive Lord Clerk Registers, many valuable improvements in the mode of keeping the registers were introduced by him during his long tenure of office. His successor, Mr. William Pitt Dundas, C.B., also held for many years the offices of Deputy Clerk Register and Registrar-General of Births, &c. These conjoined offices are now held by Mr. Stair Agnew.

The Deputy Keeper of the Records has the immediate custody and arrangement of all the registers permanently deposited in the General Register House; the superintendence of all searches, besides other duties. The office is now held by Mr. William Fraser, whose valuable domestic histories of the old families of Scotland, and their connexion with public events in that kingdom, chiefly founded on the private muniments of families, are well known.

The method of keeping the records, with the indexes, catalogues, &c. is of too technical a nature for this report, but I may be permitted to cite, as an instance of the manner of giving publicity to the results of public inquiries, the index to the deaths in the Registrar-General Department. In this annual index the name of every man, woman, and child dying during the year can be found at once, all being arranged in alphabetical order, with ages attached and references for complete information as to the deceased. I was assured by Mr. David Winter, the clerk in charge, that there were not five names omitted in a year, the omissions being those of persons whose bodies could not be identified. Printed reports regarding the registers, dating from 1807 to 1868, by the Deputy Clerk Register, besides parliamentary papers on the same subject, I have deposited among the Archives, and the other information I have obtained will be useful for conducting the office work.

The information I obtained in Paris is such as will be of service in the work of the office. Having taken advantage of the delay caused by waiting for the Colonial Office to put me in communication with the other Departments, so as to occupy time which would otherwise have been wasted, I did not feel justified in spending many days there, and, so far as I could ascertain during my stay, the expenses for collecting and preserving the Archives are not kept separate, being included in the expenditure of the different Departments and public libraries.

The collection of papers in the Department at Ottawa is valuable, including, as it does, the original military correspondence of the officers in command in Canada for a hundred years, during a great part of which time the civil and military rule was, to some extent, in the same hands; the Haldimand and Bouquet papers, immediately prior, and subsequent to the revolutionary war; miscellaneous manuscripts, and a considerable collection of printed documents and volumes. But although the collection is valuable, it is fragmentary, as there is no complete series relating to any single period. As an instance, there is a most valuable collection of original letters relating to military affairs during the war of 1812-15, from Sir Gordon Drummond, Sir Isaac Brock, Generals Proctor, Sheaffe, Sir John Cope Sherbrooke, and other commanding officers; but there are few letters from De Rottenburg, and but a scrap or two from De Salaberry, whose operations on the Chateauguay are scarcely noticed, Sir George Prevost's reports being altogether wanting. In the Haldimand collection there are tantalising references to the negotiations with Vermont during the revolutionary war, but the most important correspondence is not amongst the papers. In the volume improperly entitled: "Correspondence with General Haldimand after his appointment as Governor of Quebec," there is a valuable series of letters from Dr. Mabane, Mr. Jenkyn Williams, Attorney-General, and others. The correspondence was in reality after Haldimand had ceased to be Governor. He was then in London, lost in the undistinguished crowd of that great city, harassed by law suits instituted by men whom he had imprisoned on suspicion of maintaining treasonable correspondence; was haunting levees, gossiping at clubs, and losing guineas nightly at ecarté. The letters from his Quebec correspondents at this time are unreserved, full of gossip, and laying bare the personal piques, political aims, and jealousies of Lord Dorchester's advisers and friends. But the correspondence and views of Mr. Chief Justice Smith, Attorney-General Monk, and their associates, are necessary to complete the history, and to enable a judgment to be formed of the true state of affairs, and the motives that led to the encouragement of what was called by the Opposition "an American settlement," a policy meant, apparently, to assist the suffering United Empire Loyalists.

I have given these two instances as examples of the necessity, should the collection of such documents be considered desirable, of having the work conducted on a proper system. The papers relating to the Colonies are not the only sources from which to draw in the Public Record Office. There are many in the Domestic series, amongst the Treasury documents, and in those relating to foreign affairs. These would all require to be examined carefully; the search necessarily would occupy a considerable time and most conscientious labour, which, it is almost unnecessary to say, would be facilitated in every possible way by the officers of the State Departments and of the Record Office. Without a thorough report as to the documents, it will be difficult, if not impossible, to arrive at a proper determination on the subject.

As to the current history of the Dominion, the question is one of the greatest interest. No difficulty can be experienced in collecting the public documents, such as the Journals of Parliament, Sessional Papers, and other similar material, and I have taken steps to secure for the Archives complete fyles from the date of Confederation, these being now in the repository. The same remark applies to the State papers in the different Departments of the Government, they being preserved and accessible in the respective record rooms. But there is a class of papers which it would be of the utmost possible importance to obtain and preserve, not for immediate but for future reference.

There must be, in the hands of those who have occupied positions of a public nature, either as responsible advisers of the Crown, or as representative men in various capacities, correspondence which would be of immense service in a historical point of view, but which there is every probability will be destroyed or lost in the course of time. Here, where the children of the men of to-day are, politically speaking, the nobodies of to-morrow, or else who have moved away to other localities than those in which their fathers were known, it is impossible to preserve such papers, as has been done with old family records in Great Britain. There, the researches of the Commission on Historical Documents have unearthed papers, letters, charters, &c. dating back to the sixth and seventh centuries, which throw a flood of light on the early history of the country. Here, it is well known, valuable collections have been destroyed by the care of the tidy housekeeper getting rid of them as rubbish. I venture to suggest that, could they be obtained from leading men, or their representatives, such collections, the contents of which it might be at the present moment improper to make public, might be packed up in air-tight boxes, marked with the names of the depositors, and sealed up for a certain length of time, to remain in safe keeping in the vaults appropriated for the custody of the Archives. By this means they would be kept in safety, and available at the time when, without breach of propriety, their contents could be used by the historian.

I would further crave permission to suggest for consideration, whether it might not be desirable to obtain the more active co-operation of Parliament, in the work of collecting and preserving the Court records, State papers, and public and private documents, by asking for the appointment of a joint Committee of both Houses to take up the whole subject. I venture upon this suggestion with great diffidence, but with the conviction that, by this means, there will be created a greater and more general interest in the question of the preservation of documents to form the foundation of authentic history.

With respect to the preservation of the Court records, pending any determination as to the establishment of a Public Record Office, which must, of necessity, be sooner or later established, I would beg to quote the following provisions in an Act relating to Ireland, which will apply to all our Courts, whether of federal or local jurisdiction. The Act is 7 and 8 Vict. cap. 107 (1844): "To regulate and reduce the expenses of the "offices attached to the Superior Courts of Law in Ireland."

Section 30 directs: "The Chief Judge in each of the Courts, on opening "the Courts on the first day of term, to examine the state of the records, "that they are duly and regularly kept and preserved, so as to be safe, dry, "sound and legible, and in such order and arrangement, and with such "means of reference to the same, that all persons having occasion to inspect "the same shall have easy access thereto."

MSS. IN THE BRITISH MUSEUM.

In all the public offices the papers which refer to Canada and the other colonies are classed under the heading of America, and usually there are included with these the records of the West Indies. The want of any record of the papers which had been examined on previous occasions, and then found to contain no information useful for the Archives of the Dominion, has necessitated on the part of each investigator the task of searching through the whole series. I have, therefore, thought it desirable, and in fact necessary, to place on record the titles, with such distinctive numbers as shall at once identify them—not only of the papers that may be drawn upon, but also of those apparently containing information which have proved barren.

This will obviate the necessity on future occasions of expending work on documents which have already been examined, and, I believe, will save not only much time, but a large expense for searches. I have gone very carefully over all the manuscripts to be found in the British Museum, and have tried, I think, successfully, to bring down the list to the date at which I concluded my examination there. This, with the time at my disposal, has not been possible with respect to the other depositories. That, indeed, would be the work of years, instead of days or weeks. The fact that between the publication of the first and second volume of the Colonial series of State papers, a period of twenty years has elapsed, is sufficient proof of this statement, and an evidence of the importance attached by the British Government to the work of preserving, arranging, and collecting the Archives. The two volumes, containing abstracts of papers from the year 1574 to 1668, prepared under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, I have purchased for the Archives at Ottawa. They give very full information as to the contents of the papers included between these dates; many are given almost in full, and, in all, the substance of the papers is so clearly stated in more or less of detail, that no difficulty can be felt as to their bearing. So much is this the case, that, with very few (if any) exceptions, the expense of copying these earlier documents may be rendered unnecessary, as everything relating to that period, essential to the historian (so far as that depends on these papers), will probably be found contained in these volumes in a useful form.

All the earlier collections are full of papers relating almost exclusively to the New England Provinces, which now form part of the United States; but in these there are references, and in some cases details of the proceedings of the French in Canada, so that it is difficult to draw the line at all times between what should be copied for our Archives and what should be rejected, as detached extracts often give only an imperfect and, not unfrequently, an erroneous view of the proceedings referred to.

It has been my endeavour to select first and chiefly such papers as shall cast a direct light on the past history of the Provinces now forming the Dominion of Canada; then those which have a collateral bearing. Although Newfoundland has not entered into the Confederation, there are very important documents relating to her history; to fishery claims and disputes; to the rights granted to the French, and to other important questions that affect all British North America. I respectfully suggest, therefore, that the Archives at Ottawa would be imperfect were these left out. They have a direct practical interest in relation to our position, and should, I believe, be collected along with the papers referring in a more immediate manner to the Dominion of Canada.

I think it right to add, that I have not trusted to the catalogues for information. They are most valuable as finger-posts, which is all they are intended for, but it would be as wise for the traveller to sit down believing he had reached his journey's end, because the road was pointed out to him, as for the investigator to be satisfied with an index. There is not a paper mentioned in the following list that I have not examined carefully, and in many cases repeatedly, and the remarks and recommendations I have made in this report are the result of careful and painstaking and personal investigation.

The following is an account of the papers examined in the British Museum, with their distinctive numbers and titles.

Papers relating to the West Indies, America, &c.—Concessions, chiefly from the Company of Nouvelle France, of lands and privileges to various persons. Arrêt dated 6th March 1645, approving of the transfer of the fur trade of Nouvelle France by the company to the inhabitants. (Folio 29.)

Different edicts of the King. Representations concerning Acadia. Order from Louis XIII. to regulate the limits of the Governments of Nouvelle France, &c., addressed to M. Daunay Charnesay, dated St. Germain en Laye, 10th February 1638. (Folio 34.)

Concessions of the Magdalen Islands to Sieur Doublet in 1663. (Folio 66.)

Capitulation of Port Royal in 1654.

Concessions of Cromwell in 1656, to de la Tours, Temple and Crown.

These papers, which begin at folio 24 and end at folio 91 b, will be afterwards referred to.

Report on claims of Richard Gridley for grant of the Magdalen Islands. (Folio 211.)

Memorial of Lord Albemarle, Admiral Keppel and others, for grant of St. John's Island (Prince Edward Island). (Folio 213.)

Report as to the Quebec Constitution (1765) by the Lords on Trade and Plantations. (Folio 221.)

Memorial of the Loyalists in Cape Breton, 1785. (Folio 369.)

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

Letter on the same, by Governor Desbarres, to Lord Sydney, 1785. (Folio 384.)

Add: 15,491. Papers relating to Canada.—Petition of the new subjects and of the British merchants of Montreal and other parts of the Province; also of London merchants, interested in and trading to Canada, setting out at length the complaints against General Murray (there is no date, but we know that from other sources); the petition covers nine large pages.

There are also the papers in two appeal cases, one on a suit brought by Francis Noble Knipe and John LeQuesne, of Quebec, against Deputy Quartermaster-General Christie, the latter of whom is the appellant; and another, an appeal by Elzear Levy, of Montreal, against Daniel Robertson, Robert Burton, executor of the late Sir Ralph Burton, and the military authorities, whose names and offices are set out at length.

These two appeals, of no particular interest in themselves, show, in the clearest light, the manner in which the military authority was exercised immediately after the conquest, and the resistance offered to it by the old subjects, that is the British settlers. The cases cover 19 pages.

Ch. Brief, B. IV. 8. Brief.—An authority to the bishops and Clergy of England, Wales, and the town of Berwick-on-Tweed—to collect money throughout these territories for the relief of the sufferers by the great fire which took place in Montreal.

The brief is dated in the sixth year of George III. (1766), and is on parchment.

Add: 24,323. Letters of Sir Wm. Johnson, Sir John Johnson, and Colonel Guy Johnson.—The earlier letters refer chiefly to money matters, and to a certain Roberts, an ex-officer in the Indian Department. An account is given of Klock, a German, referred to in the Haldimand papers as having carried off two Indians by stealth to London to make money of them. Some further details of this occurrence are given and his character described, but the information is not of sufficient importance to justify its being copied. Colonel Guy Johnson writes in September 1778, on his way to Quebec, which he did not reach, and from Halifax in February 1779, but the letters contain nothing of any consequence.

A letter dated from Montreal, 8th November 1780 (folio 36), may be copied, as it gives an account of an expedition to the revolted provinces in fuller detail than any we have. Two pages of this letter (to the bottom of 36b) would be sufficient.

Add: 24,322. Letters and Papers relating to American Affairs.—Warrant to Major Henry Caldwell for 500*l.*, as a reward for bringing news of the retreat of the rebel forces from before Quebec on the 6th May 1776. (Folio 24.)

Letter to the Earl of Shelburne, apparently from Lieutenant-Governor Hamilton, dated 12th November 1784. (Folio 88.)

Notice fixed to the walls after Haldimand's departure from Quebec, speaking of himself and his rule in the most bitter terms.

There is no date, but that is undoubtedly 1784. (Folio 93.)

There are also letters from Colonel St. Leger (folio 94); Mongolfier (folio 104); James McGill (folio 106); Joseph Brant (folio 110), and one from E. Bridgeman in 1790, relative to raising of troops (folio 131).

The papers I have here mentioned should, I think, be copied, and the one from Colonel Guy Johnson in Add. 24,323, folio 36, could be put with this collection.

Add: 8,075. Puisaye Papers, 1799.—Count Joseph de Puisaye's name fills a notable space in the revolutionary history of France. Born in 1754 and educated at the Church, he joined the Army, and was a colonel of the well known Cent Suisses, the Royal Guard. A member of the constituent assembly, he became disgusted with the excesses of the Jacobins, took command under Wimpfen as the chief of the staff in the expedition against them, and on its defeat raised a formidable body of Chouans, obtained assistance from the British Government towards its support, and was regarded as the head of the royalist movement. In 1797, when the hopes of that party were extinguished, he made arrangements with the British Government for a grant in Upper Canada on which to settle French loyalists, but, after the peace of Amiens, he returned to England, where his life was embittered by controversy. The correspondence in this volume relates to the proposed settlement, and includes letters from the Duke of Kent, the bishop of Quebec, the British Ministry, intending settlers and officials. There is a part of Puisaye's correspondence already in the Archives amongst the military collection, and these papers will make that collection more valuable. The papers extend to about 230 pages letter size. The whole of the Puisaye collection fills 117 volumes.

A report sent to the Minister of Marine of France, relating to the West India Islands. There are, in addition, a translation of part of the travels of Purchas, astronomical tables, &c. It is a curious old book, with rare maps, but not suitable for the Archives; evidently written about the beginning of the 18th century.

Miscellaneous Papers relating to America.—Only one paper in this collection referring to Canada and its trade, and that is of very little value. Add: 22,680.

Papers of Lord Halifax.—Proposal to settle a colony of Scotchmen in Canada, Nova Scotia, and Acadia, showing the advantages of the scheme for trade and defence. There is no date; it is probably 1707. (Folio 92 to 94.) Egerton, 929.

Memorial showing that the French possessions on the River of Canada do originally and of right belong to the Crown of Great Britain, and for other important reasons ought to be restored to the said Crown on a Treaty of Peace, dated 1709, with a letter from the author of the proposal, J. Dummer. The memorial gives some interesting details, and would well repay the cost of copying. (Folios 119 to 122.)

Rear-Admiral Warren's opinion as to the number of troops and ships necessary to defend and settle Nova Scotia, and his proposals for the same, 1746-47. (Folios 168 to 172.)

The Caesar Papers.—The only document in this collection relating to Colonial affairs is a letter dated 15th December 1622, containing a proposal for bringing the Indians into subjection, without destroying them, by Thomas Martin. The letter refers more especially to the Indians in Virginia, and generally to those in the now Southern States. It would not repay copying. Add: 12,496

Papers relating to New England.—These refer almost entirely to Boston; a few to Virginia, and some to the Leeward Islands. They are not dated, but appear from internal evidence to have been written about 1675. None of them need be copied. Add: 28,089.

Papers from the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.—To the Right Honourable Mr. Secretary Vernon, February 17th, 1698-99. Lansdown, 849.

1. Copy of letter from the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations about the encroachments of the French upon the eastern parts of New England, by sea and land, dated 29th December 1698.

This is an important report with respect to French encroachments on the provinces south of Quebec, with a plan for settlements, industries that may be prosecuted, &c.

Although the report mainly relates to New York, it should, I conceive, be copied, as it bears directly and clearly on the French occupation of Canada and their external relations. (The letter extends to 29 pages, about 70 folios.)

2. Extract of a letter from Stoughton, Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts Bay, relating to the encroachments of the French upon the English territories by land and the right of fishery by sea, 24th October 1698. (Folio 24.)

3. Copy of a letter from Mons. de Villebon, French Governor of Nova Scotia, to Mr. Stoughton, His Majesty's Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts Bay, relating to the pretensions of the French to the sole right of fishing, &c., in those parts, 5th September 1698.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

This letter (folio 47) gives the boundaries between the French and English territories.

4. Copy of the affidavit of John Swasy and Wm. Jeggles, relating to the pretensions of the French to the sole right of fishing on the coast of Nova Scotia.

The affidavit gives an account of attacks by the French on fishermen off Nova Scotia. (Folio 49.)

5. Copy of Mr. Crown's memorial concerning the English title to Penobscot and other lands adjacent in America, 4th January 1697-98.

The memorial (7 pages) begins at folio 51.

6. Copy of Mr. Nelson's memorial relating to his title to Nova Scotia, as nephew to Sir Thomas Temple, deceased, 13th April 1697. (Folio 55.)

7. Copy of Mr. Nelson's memorial relating to Nova Scotia and parts adjacent, 13th April 1697. (Folio 57.)

8. Extract of a memorial from Mr. Nelson relating to the country westward of the River St. Croix, annexed to the Government of New York, 2nd July 1697. (Folio 59.)

9. Copy of Mr. Nelson's memorial relating to the fishery on the coast of Nova Scotia, and other things proper to be had in consideration in treating with the French Commissioners, pursuant to the treaty of Riswick, dated 2nd November 1697. The paper itself bears no date, but that I have given is endorsed on it. (Folio 61.)

10. Copy of Mr. Nelson's letter from Paris, relating to the designs of the French for extending their boundaries on the eastern parts of New England, 2-12 December 1697. (Folio 67.)

11. Copy of Mr. Nelson's letter from Boston, in New England, relating to the French pretensions to the sole right of fishing upon the coast of Acadia, 4th November 1698. (Folio 65.)

These letters, memorials, and representations by Mr. Nelson, although all on the same subject, present it from different points, and bear on the Stirling claims subsequently referred to. The whole of his papers, six in number, cover only 16 pages, the folio at which each begins being given above.

12. Extract of a letter from Mr. Randolph relating to the encroachments of the French upon the English plantations, and the necessity of putting some stop thereunto by a fixed regulation of the boundaries. Dated at New York the 16th of May 1698. (Folio 69.) This paper covers only one page.

13. Copy of a memorial drawn by the Commissioners for Trade and Plantations in July 1697, relating to the frontier of New York and His Majesty's right to the sovereignty over the Five Nations bordering thereupon.

This paper, whose title is given as part of the enclosures from the Commissioners, is not in the collection.

14. Copy of the depositions of William Teller about the right of the Crown of England to the sovereignty over the Five Nations of Indians. New York, 6th July 1698. (Folio 71.)

Besides the subject mentioned in the title, the deposition contains statements as to the steps taken by the French in Canada to assert their claims on, and as to their dealings with, the Indians. The deposition covers two pages.

15. Copy of a memorial presented to the Earl of Bellomont by Colonel Bayard, relating to the right of the Crown of England to the sovereignty over the Five Nations of Indians. New York, 6th July 1698. (Folio 73.)

The memorial contains an account of the treaties with the Indians, and other information. It covers two pages.

In addition to these papers, numbered according to a list prefixed to them, there is a letter from the Earl of Bellomont (folio 78) covering an address from the inhabitants of the city and county of Albany (folio 80), and a report from the Commissioners of Trade and Plantations (folios 84-86). These papers represent the inability of the people of the province of New York to bear the cost of the proposed fortifications, and give information of the projects of the French in Canada to invade and take the country. Lord Bellomont's letter and the enclosures cover about 10 pages.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

In addition, are reports from the Sachems of the Five Nations that they are being slaughtered by Indians in alliance with the French, dated 30th June 1700 (folio 88). An extract of a letter from the Earl of Bellomont (folio 90), dated 31st July 1700, reporting the mission of Mons. de Merricourt, Father Brenyat, a Jesuit, and others to the Onandagas.

These two papers cover four pages.

The whole of these papers relate directly to the history of Canada under French rule, and show clearly the relations at that period between Canada and its neighbours to the south, as viewed by the latter. They are very important fragments, which it would, I think, be unwise to neglect.

Reports on State of the American Colonies.—Report by the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations to the King, with state of His Majesty's colonies and plantations on the continent of North America, September 1721. King's, 205.

This report includes Nova Scotia, New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island, New York, Jersey, Pennsylvania, besides Maryland, Virginia, and the Carolinas. The Spanish possessions in Florida are also referred to. A detailed account of the commerce completes this part of the report. In another part, under the head "Mississippi" is an account of the claims of the French, which is of great interest. The report on the Indian alliance gives their numbers. The report closes with "Considerations for securing, improving, and enlarging Your Majesty's dominions in America."

The whole would amount to about 340 folios, all of which should be copied, as the documents nearly all relate directly to the history of our present provinces, and also to Canada and its projects under French rule.

Address by Sir William Keith to the King on the present state of the colonies in America, with respect to the interest of Great Britain.

The chief value of this document is the clear evidence it presents as to the state of feeling with respect to the uses of the colonies for the benefit of traders and adventurers in the mother country, and the record it gives of the advice which led to their revolt. The address would be about 63 folios.

General James Murray's report on Quebec, 1762.

In the Haldimand collection the report itself is given, but none of the papers which accompanied it. They are given here in full, and would complete the report already in the Archives. They are :—

1. The King's arrest on the 15th March 1732, directing the settling of the lands granted already within a certain time limited, on pain of forfeiture.
2. Tariff of duties on imports and exports.
3. List of the revenue officers in Canada in the year 1758, with their salaries.
4. Ordonance current for 1*l.* 10*s.* (about 7½*d.* sterling).
5. Extract of a letter to Governor Murray, giving some account of the Indian trade in the upper country.
6. Number of souls in the Government of Quebec in 1761.
7. Quantity of furs exported in 1754, with the Quebec prices of the several species.
8. Quantity of furs exported in 1755, with the Quebec prices of the several species.
9. Imports and exports in 1754.

The report on Three Rivers for 1762, by Sir Ralph Burton. Although bearing a general resemblance to that for 1763 in the Haldimand collection, this differs from it in several respects, and with the accompanying tables should be copied. The report and tables in this collection are all for 1762.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

I would beg to make the same recommendation with regard to the report on the Government of Montreal by General Gage, with its accompanying tables.

Two reports on Nova Scotia by Charles Morris, chief surveyor, dated in 1762 and 1764. They are almost entirely topographical.

Report on Newfoundland by Governor Hugh Palliser in 1764, full of details of French proceedings, fishery encroachments from New England, &c. The report, with relative documents, extends from folio 658 to folio 792, but there are many blank spaces.

Add: 8,949-50.

Captain Jonathan Carver's Travels from May 1766 to the end of 1767. The work is more curious than important. Captain Carver travelled from Detroit to Michillimackinac, Thunder Bay, &c. and through part of the North-West Territories, having been as far west as 108° longitude. He also visited the Mississippi.

The two numbers refer to only one work, which is in duplicate.

Journal of J. L., Quebec, Merchant, from London to Boston, Rhode Island, New York, Albany, Mohawk River, Fort Stanwix, Fort Oswego, Erie, Detroit, and back by the St. Lawrence to Montreal, the time occupied being about five months and a half in 1768. The journal written from day to day is, with very rare exceptions in some of the entries, destitute of the slightest interest to any human being, except, perhaps, to the author in his lifetime.

Add: 15,483. List of Councils in America and of persons recommended for appointment from 1703 to 1711.

Add: 15,484. Description of Ports from New England to Florida.—In neither of these collections is there anything to be extracted of interest to the Dominion.

Add: 15,485. Table of Trade, Imports, Exports, &c., from 5th January 1768 to 4th January 1769.

These include returns from Newfoundland, Canada, Nova Scotia, New England, the Provinces (now the States) to the southward, as far as Florida, the returns for each being given in detail, besides those for the Bahamas and the West Indies. In these latter the imports from the different colonies are specified, quantities and values being given.

The tables are very complete, showing the comparative trade of the different provinces at that date. The information is most valuable to the commercial historian. I think there should be little hesitation felt as to the propriety of their being copied. The different kinds of produce exported, of goods imported, &c., are, I may add, very minutely given.

Add: 15,486. Encroachments on the King's prerogative by the Legislature of Massachusetts. These papers, extending from 1720 to 1723, are very important to the writer on American history, from their bearing on the strained relations that prevailed so long between the New England Colonies, more especially Massachusetts, and the mother country.

The evidence of the impatience of all restraint, even the slightest, on the part of the Legislature and people of Massachusetts is to be met with in almost all the papers referring to that Colony. But as the papers now in question do not in any direct sense affect Canada, I cannot recommend that they be added to our Archives.

Add: 15,487. Relates entirely to boundary disputes between Provinces, now States of the American Union, and of no special interest to Canada.

Add: 15,488. Disputes between the Kennebec Company and the New Plymouth and Massachusetts Bay Colonies, as to the extent of the boundaries, the privileges, &c., conferred by the Kennebec grant. The whole of the territory covered by the original grant, over which the disputes waged, lies between 40° and 48° latitude.

I have read the whole of the papers very carefully, which contain the cases drawn up for the parties to the dispute, copies of grants, Indian deeds and other documents. They are very voluminous, but the want of a map, and the consequent absence of an intelligible description of the contested boundaries, disappointed me in my expectations of obtaining light on the question as to the boundaries settled by the Ashburton Treaty. The question of copying this volume I would leave for future consideration.

Papers relating to New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, New York, &c., are confined to the affairs of the States named. Add: 15,489.

The Mitchell Papers.—Sir Andrew Mitchell was Ambassador to the Court of Prussia from 1755 to 1770. His despatches, correspondence, and other papers fill 69 bulky volumes. They contain frequent references to events taking place in British North America, besides numerous indications of important information regarding the affairs of what is now Canada. Add: 6,804 to 6,872.

Having found by experience that in such searches nothing can be taken for granted, I examined all the numerous entries with the same result in all but one, they being, with that exception, mere intimations of the event spoken of having taken place, the gazettes forwarded, not preserved, being referred to for particulars, the time was not, however, I believe, wasted, as it sets at rest the question of the Mitchell papers being at any future period examined for information.

In this volume, being the one I have spoken of as forming the exception to the rest, are given the propositions and counter-propositions of the French and British Governments in 1755, regarding the limits of Acadia, Canada, territories on the Ohio and disputed islands. The documents are short and widely written, the respective claims being in parallel columns. They begin at folio 97 and end at folio 104. Add: 6,865.

Francis Place, America.—These three volumes contain a collection of odds and ends, gatherings from all sources, correspondence, or rather answers to requests for information, which had been addressed to men in various parts of the world. Evidently Mr. Place had in view the writing and publication of an exhaustive history of North America, Greenland, Iceland, and other northern countries, but the collection of the notes seems to have exhausted him. This gentleman, so far as I could ascertain, was a writer for periodicals and of pamphlets, chiefly on subjects of ephemeral interest, and is described in the catalogue as a "Political Reformer," to distinguish him from Dr. Francis Place. Add: 27,856 to 27,858.

There is a short letter from Mr. Robert Gourlay, whose name was well known in Upper Canada some years ago, which I give here. The letter was written in London:—

"13, Clifton Street, 26th May 1822.

"DEAR SIR,

"I HAVE only now an opportunity of replying to your note of the 11th inst., having been out of town for 12 days.

"Upper Canada was settled almost entirely from the United States, till the late American war. When that war broke out some of the settlers returned into the States, but otherwise there never was any emigration from Canada to that country.

"The emigration from the United States into Lower Canada has not been great. The soil there is good, but the climate is too cold to be inviting.

"I shall endeavour to procure for you an unfolded map and call with it, first opportunity.

"Yours truly,

"F. Place, Esq.

"ROBERT GOURLAY."

The map which, in the collection, immediately precedes this letter, is, no doubt, the one referred to. It is entitled "Map of Upper Canada engraved for the Statistical Account," has side plans of the harbours of Kingston and York, and at the foot "sketch of principal course of the Grand Commercial Canal of St. Lawrence with its junctions." For the main canal there are three routes shown: The most northern from about Point Fortune opposite Carillon, I imagine, for no name is given; the middle from a point on the Lake of Two Mountains; the southern from Isle Perrot, taking a straight course on the north bank of the St. Lawrence to a point in the township of Matilda, where it joins the other two branches in a common channel, the middle having previously made a junction on the town line, as shown on the map, of Roxborough and Cornwall, the common terminus of all being Johnstown, below Prescott. There is besides an intricate system of feeders, or subsidiary branch canals shown. The map was published by Longmans in 1821. I tried, unsuccessfully, to obtain a copy of the work of which the map is a part, but could find no trace of it at Messrs. Longmans, or other publishers. I felt sure, however, that it must be the "Statistical Account of Upper Canada," a copy of which is in the Parliamentary Library, a fact of which I have satisfied myself since my return. The work is there, in two volumes, containing the map I have described.

These are the only two Canadian documents in the three large volumes. of any interest.

Add: 27,819. Francis Place, Canada.—Papers relating to the Earl of Selkirk's colony.

The title is a misnomer. The papers consist of two letters, one from John D. De Lacey, dated from Makisucki, 9th December 1801, addressed to "His Excellency William Augustus Bowles, Director General of the Muscogee Nation," with details of a scheme of trade for the Indian country, and the other from Bowles, dated from the same place on the 11th, three days later, but without address, recommending the scheme proposed by De Lacey. Bowles was a native of Maryland; had been in the British army, but was dismissed; joined the Creeks and married one of them; was with them as leader whilst they acted as allies of the British during the Revolutionary War. After the taking of Pensacola by the Spaniards in 1781 he followed various employments, but subsequently, having again joined the Indians, his attacks became so disastrous to the Spaniards that they offered a reward for his head, and his proceedings, as well as the title he assumed of Governor of the Muscogee Indians, were disowned by the British Government. He was twice taken by the Spaniards, and it was in his interval of freedom (as he died in the Moro in 1804) that these letters were written. De Lacy's proposals show an intimate knowledge of the country, contain very full lists of the Indian towns, with the number of the warriors, &c., calculations of the profit to be derived from the trade, and a large amount of information. I do not, in the meantime at least, recommend that this correspondence be copied, as it cannot be held as strictly within the scope of the present collection of Archives.

The other papers in the volume stand, I conceive, on a different footing. They all relate to the grant of Nova Scotia and Canada to Sir William Alexander, Earl of Stirling.

I may be pardoned if I give a brief sketch of the history of this grant and of the proceedings taken by a claimant under its provisions, as a reason for the recommendation I make regarding these papers, and others relating to the case.

In 1621, King James the Sixth of Scotland and First of England, transferred by charter or deed of gift the whole of Nova Scotia, with the full powers of an almost absolute Sovereign, to Sir William Alexander, of Menstrie, afterwards Earl of Stirling. The King died before the deed could be ratified by the Parliament of Scotland, and in 1625, Charles I., by a charter of Novodamus, renewed the gift, adding in 1628 another, the powers in the latter extending over Canada. These deeds were ratified by the Parliament of Scotland in 1633. Sir William had in the meantime attempted to colonize, but unsuccessfully, although the bait of the hereditary title of baronet of Nova Scotia was held out to those undertaking to settle the country on certain terms, each baronet to receive 16,000 acres of land to constitute his barony. Charles ceded the country to France in 1632 in accordance with instructions sent to his ambassador in 1631, quoted in speaking of the Harleian 1760, Sir William being impoverished had sold his rights to MM. de la Tour in 1630. Cromwell recovered the Province, to be again surrendered to the French, this time by Charles II., and again it was finally taken by the British.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

In 1761 a claim to the titles was set up by an American, Alexander, but rejected, and other claims are shown in the manuscripts in the Museum.

In 1815, Alexander Humphrys began to lay the foundation for establishing his claims to the titles, possessions, and all the privileges granted by the original charters, but it was not until 1831 that his plans were fully matured. He had, however, in the meantime assumed the title of Earl of Stirling, had voted at the election of representative peers for Scotland, and taken part in other public affairs. In 1831, he took the ostensibly legal proceedings to have himself put in possession of the territories in question, and in 1838 sent a protest to the Government and Parliament against the appointment of Lord Durham to Canada. In 1839, he was tried for forgery, the papers he had produced in support of his claims were pronounced by the jury to be fraudulent, but there being a doubt whether he himself was guilty of either forging or uttering them, the verdict allowed by the Scotch law of "not proven" was rendered.

Papers relating to the Stirling claims are to be found scattered through various works, but in a fragmentary condition, and most of them inaccessible to students of history in Canada who desire to consult them. A number of the manuscripts in the British Museum, bearing directly on the subject, have never been published, besides others which throw light on the case, although not specially referring to it, but to the general history of the country. I would suggest, for your sanction, that all such papers be brought together into one collection, taking care that no duplicates or abridgments of the same documents be copied.

Apart altogether from the Stirling case, although having an important relation to it, the historical papers I have referred to should be found in our Archives, and by the course I propose I venture to say that their value would be increased.

The papers in this volume are: Petition of the Right Honourable the Earl of Stirling (the claimant) to the House of Commons. No date (1831).

His address to the public authorities, the land settlers, inhabitants, and all others whom it may concern in the Anglo-Scottish colony of Nova Scotia, including New Brunswick, and in the Lordship and Territory of Canada, which sets forth his claims and the steps he had taken to vindicate them. London, 28th October 1831.

Copy of the Earl of Stirling's claim and protest sent in to His Majesty's Ministers, ending with a protest against any grant, &c. being made to any one in the provinces without his consent. Dated 22nd October 1831. (There are two copies in the volume of each of the two preceding documents.)

Copies and translations of the Royal Charters (confirmed in Parliament) by which the territories of Nova Scotia and Canada, with the islands and seas adjacent, and the dignities of His Majesty's Hereditary Lieutenant-General, High Admiral, Justice General, &c. were granted in 1621, 1625, and 1628 to the Right Honourable Sir William Alexander, Knight (afterwards Earl of Stirling, &c.), Privy Councillor and Secretary of State for Scotland.

The charters are introduced by some prefatory observations of Mr. T. C. Banks, who styled himself Sir, on the strength of the title of Baronet of Nova Scotia bestowed on him by the claimant. The preface is dated 5th September 1831.

The charters (in Latin) are:—

Charter in favour of Sir William Alexander, Knight, of the Lordship and Barony of Nova Scotia, in America, dated at Windsor, 10th December 1621. (James VI. I.)

Charter of Novodamus in favour of Sir William Alexander, of Menstrie, Knight, of the Lands, Lordship, and Barony of Nova Scotia, in America. Dated at Otlands, 12th July 1625. (Charles I.)

These are translated into English, and a note explains that the difference in style of the translation arose from the fact that one (that of

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

James) was translated by a gentleman in London, and the other, as well as the charter of Canada in 1628, was translated by a professional gentleman in Scotland.

The remaining charter is entitled a charter in favour of Sir William Alexander, of Menstrie, Knight, of the lordship of Canada, &c. It is dated Whythall (Whitehall), 2nd February 1628–29, with an English translation, which in this case precedes the Latin copy.

I succeeded in obtaining copies of the reports of the trial of Humphrys or Alexander, for forgery (one by Swinton and one by Turnbull), together with the narrative by the claimant himself. They contain all the documents to be found in Place's collection except the petition to the House of Commons, the one first mentioned in this list.

Add: 14,034. What I propose to add to these papers I now subjoin:—

On this volume (14,034) I have already reported in full, but there is a part of the documents in it which, from internal evidence, I feel convinced were collected with a view to meet the claims of the Temple and Crown families, who were setting up pretensions founded on titles derived from Sir William Alexander, the original grantee. These include all the papers from folios 24 to 91*b*, being the arrêts, instructions, concessions, and orders relative to the Territories of Nova Scotia, Canada, &c., Cromwell's concession to de la Tour, Thomas Temple and William Crown, dated 9th August 1656, in which the limits and boundaries are very minutely stated. In another document (the title of the English Crown to Nova Scotia) there is a narrative given of Sir William Alexander's conveyance to de la Tour in 1630, besides other documents which need not be more particularly specified. The concessions made by Frontenac in 1676, and by Duchesneau, the intendant, of the same date, are valuable evidences as to the claims then made and enforced.

I think that Richard Gridley's claim to the Magdalen Islands (folio 211) and the memorial of Lord Albemarle, Admiral Keppel and others for St. John's Island, the old name of Prince Edward Island, may very properly be added to this proposed collection.

Add: 19,049. Proposals of Samuel Waldo, of Boston, New England, to settle Nova Scotia. The writer of this proposal was in all probability the Samuel Waldo born in Boston in 1696, who was present at the siege of Louisbourg, and died in 1759, described as an accomplished, active, and enterprising man and a distinguished officer.

In the proposal Waldo traces his right to the lands downwards from the first grant to Sir William Alexander in 1621, through the different changes of owners by sale and otherwise, to 1730, when it was acquired by him from Nelson, heir of Sir Thomas Temple. The paper is undated (folio 1) and extends over four large pages very widely written.

Egerton,
2,305.

There are in this collection a copy of the grant by Sir William Alexander to de la Tour in 1630, to which reference is made in 14,034; the copy in folios 311 to 313, and of de la Tour to Thomas Temple and William Crown in 1650 (folios 313*b* to 319); claims by the French for the restitution of Annapolis through their Ambassador (folios 319 to 323*b*), and remonstrances against such a step by British subjects there. (Folios 324 to 328*b*.)

At folio 426 is a very brief but striking report of the state of society in 1665 on the Kennebec River, on the lands included within the charter to Sir Thomas Temple, of the territory of Nova Scotia. From the account it seems to have been a complete Alsatia, in which, among other peculiarities, the custom of polyandry flourished.

The pretensions of the Honourable George Kirke formed the subject of several meetings of the King in Council in 1661, and the steps taken at the meetings with the resolutions passed are contained in four widely written pages. (Folios 340, 341*b*.)

In 1667, directions (contained in three small pages) were given for marking out the limits of Acadia, in order for its restitution to the French (folios 451 to 454), the date being shown by a minute of the meeting of the Privy Council, contained on a slip of paper having the names of those who were present.

There are also some papers relating to Newfoundland in this collection. They form part of the evidence of the reckless manner in which grants of territories of immense and unknown extent were made for the glory of God and the advancement of trade—chiefly the latter.

Mrs. Kirke brought forward the claims of her deceased husband. But there is no date to the paper.

In 1660, Mr. Kirke had also laid claim to Newfoundland: his claim being contested (folios 258 to 266), and in 1661, Lord Baltimore pressed his claims to be put in possession of the same, stating his case with respect to Avalon, giving a detailed history of the grant made to him, with a narrative of the quarrels between him, the Duke of Hamilton and others, for possession. (Folios 308 to 310.)

By a charter, dated in the 21st year of the reign of James I. in England and his 56th in Scotland as James VI. (that is, in 1624), a grant had been made of Avalon to Sir George Calvert, by a charter which might be inserted here. Sloane, 170.

In 1666, the people of Newfoundland made representations as to their condition, addressed to the Honourable George Kirke, Esq., Commissioner of the Lords Proprietors of Newfoundland, asking him to accept the office of Governor. These are contained on a single page. (Folio 447.) Egerton, 2,395.

Lastly, in this collection of documents relating to Newfoundland is an account of its settlement, dated 1676, covering about seven pages. (Folio 560.)

The other documents contained in the volume are:

At folio 199, a bitter remonstrance against the encroachments by Massachusetts on the rights of proprietors of lands outside of the limits of that colony. With these we are not concerned, but as in the evidence of the impatience of control by the Crown, already spoken of, it is remarkable the number of complaints, scattered through the purely American papers, against what is described as the grasping and tyrannical course followed by Massachusetts towards its weaker neighbours.

A proposal addressed to the King, but without date, by Louis le Page de l'Oménil, to take possession of the whole of North America, gives an interesting account of his discoveries from the source of the St. Lawrence in Canada to the Michichiipi (Mississippi), and of the means by which he would secure possession of the whole country. One of these, I may notice, was to take possession of the Isle à Coudres, below Quebec, to fortify and garrison it, so that no assistance could reach France by way of the St. Lawrence. The date of the paper can, I think, be attributed with certainty to 1667, as among the Colonial papers in the Record Office is one from Louis le Page, Sieur de l'Oménil to the King asking for an examination by the Council of a memorial and maps he had prepared. There can be no doubt that this is the memorial in question. The maps are mentioned in it, but are not to be found in this collection. The letter to the King (Charles II.) sufficiently describes this memorial to leave no doubt of its identity (folios 672 to 676). The letter in the Record Office, calling attention to the memorial, is in volume XXI., Colonial Papers, 172, 173, the second paper being an English translation of the original.

The papers relating to Newfoundland, besides those already mentioned, are not very numerous.

State of the Colony of Newfoundland, 1744.—The accounts of the fishing trade go back to 1615, which is a short summary, the numbers of ships, men, tons, guns, boats, stages, and quantity of fish being also given for 1677. The tables are placed together for the sake of comparison. Add: 13,972.

Reports of French ships (number, &c.) fishing on the coasts in 1676.

The census for 1677 gives complete details of the number of inhabitants in each harbour and settlement.

There is a map of the Gulf and Islands of Newfoundland, &c., which merely gives the sea coast, and could be traced and coloured at a very trifling expense. The whole collection is only 54 large pages, most of it being very widely written.

Egerton, 921. Copies of Statistical and Political Papers from 1667 to 1727.

Among these is a report on the state of trade of Newfoundland, 1705 to 1706 (including, for purposes of comparison, 1698 to 1704), showing the fisheries, number of vessels trading, and other commercial information. Besides the tables, there are remarks on the relations existing between the French and English, with a statement of the hindrances and annoyances the French give to trade. A list of the chief harbours in Newfoundland is given, with their distances from each other. The report covers 11 large pages. (Folio 3 to end of folio 8.)

Egerton, 922. I may notice this volume, as it comes here in numerical order, merely to note that it contains nothing of interest to any part of British North America.

Add: 5,540. The Letters and Papers of John Carey.—John Carey was a merchant in Bristol. His collection includes papers on the gravest political and social questions, cures for human ailments, how to treat a horse for sore eyes, and a number of original and selected Bacchanalian and convivial songs. The papers in this volume of his collection referring to Newfoundland, consist of letters and other documents in a dispute between the Newfoundland merchants of Bristol and the Customs authorities as to the construction of an Act of Parliament providing for differential duties on oil imported in British ships under certain regulations as to fishing, &c. They are evidences of the revenue system of those days (1696), but would not, I think, repay the expense of copying. The correspondence begins at folio 23.

Add: 15,492. Papers relating to Newfoundland and the Expedition for the Protection of the Fisheries from the French, 1696–97.

These papers include:

Reports of the Lords of Trade on the proposed expedition to take Newfoundland from the French (2 papers).

Proposal read to the King in Council at Kingston.

Letters from the Transport Office, as to the sailing of the ships, and remarks as to provisions.

Letter from the Admiralty, with list of ships and state of preparations.

Letters from Transport Office, with list of ships hired, &c. (two letters), and another on the same subject six days later.

Letter from the Admiralty, regarding the ships and their capacity for carrying men.

The whole of the papers are contained in 22 pages.

Add: 15,493. Some Facts collected and Observations made on the Fisheries and Government of Newfoundland, showing the many advantages which will arise to this kingdom by colonizing that Island. By Dr. Gardner, late of Boston, New England.

The paper is not dated, but from internal evidence it must have been written in 1784. It was in all probability written by Dr. Sylvester Gardiner, a refugee loyalist, who, in the evacuation of Boston, left behind him his immense fortune and all his landed property, which was confiscated, taking with him as his whole possession less than 2,000 dollars. In 1785 he returned to Newport, Rhode Island, where he died the following year. Before the revolutionary war he was not only very wealthy but was most liberal in employing his wealth in industrial and benevolent enterprises.

The paper contains 67 small pages very widely written, and is full of information.

Add: 22,564. Whitburn's Discourse of Canada.—A small volume not of much value at first sight, but which, from its relation to the history of colonization, is deserving of some notice.

The name of Whitburne (Whitbourne on his printed works and the papers referring to him) has escaped the notice of biographers, as it is not to be found in any of the collections I have had access to. Although his proposals were submitted to and reported on favourably by the Lords of Council, in a report dated the last day of June 1621, a report adopted by the King in Council, and an order passed on the 12th April 1622, that letters should be written to the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, recommending collections to be taken up throughout all the parishes of their respective provinces, for the benefit of Whitburn, and for the circulation of his proposals to colonize Newfoundland, no reference is made to these official proceedings in either the Colonial or Domestic series of State Papers of these dates. Whitburn was a shipmaster and owner in the Newfoundland trade for many years, and in consequence of his experience and abilities was, in 1615, sent out by the Admiralty to keep order and rectify abuses among the fishermen and others there.

Anspach, in his "History of Newfoundland," published in 1819, refers briefly to Whitburne, and Sir Richard Bonnycastle, in "Newfoundland in 1842," draws largely on him for information, and says that the importance of his "Discourse" is manifest, as taking the lead of all the treatises on Newfoundland.

The manuscript, written in the peculiar hand of the period, is imperfect, but it is undoubtedly the preface and rough draft of what has been expanded into the first edition of the "Discourse and Discovery of Newfoundland," published in 1620. Singularly enough, the bibliographers have lost sight of this edition, which is only mentioned, so far as I can see, in two works chiefly designed as guides to the trade, namely, Lowndes' Bibliographer's Guide, by Bohn, in which it is stated to have been sold for 3*l.* 8*s.*, the work being of a size that might originally have sold for about a shilling; and in Gruesse's Trésor de Livres Rare et Precieuses, in which a copy is mentioned as sold at 4*l.* 4*s.* There are three editions, the one of 1620 and reproductions in 1622 and 1623, with additions to each of the latter of letters from Captain Gwynne, the Governor, and others, with the names of settlers, &c. There is, besides, a "Loving Invitation," published in 1622, which, besides being published separately, is bound in with the later editions; a pamphlet published in Dublin in 1623, dedicated to Lord Falkland by T. C., the compiler of the text, and, at the end, the conditions propounded by Lord Falkland to such as would join the Plantation completes the bibliography of this subject.

A document on Newfoundland fishing at folio 41 in the papers of the Hill Family is of no importance. Add: 5,489.

Papers relating to America, 1698 to 1705.

Add: 9,747.

The papers in this volume relating to Newfoundland are of two classes, military and ecclesiastical.

The military are:—

Commission to Captain Graydon to be commander-in-chief of the convoys, and to take command of the garrison during his presence in Newfoundland, dated 16th March 1700–1. (Folio 23.)

Commission to John Powell (27th February 1700–1) to be captain, and another (of 1st March) directing him to take the chief command, during the absence of the commander-in-chief, of the convoys. (Folios 30*l* and 31.)

Commission to two lieutenants. (Folio 31.)

These Commissions are simply to "Our Company of Foot in Newfoundland," without number or other description.

Allowance to John Thurston, as agent for the military accounts in Newfoundland, by the Queen in Council, 1702. (Folio 40.)

The other papers pertain to the church, the last document being of a mixed character, a calculation, namely, of how much could be raised for the clergy by taxing the soldiery.

Petition of planters of Newfoundland for clergy, 30th August 1699. (Folio 27.)

Commission, 27th March 1701, to John Jackson, clerk, to be chaplain. (Folio 30.)

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

Deduction proposed for the pay of a company of soldiers towards the maintenance of a minister of religion who was also to be chaplain. (Folios 32 to 37.)

This formidable array of folios would amount to about 18 lines, being the calculations at various rates.

A very small volume, containing a vocabulary of the language of the Newfoundland Indians, with a narrative of the Indian woman, Mary Marsh (Waunathoake), from whom it was obtained, would form an interesting addition to the Newfoundland papers, should it be decided to copy them.

The volumes of papers in the Museum relating exclusively to Nova Scotia are not numerous. Of those mixed up with other collections, and of those bearing on the Stirling claims, I have already spoken.

Before giving details of the Brown collection, the most complete here on the subject, the other papers may be noticed.

King's, 208,

General Description of the Province of Nova Scotia.—The title given by the writer himself (Colonel Morse, R.E.) is:—"A general description of "the province of Nova Scotia, and a report of the present state of the "defences, with observations leading to the further growth and security "of the colony, done by Lieutenant-Colonel Morse, Royal Engineers, in "America, upon a tour of the province in the autumn of the year 1783 "and the summer of 1784, under the orders and instructions of Sir Guy "Carleton, General and Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Forces in "North America, given at head-quarters at New York, the 28th day of "July 1783."

Colonel Morse's own words best describe the nature of the report. He says: "the geographical situation being known, as well as the late "political revolutions which have so much increased the consequence of "the province, I shall confine myself to a mere local description of the "coasts, harbours, rivers, nature of the country, soil and produce, "climate, extent and contents, number of inhabitants, and present de- "fences."

I need scarcely remark, that by Nova Scotia is also meant New Brunswick, the two provinces being one till 1784.

The report touches on the boundary question; the proper situation for a canal between Baie Verte and the Bay of Fundy; returns of the population generally, and of the disbanded soldiers and loyalists, specifically and in detail, showing of these two classes of settlers the number of men, women, and children, and the different parts of the province in which they were settling; descriptions of all the defensive works then in existence, plans for their extension and for opening communications throughout the country, with tables of arms, ammunition, barrack accommodation, &c. The report extends to 78 pages of about 225 words in each, besides the tables, four in number.

The second volume contains plans, preceded by a large chart (engraved) of the coast of Nova Scotia, New England, New York, Jersey, the Gulf and River St. Lawrence, the islands of Newfoundland, Cape Breton, St. John, Anticosti, Sable, &c., and soundings thereof, published for the use of the navy of Great Britain under the authority of the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, by Jos. F. W. DesBarres, Esq., MDCCLXXVIII.

The plans are:—

1. Chart of Port Roseway Harbour; shows the town of Shelbourne.
2. A plan of the peninsula upon which the town of Halifax is situated, showing the harbour, the naval yard, and the several works constructed for their defence: scale 800 feet to an inch.
3. Plan of the work on the Citadel Hill, 100 feet to an inch.
4. Plan of Fort Needham, 50 feet to an inch.
5. Plan of Fort Massey, 50 feet to an inch.
6. Plan of George's Island, 100 feet to an inch.
7. Plan of the Eastern Battery, 50 feet to an inch.
8. Plan of the Naval Yard at Halifax, 60 feet to an inch.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

9. Plan of the River Annapolis, surveyed in 1733, and amended in 1753, 1 mile to an inch.
10. Plan of the Fort at Annapolis Royal in June 1763, with the projected design for altering and repairing it, and showing how far the foundation of the new design is executed, 100 feet to an inch.
11. Plan of the Fort at Cumberland, 60 feet to an inch.
12. Plan of the Fort at Windsor, 40 feet to an inch.
13. Plan of St. John's Harbour, 1,650 feet to an inch.

In order to complete the information regarding these two volumes, I ascertained that the plans could be traced and coloured as in the original for 16*l.*, or, if left uncoloured, for 12*l.* The engraved map would cost from 5*l.* to 6*l.* besides. I made inquiry at Messrs. Wild, publishers of maps, Charing Cross, who have a large collection of maps of North America, as to the probability of obtaining a copy of this engraved map. These gentlemen were to examine their stock, but, so far, I have not heard from them.

Orders, &c., Relating to Annapolis Royal.—1711. Repairs of fortifications; Sloane, 3,607. apprehensions of deserters; levying recruits. (Folio 1-2.)

Governor Vetch's scheme for raising a garrison to resist Indian attacks. (Folio 3.)

Account of attack by Indians. (Folio 3.)

Council of war:.

New England asked for reinforcements. (Folio 4.)

Account of what has been and what must be done for the security of Annapolis Royal. (Folio 4*b.*)

Letters from Governor Vetch, on his way to New England to take command of troops against Canada, and to General Hill, respecting the garrison. (Folio 5*b.*)

Letters as to the difficulties respecting pilots for the navigation of the St. Lawrence; Vetch expects to take Quebec easily. (Folio 6.)

Instructions to Sir Charles Holby, Deputy-Governor of Annapolis Royal. (Folio 7.)

Letter of General Hill for arms, &c., for extra troops raised for the Quebec expedition. (Folio 7*b.*)

Letters from Boston, with suggestions as to the garrison.

Letters to Lieutenant-Governor Cawfield, Annapolis Royal, as to the care of the garrison. (Folio 7*b.*)

Journal on the unsuccessful attempt on Quebec, in July 1711, with letters on the same subject to Lord Dartmouth and others. (Folio 8*b.*)

1712. Correspondence generally regarding Annapolis; its distressed state for want of provisions, complaints of the want of attention shown by Lord Dartmouth; urgent appeals to the Governor in Council, and memorials by troops for supplies to the garrison. (Folios 12 to 36.)

1713. Representations to the French Commander respecting prisoners held by him. (Folio 37.)

There are about 80 pages altogether.

The journal with accompanying documents, by Sir Hovenden Walker, giving "a full account of the late expedition to Canada," published in 1720, is in the Parliamentary Library. The documents in this collection and in the printed volumes are entirely different, none of Colonel Vetch's letters or the journal being noticed by Sir Hovenden Walker.

The Brown Collection is contained in eight large volumes, two of which are notes of, apparently, a proposed history of Nova Scotia, written very closely and full of erasures, corrections, additions, and interlineations. It does not appear that the work was ever written, far less published. All the printed productions of Dr. Andrew Brown I could find trace of are two sermons preached at Halifax, one on St. Andrew's Day, 1790, before the North British Society, printed by John Howe, Halifax, in 1791, and a pamphlet on Family History. The two volumes of notes may be allowed to pass without further comment. The other six volumes may be divided into two categories:—1. Copies (in some cases originals) of correspondence and official records. 2. Memoranda or notes, contributed by leading men in the province as aids to Dr. Brown in the work of getting up his proposed history. The value of the latter depends almost entirely on the opportunities the writers had of being personally acquainted with the events and subjects of which they treat, on their ability to describe them, and on their fairness and impartiality in writing on topics regarding which their interests, prejudices, or prepossessions may have had more or less influence on their judgments.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

Before giving an account of the contents of the volumes, I would refer to the fact that the Government of Nova Scotia possesses a most valuable collection of original documents relating to the same period as that to which Dr. Brown's collection refers. A selection from the documents in their possession was published by that Government in 1869, the subjects and dates being as follow:—

Acadian French	-	-	-	1714—1755
Acadian French (removal)	-	-	-	1755—1768
French encroachments	-	-	-	1749—1754
War in North America	-	-	-	1754—1761
Settlement of Halifax	-	-	-	1749—1756
Representative Assembly, Nova Scotia	-	-	-	1755—1761

Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. T. B. Akins for the careful and judicious manner in which he has made the selections, but they are, of necessity, only fragmentary, and what detracts from the value of the work for reference by historical investigators is that the French documents are given in translation and not in the original. This, with the objects the legislature had in view, was no doubt unavoidable, but it added much to the labour of the editor, though contributing greatly to the ease and comfort of the general reader. It is scarcely necessary, however, to point out that no one who desires to consult records for the purposes of study will ever be satisfied with the secondary evidence of translations, unless the originals are inaccessible.

I may remark, further, that from the quotations given in the published volume, which I have carefully compared with the manuscript in this collection, it seems to be beyond doubt that, generally speaking, despatches on the same subject were written to the Commissioners for Trade and Plantations and to the Secretary of War; that there were subjects common to both which were given in each of the counterpart despatches, with slight verbal alterations, whilst those that came under the control of the one only were confined to the one despatch; that Mr. Akins has drawn on the one, whilst usually, the other, and so far as I can see the fuller, despatch, is to be found in the present collection. The numbers prefixed to the sub-titles in the present list are those in the volume, and, as will be seen, do not follow in any consecutive order. I have in some cases used the descriptive title given under these numbers, but have not trusted to them as a substitute for examination, the details of the contents being invariably given from actual perusal.

Add: 19,069.

Papers Relating to Nova Scotia, 1710—1747—Mascarene.—1. Articles of the surrender of Port Royal (Annapolis) between David Auger de Subercasse and General Nicholson, in French and English, 1710. (4 pages.)

5. Orders, paroles, &c., by Major Paul Mascarene, whilst commandant at Canso.

In these the conduct and vices of the soldiery and inhabitants are indicated, and from them a very complete picture of Canso may be drawn—1735—36. (32 pages.)

9. Letters, orders, &c., of Major Mascarene, Governor of Nova Scotia.

Account of escape of prisoners, detail of the life in the Fort; ships employed in running between Annapolis and Louisbourg, 1745—46—48. (52 pages.)

34. Memorial of the people of Halifax to the Home Government for redress of grievances and for a government, refers to the mission of their agent, Paris (see 19,071). Also a petition from King's County, 1757. (8 pages.)

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

19. Representation of the relative state of the French and English in Nova Scotia, transmitted by Surveyor Morris to General Shirley on his leaving for England, 1750–51. (5 pages.)

60. Letters from De la Rochette (in French) dated 18th March (no year), addressed to Anthony Kasthing, Langland Coffee House, St. Martin's Lane, pointing out the orders that have been given to have lists made and signed of all Acadians desiring to return to France. (1 page.)

2. Memorial of Captain Paul Mascarene; account of occurrences at Annapolis Royal; instructions by Colonel Vetch to Mascarene, 1710 to 1713–14. (60 pages.) Add: 19,070.

3. Letter-book of Major Mascarene at Annapolis containing all his letters and despatches to the Board of Ordnance. These, says the writer of the sub-titles, with the journals, furnish a history of the defence, repairs, &c. of the Fort, and of the Indian wars and other affairs of the province, 1719 to 1725. (68 pages.)

11. Extracts of Minutes of Council of Nova Scotia and information respecting the Acadians, from January 1745–46 to 1746–47.

12. Extracts from Minutes of Council of Nova Scotia from 30th June to September 1746.

First intelligence of the destination of the Brest fleet; preparations for its reception; the arrangements to receive intelligence from the Bay of Fundy. (20 pages.)

13. The measures taken with respect to the French fleet; letters to Governor Shirley; exultation at its retreat; account of assistance from New England and projected expedition; proceedings against fugitive and delinquent Acadians; appearance of the Acadian deputies from the Minas district, 1746–47. (17 pages.)

4. Journals of Paul Mascarene, kept regularly from day to day, from 1720 to 1725, containing all the letters, instructions, &c. addressed to and by the Honourable Richard Philips, Governor of Nova Scotia, giving the state of defences of Annapolis Royal, Placentia, and Canso. There seems to have been great difficulty experienced by the Governor and Engineers in getting means to have the fortifications put in order, as if the Board of Ordnance were not clear as to the use of defending territory that not improbably would be handed back to the French. There is a somewhat acrimonious correspondence with Lieutenant John Washington, 1720 to 1725. (67 pages.) Add: 19,071.

6. Private letter-book and journal of Major Paul Mascarene, then Governor of the Province of Nova Scotia. These letters are chiefly private, but there are many hints given as to the course of public affairs, 1742 to 1753. (56 pages.)

7. Minutes and other proceedings of the Council of Nova Scotia, with a conference (given in full) between Mascarene, as Commander-in-Chief, and four delegates from the River St. John Indians; Capt. Home's memorial relative to Canso, and the Council's proceedings on it; letters respecting the murder of a ship's crew by Indians, &c., 1744. (20 pages.)

8. Council Minutes of Annapolis Royal; an absurdly trifling affair relating to the distribution of the effects of a deceased bombardier, 1744.

10. Papers concerning the Acadians.

Governor Shirley's representation to procure succours to dislodge De Ramsay, 9th September 1746.

Despatch to Governor Shirley from Townshend and Knowles, 11th September 1746; first tidings of the French fleet. Governor Shirley's letter to Governor Wentworth, 25th October 1746. Do., do., 4th November 1746. Letters of Otho Hamilton and of Mascarene to Governor Cornwallis, 1749. Do., do., 1749 to 1751. Repairs to Annapolis, Governor Philips to Mascarene, 1720–21.

(The whole of the above papers cover 26 pages.)

15. President Mascarene to Captain Askew, to Howe, to Morris, &c. The first letter to Askew refers to the hard fate of the Acadians during the war, in having their boats and craft burned to prevent them from being used by the enemy; new orders on the same subject to Charles

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

Morris, and directions to him to perfect the plans and draughts of the Basin of Minas and Bay of Fundy, &c.

Letters to René Le Blanc, deputy from Grand Pré, 1748-49. (26 pages.)

The cares of State did not prevent Governor Mascarene from indulging in literary pursuits—as he was writing a play—of which a specimen is given, and also a critique on Denis' review of Addison's "Cato," which need not be disinterred from the collection.

20. General notes concerning Acadians and Nova Scotia.

Letters from Mascarene and Lieutenant John Washington, Annapolis Royal, 15th August 1726.

Enumeration of Acadian families resident in Nova Scotia, as given to the Secretary's office in 1771 (with names of settlement and numbers). The memorandum is dated 1793, the memorandum as to the population of 1771 is dated in 1790. These are simply memoranda, and, with the notes by Judge Morris respecting the number, employments, &c. of the French inhabitants, have no official character.

21. Quit rents paid by the Acadians in the various districts for 1743, 1752, 1753. (1 page.)

25. Memoir of Le Comte De Raymond, 1753, concerning his services. (4 pages.)

26. Quit rents paid by the Acadians in 1754-55. (About 4 pages.)

30. Letter containing orders to Lieutenant Pernette to deliver the written instructions to the commanding officers relative to the deportation of the Acadians, dated Secretary's Office, 28th August 1755. (A short letter.)

35. Petition of Ferdinand John Paris, appointed by a committee of freeholders in Halifax to represent the grievances of the province (see paper 34, in volume 19,069), dated 4th February 1758, also the letters to Paris (unsigned), dated 15th March and 2nd April 1757, on the same subject. (22 large and 10 small pages.)

37. Treaty of peace and friendship, concluded at Halifax by Sir Charles Lawrence, Governor, &c., for Nova Scotia, with Paul Laurent, Chief of the La Have Indians, March 1760. (15 pages.)

39. Description of the several towns in this province, the lands comprehended within and bordering on said towns. The compiler of the collection says that this description of Nova Scotia was drawn up by order of the Honourable Jonathan Belcher, President of the Council, &c., but the title I have given above is all that is on the paper itself, there being neither date nor signature. The date is said to be 1762-63. (28 pages.)

40. Three letters (in French) from Jacques Robin, and translation by Governor Wilmot of another. The letters are dated from London, in May and June 1763, and from Halifax in July 1764. They refer to the settlement of the country.

41. Petition by the Acadians on the River St. John to Governor Montague Wilmot, and condemnatory remarks by him. (3 pages.)

There is no date on either document. On the latter is endorsed, 31st January 1764.

43. State and condition of Nova Scotia, with returns of families settled in Horton, Cornwallis, Falmouth, and New Port, in King's County, giving the numbers in each family and township, and a tabulated statement of the cattle, grain, and roots raised in 1763. (12 pages.)

44. Petition from the inhabitants of King's County and Windsor, with memorial, praying that the Acadians may be allowed to remain, 23rd March 1765. (About 2 pages.)

45. Statement, without signature, dated Halifax, N.S., 18th April 1769, of the circumstances of the Protestant Dissenters in Nova Scotia, and petition from the royalists of the Church of Scotland in Shelburne.

47-48. Copies of papers on defences, stated to be those of Nova Scotia. The papers, however, relate entirely to the defences of New York, Staten Island, and Rhode Island, together with a private note, 1779. (15 pages.)

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

49. Sketch of Nova Scotia, drawn up by Judge Deschamps in 1782. (10 pages.)

54. Account of the Acadians and their traditions, by Rev. Hugh Graham, written in 1791. (15 pages.)

55. The Acadians and their removal, an account drawn up by Mr. Brook Watson in 1791. (7 pages.)

56. Notes from tradition and memory of the Acadian removal, by Mr. Fraser, of Miramichi, drawn up in 1815. (7 pages.)

58. Account of the Acadians and of the Indian tribes of Nova Scotia, by Moses de la Dernier, no date. (8 pages.)

The sketches and notes from 49 are not official, but were prepared as a help to Dr. Brown for his history, and written by men who were, to a great extent, engaged in the occurrences, and familiar with the lives of the people they describe.

61. Copy of the Oath of Fidelity and a note signed "Wm. Shaw," dated 28th November 1764, stating that the French have declined to take the oath proposed, although fully sensible of the distress in which their refusal will involve them. (2 pages.)

This is a small size volume.

14. Judge Morris' account of the Acadians, drawn up in 1753, as stated by Dr. Brown, for there is neither date nor signature on the paper itself. It relates to events prior to the settlement of Halifax. A note at the end, dated in 1791, apparently in the handwriting of Dr. Brown, says that the statements in this paper were used as an argument to enforce and a reason to justify the removal of the Acadians. (8 pages.) Add: 19,072.

17. Extracts from the record of the Whitehall State Papers and of the Council of Nova Scotia concerning Acadia and the Acadians and the German settlement of Lunenburg. These extend from Governor Cornwallis (1750) to the departure of Governor Hopson (1753), and thence to 1762. (20 small pages.)

22. Governor Lawrence's letters to the Board of Trade concerning the French inhabitants, with account of their position, habits, &c.; two letters, dated 5th December 1753, and 4th August 1754. (16 pages.)

29. Governor Lawrence's returns of troops and forts, &c., in Nova Scotia. Letters to the Board of Trade, without date, stated to be 25th September 1754, and remarks on the state of the Isthmus of Chignecto, also without date, about 1755. (4 pages.)

31. Judge Morris' remarks concerning the removal of the Acadians.

To this has been added, in Dr. Brown's handwriting, "the difficulties to be apprehended and the means of surmounting them." The paper is dated summer 1775. (15 small pages.)

In a note at the end it is stated that the report was drawn up for the Council, on a reference to Judge Morris, and that it was found among the Council files.

32. Paper drawn up by the same on the causes of the war of 1756. (6 pages.)

33. Letter by the colonists concerning the state of the provinces, intended to raise the people of England. There is no date beyond a query, 1757.

There seems every reason to believe, from an examination and comparison of the contents of the letter, that it was forwarded to Mr. Paris, the agent for the memorialists, in which case the conjectural date would be correct. (See Vol. 19069, No. 34, memorial dated 1757, and 19071; No. 35, the petition of Paris.) The present paper fills 16 pages.

The rest of the volume is taken up with the draught of part of Dr. Brown's proposed history.

16. Commission to Governor Cornwallis by George III., 1749. (13 Add: 19,073. pages.)

I have given the title in the collection, which is apt to mislead. George III. did not come to the throne till 1760, and the Commission itself bears that it was granted by George II.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

18. Instructions of Governor Cornwallis to Major Lawrence on his going to Chignecto, 1750. (1 small page.)

23. Anthony Casteel's Journal, whilst prisoner with the Indians in May and June 1753. To the journal is prefixed a letter from Surveyor Morris to Mr. Cornwallis, London. (The whole makes 16½ pages.)

There is a condensed account of Casteel's deposition contained in the Nova Scotian Archives, under the head of "The most remarkable circumstances of this deposition transmitted to the Board of Trade." The journal, however, enters into the most minute details, the important bearing of it being the light it throws on the relations between the French and the Indians.

24. Correspondence (in French) between Pychon (Tyrel) and the British officers regarding the movements of the French in Canada. Captain Hussey's opinion of Pychon is added in English; 1753 to 1755. (15 pages.)

27. This and 28 contain papers relating to the deportation of the Acadians, the substance of the greater part of which has been published by the Government of Nova Scotia in the volume of Archives to which I have already referred. All the papers in this volume might, I am persuaded, be obtained at Halifax in full. Here there are simply extracts. I give, however, its contents as a matter of record.

36. Chief Justice Belcher's first despatch as President of the Council, 1760.

Memorial of Alexander McNeil, as to the status of settlers, addressed to the Lords of Trade.

38. Instructions to Chief Justice Belcher, as President of the Council, 1761.

42. Despatch by Governor Montague Wilmot, 10th December 1763.

46. Extraits des lettres écrites par le Lieutenant de Diemar à S. E. Monsieur le Lieutenant-General Murray, pendant le temps qu'il fût envoyé pour les intelligences en France, 1777.

These letters are those of a shrewd observer. They refer to the negotiations of Franklin in Paris; to the part taken by Beaumarchais in furnishing vessels for the Americans; to the King's unwillingness to go to war, and his displeasure at Lafayette, and to the favour shown to the warlike party by the Queen under the inspiration of the Duke de Choiseul. The conditions of the finances, the probabilities for and against war, and the state of public feeling in France, are very intelligently stated.

50 and 51. Documents relative to the appointment of the Bishop (Anglican) of Nova Scotia, 1787. These contain a view of the relative powers of the Crown and of the Church, the means to be used by the Assembly to provide for the support of the clergy of the Church of England, &c.

52. Letters and memorabilia, concerning the Acadians, by Judge Deschamps.

The letters are mere notes promising or apologising for not giving information. A copy of the oath prescribed for the Acadians when General Philips was Governor of Annapolis, with a printed article from a magazine, with the title "The case of the Acadians stated," being an answer to the account given by the Abbé Raynal. The notes are dated in 1789 and 1790.

53. Notes of Mr. Gray on the Acadians, with a notice of the country, &c.

The paper is exactly such as it is described to be—a few notes to assist Dr. Brown in his projected work; the historical information contained in it being all obtainable elsewhere.

57. Observations on the progress of agriculture in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, with notes of Acadian manners and customs, in support of a project of Mr. Moses de la Dernier for raising a fund to defray the expense of introducing labourers into the colony.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

Simply an emigration pamphlet, prepared for publication to promote the settlement of the province, but with a sketch of the manners and customs of the Acadians, and calculations of the amount required by the settler. (No date.)

59. Original letter from Père Manach.

The writer is well known in Acadian history. The letter, which is dated at Paris, from the Séminaire des Missions Étrangères, 4th March 1763, is almost altogether on private affairs, but Father Manach declares in it that he has done nothing to render him suspected, and speaks of the proper way to get letters forwarded.

It is called by the arranger of these papers, "a precious original letter," which it is, no doubt, in the eyes of a collector; but its value consists in the fact of its being original, and not from the nature of its contents.

62. Is a copy of the charter of 1621 to Sir William Alexander. I have spoken elsewhere in this report of the whole of the papers connected with the claims founded on this charter.

Meteorological Observations in Halifax, Nova Scotia. The records are by two different persons. The first gives a consecutive account of his observations from the 1st January 1776 to the 31st December 1777; then, from 1st January 1786 to 31st August 1787, with the winds twice a day, thermometrical readings twice, a clear account of the state of the weather daily, and occasionally notes of remarkable occurrences. The other begins on 1st June 1793, continuing to the end of November 1794. Thermometrical readings, the direction of the wind and the state of the weather, are given four times daily: at 8 a.m., and at 1, 5, and 10 p.m. The records in both cases are methodically kept. Add: 19,071.

The two volumes containing the rough draught of Dr. Brown's proposed history, to which I have already referred. Add: 19,075-19,076.

Abstract of the Commissions and Instructions formerly, and at this time, given to the Governors of His Majesty's plantations in America, and references to the books and papers showing the alterations that have been made therein, as also observations on the most remarkable occurrences in each Government, especially before the establishment of this office in 1696. The date prefixed is MDCCXL. Add: 39,372.

There are abstracts of commissions (original page 24) and abstracts of instructions (page 25) for Nova Scotia; the same for Newfoundland (pages 26 to 29), and observations on the plantations in general (pages 30 and 31). The Commissions are dated from 1719 to 1742, and there are abstracts and notes going back to 1621 and a list of the Lords of Plantations from the date of the creation of the office in 1696.

The collection in 58 pages—many containing only a few lines—gives a complete history of the measures taken to conduct and regulate the government of the "plantations" from the earliest date. The abstracts, references to acts, regulations, and minutes were evidently compiled as an office guide for preparing the commissions and instructions for the various Governors on their appointment to the colonies, and also as a help in deciding questions referred to the decision of the Lords for Trade and Plantation. They are now valuable from a historical point of view.

Miscellaneous Tracts.

Memorial by Colonel Robert Quarrie, 16th June 1703.

The memorial is addressed to "The Right Honourable," but no name given. Add: 6,273.

Beyond a suggestion that to secure alliance and peace with the Indians, the French should be driven out of Canada, there is nothing affecting our interests. The memorial is dated from New York, and extends to 26 closely written pages.

This volume is one of those classed as select, containing special valuable papers not allowed to be taken from the manuscript room. It contains only one letter bearing on our history, being the instructions of Charles I. to the Ambassador in France (Sir Isaac Wake), dated in 1631. The Harleian, 1,760.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

greater part relates to negotiations respecting the Queen's portion, and as all that is of interest to Canada is summed up in a few lines, I give them here. After stating what the French envoy's powers were, Charles proceeds: "And on yours (the powers, that is) the rendering of Quebec and retyring from Port Royal, for which Philip Boulamachy will deliver you formall and solemn instruments under our hand and seale." * * *

"One thing remains touching the remainder of the portion * * * and another touching the retyring of our subjects out of Canada and those parts; that an abolition should be made of all acts published in France against any, particularly the three brothers Kirke employed in that occasion, in like manner as we have formerly demanded touching the Baron de la Tour and his sonne, with whom Sir William Alexander had treaty, which was found reasonable to that King's Ministers, and must still be insisted upon."

The letter is signed by the King's own hand at the beginning. The whole letter occupies four closely written pages.

For convenience of reference I give the consecutive numbers of the volumes in which are documents relating to British North America, with the title of the collection. In the account contained in this report I have not followed the numerical order of the documents, but have tried to group together, as nearly as possible, those relating to the same subjects, whilst refraining (by not too closely adhering to the principle) from breaking up the contents of the volumes into fragments. For this reason I have put no distinctive headings. These are very serviceable where the nature of the report admits of their use, but in the present instance they would have been a useless restraint. The "Sloane" (for reasons there stated) will not be found in the general list, but I give the reference here, as it is useful.

* These briefs were presented by Mr. John Stevenson Salt in 1829. After the repeal (8 George IV.) of the Act regulating their issue (4 Anne cap. 14) down to the date of the repeal (1828), briefs had been issued by the King to authorise collections for alms, since shortly after the Reformation. The present collections begin in 1754.

No. 3.—Report on Canadian Archives—continued.

The Sloane collection, acquired in 1753, now comes under the general head of Additional; it numbers 4,000 volumes. The Egerton, when acquired, consisted of 1,613 volumes; it and the Additional are the only two which have increased in number, the others being complete when acquired. The Additional consists of a large number of small collections, and it would only be in the case of an acquisition of more than usual importance, left in trust, that another distinctive collection would be specially named. The Harleian and Lansdowne collections are two instances of trust, the family trustees being joined to the trustees of the Museum in the responsibility for their safe keeping.

The slightest consideration will show that by no possibility could the whole of the volumes in the collections named have been examined in the time during which I have been occupied, as they contain, at a fair estimate, about (in round numbers) 5,000,000 documents. It is desirable, therefore, to meet in advance any objections on this score to the statement that a list of all the documents in this institution relating to British North America is contained in this report.

The volumes may be classed under three heads:—

1. Those which contain either information concerning, or references to, any part of British North America.

2. Those which, from their nature, may contain information of the kind desired.

3. Those which, from their character, cannot contain such information. The latter class includes a mass of papers, leaving the others more easily dealt with. Taking the first class I examined them carefully, volume by volume, making such notes as enabled me to prepare the report. It was evident that with the second class such a course would be a waste of time. I carefully read the indexes which give a brief account of the contents of each paper in the volume, and on the slightest hint of information obtained and examined the volume itself. It was in this way that the two short paragraphs were obtained, which are embodied in this report, of the Instructions of Charles I. to his ambassador touching the absolute surrender of Canada, Port Royal, &c., to the French, the only paragraph out of 7,639 volumes. In the de Seguier and de Brienne manuscripts of 156 volumes, carried off from France in 1722, in the library of the Bishop of Coutances, Charles François de Loménie, and subsequently acquired by the British Museum, the list of subjects contained in the catalogue showed that the documents were of a very varied nature, being political, religious, military, and private, but in not one was the most distant allusion made to colonies so far as I could discover. The volume numbered 4,551 had, however, no table of contents, simply a note stating: "It is particularly interesting in this country, as it contains letters and despatches relative to the British dominions."

The papers extended from 1643 to 1657, during a great part of which period important controversies between the French and British were taking place in North America. The volume I found on examination to contain reports sent to the Court of France from the French ambassador to London and French envoys to Scotland, respecting the struggle of Charles with the Parliament, the rise of Cromwell, the negotiations with Scotland, the views of Argyll, Montrose, and other leaders, and even a translation of the Solemn League and Covenant, but no reference whatever is made to colonial affairs in any one of the 1,348 pages of the volume.

There are Spanish manuscripts in considerable number scattered through the different collections, some of which, I was informed, would be found to bear on our history. A special catalogue of these papers is in course of preparation by Don Pascual de Gayangos, two volumes of which have been published by the Trustees of the Museum. This enabled me to satisfy myself that, so far as the list yet extends, there are no papers among these manuscripts likely to throw light on our past history.

It will be seen that I have carefully refrained from cumbering the report with lists of collections examined and found barren, or of printed works consulted for the verification of facts, dates, persons, or such circumstances as might be necessary to determine the value of documents. In entering so fully as I have done into the manner of conducting the investigation, I have been actuated by the desire to show conclusively, that a complete list of all the manuscript documents relating to the history of British North America, contained in the Museum at the end of October 1881, is contained in the report I have now the honour to present. Such a result could not have been obtained without the help of the gentlemen connected with the Museum. I must ask permission to speak particularly of the services rendered me by Mr. Kensington, with whom I was brought more immediately into contact, whose thorough knowledge of the manuscripts and unfailing anxiety to comply with what I felt were sometimes almost unreasonable demands, were a most essential help. In addition, I was, through the kindness of Mr. Richard Garnet, superintendent, shown through the inner working departments of the Museum, so that the system might be fully explained and the plans for facilitating the work of assorting, arranging, and cataloguing be understood. The information thus obtained will be of great service.

ARCHIVES AT OTTAWA.

Since the last report I have prepared an analytical index of the volumes of the Haldimand collection which were in the repository previous to my leaving for London, and indexes of the other papers are now in progress. Additions continue to be made to the collection both of printed and manuscript papers. A catalogue has been made showing all the documents now in the fire-proof vaults.

The work of copying the Haldimand and Bouquet collections of manuscripts in the British Museum has been completed since my return, and the task of comparing and verifying the transcripts is reported as being nearly finished. In the course of a short time these collections will be in the possession of the Department, and no time will be lost in having an analytical index prepared for the remaining volumes, similar to that already completed for the volumes formerly received. Before leaving London I gave instructions to have copied a volume containing the correspondence of the Count de Puisaye, relating to the proposed settlement of French loyalists in Upper Canada, and reports and relative documents respecting Quebec, Montreal, and Three Rivers in 1762–63, from Generals Murray, Gage, and Burton, it being desirable to have these, in order to complete the information and correspondence now in the Archives, but incomplete.

The value of the collection is gradually beginning to be appreciated, and the wisdom of the decision to have complete copies of the collections selected has been fully justified, by the acknowledgments of the investigators, who have obtained valuable historical information from what must appear to many very unpromising material. It is scarcely necessary to say that every facility has been afforded to those who have applied for information and for access to the papers.

In preparing the following catalogue, I have, in the case of public documents anterior to Confederation, given the dates in detail. The object of this is to call the attention of residents of the different Provinces to the gaps that exist, which may possibly be filled up by their means. The most complete of the series is that of the Legislative Assembly of New Brunswick, there being an almost entire fyle of the journals from the first meeting of the Legislature in 1786, with two breaks (1834, 1835), down to 1859, the years 1860 to 1865 being wanting. Since Confederation, the Journals are wanting from 1873, inclusive. These and all Sessional Papers of all dates would be of great service. Of the Council, there are continuous journals from 1786 to 1836, but only 1845, 1871, and 1872 of a more recent date. Those of Nova Scotia and of the old Province of Canada will be found in the catalogue. Of the separate Provinces of Canada East and West (Upper and Lower Canada), and of Prince Edward Island, we have no separate records, nor of British Columbia; it would be of interest to have them as well as those of the Council of Assiniboia. I would respectfully suggest, therefore, that the attention of the representatives from the different Provinces might be directed to the importance of having in one collection, not only such papers as I have referred to, but all papers bearing on the history of the various portions of the Dominion. The work of collection is only in its infancy, but if properly carried out and supported by the co-operation of all who can render effectual assistance, with comparatively slight trouble, it should form the nucleus of a most valuable depository, not only of printed works, but of manuscripts, which otherwise, as I have already stated, will probably before long be destroyed.

A number of the more recent acquisitions are not yet bound. I have specified the number of the unbound papers, but as it will be advantageous to group together some of the same character into one bound volume, I have not extended the total number, since when bound, as I propose doing, the numbers would not agree with those given in the present catalogue. It will be seen, however, by referring to past reports, how large an addition has been made to the documents, bound and unbound. The catalogue, as will be seen, is divided into two parts; the one giving the manuscript, the other the printed papers.
